Banker William Murray Sr. Dies In San Rafael At 84

William Paul Murray Sr. longtime San Rafael banker and scion of a pioneer Marin family, died yesterday afternoon of a heart attack in his San Rafael home at 249 Seaview Avenue. He was 84.

He died only little more than an hour after speaking at the San Rafael Rotary Club luncheon at the West End Villa to honor past presidents of the club, of which he was a charter member 46 years ago. As the fourth president of the club, he discussed its history during a brief talk, closing with a poem on what Rotary meant to him.

Murray generally did not leave Rotary meetings early, but left the meeting immediately after his talk.

He joined the then new Bank of San Rafael in 1911 as a cashier, and in 1933 was elected president of the affilated Bank of San Rafael and First National Bank in San Rafael. He retired in 1961, when the two banks were merged into the Crocker-Anglo National Bank, predecessor of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank.

Murray was born on First Street in San Rafael. His mother and father, Eurphenia and Adam, both of Scottish descent, were born in Canada and moved to San Rafael in 1869. Adam Murray was a builder, contractor and partner in a lumber business on A Street. His wife was a founder of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, which her son later served as an elder.

WILLIAM P. MURRAY SR.
Banker, civic leader

"I was born in San Rafael just after the Indians left," Murray said a few years ago. An inveterate traveler, he once located the log cabin near Ottawa where his mother was born.

Murray attended San Rafael schools and Heald's Business College in San Francisco.

After college, he worked as an office boy in San Francisco for the Equitable Life Assurance Co.

"But I always intended to be a banker," Murray said many years later. "Ever since I was a little boy that was my plan," he said.

In the fall of 1904, he started his 57-year career in banking as an employee at the Humboldt Savings Bank in San Francisco. It was seven years later that he joined the Bank of San Rafael.

Murray and his wife, the former Lillian Quandt, were married in St. Paul's Methodist Church in San Francisco in 1916, and lived all their married life in San Rafael. They reared their family and lived for 40 years at 1563 Lincoln Avenue. The "Murray Mansion" has been moved to Prospect Drive.

Their new home on a hill overlooking the bay is surrounded by gardens filled with flowers, a longtime hobby. The Murrays also spent time visiting their

Marin Held Big Market For Peddlers Of Drugs

JAIL LSD VICTIMS?

Lawmakers Hear Differing Views

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., acting chairman of the House Commerce Committee's Health subcommittee said today young persons in some cases should be jailed to "get them off" the LSD kick.

Rogers, citing instances where the drug has made young people mentally ill or resulted in birth of deformed babies, said "it would be better to have them in jail to get them off this."

"What we have got to do is to get to the problem now and stop it," Rogers said.

The head of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, Henry L. Giordano, told Rogers' panel that penalties for abuse of LSD are "grossly inadequate." He endorsed an administration bill to tighten them up.

Giordano said he had no doubt a pending bill to make individual possession or use of LSD a misdemeanor would deter "use of drugs by countless persons who might otherwise be tempted to experiment, often with disastrous consequences."

Giordano disagreed with Dr. James L. Goddard, head of the Food and Drug Administration, who contended yesterday that a penalty for individual possession does not act as a deterrent.

Giordano said absence of any law against possession of LSD or similar drugs "has made it appear to young persons that society condones their abuse."

RAISES PENALTIES

The pending bill would make possession of nonprescription amphetamines or barbiturates, as well as LSD, a misdemeanor, and would raise penalties for dealing in such drugs from a misdemeanor to a felony.

Present laws against illicit trafficking in these three groups of drugs are currently administered by a unit of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), while Giordano's bureau enforces a substantially tougher set of laws against marijuana, heroin and similar narcotics.

ON RECORD

Giordano is on record as believing that the stiffer penalties for marijuana offenses, including up to 10 years in prison and up to $10,000 for personal possession, have acted as a deterrent.

In a carefully played down split with the administration, Goddard yesterday said he "personally" opposed making criminals of young individuals caught possessing or using LSD.

However, Dr. Goddard said he officially supported the administration proposal because the law enforecement experts wanted it and, after full discussion of their different views, he deferred to them on enforcement.

Goddard, who described LSD as "one of the most dangerous drugs with which I am acquainted," said everybody agreed that the most important thing was to crack down on suppliers. But he said enforcement experts wanted to close a loophole through which some peddlers escaped by saying the drugs in their possession were for personal use only and not for sale.

Sausalito A Major Center, Agents Say

By STEPHEN COOK

Marin County, in the last year, has been the playground, the open market place for peddlers of all forms of narcotics.

This was the description given yesterday by two narcotics agents of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau.

"Between the two of us, we must have 10 or 12 years of experience in narcotics investigations and we've never seen anything like it," said Agent A.

The agents, whose undercover investigation during the last four months helped lead to the arrest of 62 sellers and users of narcotics over the weekend, asked that they remain anonymous. They are going under cover in the county again.

In Sausalito, the men said, they found such a free-wheeling dope market that it was easier for a person to blow his mind on his favorite narcotic than to sip an after-five martini at the crowded bars. (See also stories, page 8.)

"They were selling it and using it right on the street and they had access to an awful lot of narcotics," said Agent B.

"One guy would walk up to me on the street and ask 'What do you want today, man — opium, smack, speed, weed?' and when I told him what and how much, he would say 'Is that all?' he said.

When the drug abuse bureau opened its investigation in November, the bureau's four inspectors elected to begin in Sausalito.

"We had heard there was a large concentration of narcotics dealers there," said Agent A.

"We just dressed in shabby clothes and went out onto the streets. Within an hour, there were people offering to sell us narcotics. From there it started snowballing," said Agent B.

"They could get you anything you wanted. We had plenty of chances to buy heroin, but generally we would have had to go to San Francisco for it," he added.

"In this county, it's harder to buy alcohol. I saw a group of five 9-year-olds by the old ferry terminal smoking pot. I saw a 12-year-old boy standing in a fish and chip place, smoking a marijuana cigarette.

"He threw it away half-smoked and said: 'Man, that's the worst weed I ever had.'," said Agent B. "These are just babies."

The agents reported they were in Sausalito only a short time before they were accepted in the world of the narcotics dealers and users.

"Perfect strangers would come up on the street and hit on him," said Agent A of Agent B. "They'd ask if he wanted to buy anything."

"We'd never seen anything like this before. Anyone, if he knew what he was looking for, could spot the drugs."

Eventually, their investigation settled on what the agents determined were the three easiest areas of the county for buying and selling drugs — Sausalito, San Rafael and San Geronimo Valley.

'Blooper' Darkens State Fund Scene

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $152 million mistake plunged the Reagan administration into another major financial crisis today and threatened to eliminate promised property tax relief for millions of Californians.

The administration — blaming Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh — reported his 1967 bill boosting state aid to local schools will cost much more than expected.

Finance Director Gordon P. Smith told legislative finance committees that spending had been underestimated by about $70 million for the current year and $82 million for the following fiscal year.

He called it a "glaring Unruh blooper" and said, "I trust Mr. Unruh will accept responsibility for the error in estimating the costs of his bill."

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, nonpartisan fiscal adviser to lawmakers, confirmed Smith's figures, but shouldered some of the blame himself.

"If there was a blooper, it wasn't Mr. Unruh's blooper, it was our blooper and some others'," Post said.

Post told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee the error was made in the final hours of the 1967 session, when tired legislators hastily put together a compromise, omnibus bill boosting school aid and revising the financing of many local school programs.

Post said the problem is so serious it could derail all of Reagan's fiscal plans, including his high-priority program of giving Californians $194 million in property tax reductions next year. These were scheduled to be financed by surplus revenues in the General Fund, produced by the governor's $1 billion tax hike of 1967.

Now, legislative fiscal experts agreed, the governor would be hard-pressed to keep state spending within the limits of his tax hike — biggest in the history of any state.

Post said all property tax relief money "plus an additional" $25 million from other sources will be needed to balance the budget in 1968-69.

The disclosure came just a few hours after the administration said it had found a surplus in another area — the Medi-Cal program of health aid to the poor.

Break Reported In Plan For Colorado River Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — A breakthrough was reported in a fight between California and Arizona which has stymied congressional approval of a proposed $1 billion Colorado River water project.

Chairman Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., of the House Interior Committee said committee members reached a partial agreement aimed at solving the disagreement.

The action was taken at an Interior subcommittee meeting on authorization legislation for the Central Arizona project and five smaller irrigation units in Colorado.

The partial agreement, Aspinall said, "provides for division of the lower Colorado River basin water as early as possible under the terms of the (Supreme Court) decree."

Aspinall said the provision would give Arizona 2.8 million acre-feet of water annually, California would receive 4.4 million acre-feet and Nevada 300,000 acre-feet.

If the total 7.5 million acre-feet were not available, Aspinall said, the secretary of interior would be called upon to make a division.

North Vietnam Quarantine Is Demanded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard B. Russell said today the war in Vietnam could be ended in a "reasonably short time" without the dispatch of more U. S. troops if America imposed a tight air-sea quarantine on the Communist north.

It would require a "less timid" bombing policy in the north, plus the air and naval forces to enforce such a quarantine, the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in an interview.

But the alternative is many more troops, a long period of warfare and enormous expenditure as long as the United States keeps on fighting "by the book...according to the plans of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong," he said.

The Georgia Democrat, one of the Senate's top military experts, said the recent Communist offensive made it "very evident that we have underestimated the strength of the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong and have woefully underestimated their capacity for planning and execution."

"If we will quarantine it (North Vietnam)," he said, "close off the North Vietnamese coast and keep the rail lines to China down, I think the war can be brought to an end in a reasonably short time."

Smith Is Still Silent On Senate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Finance Director Gordon P. Smith said today he will hold a news conference Thursday to announce whether he will enter the race for the Republican nomination for U.S. senator.

Smith met for an hour with Dr. Max Rafferty, the state school chief who had already announced his challenge of U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel in the June primary.

After the meeting Smith told reporters "I do not believe that a three man race is in the best interests of the Republican party. It's as simple as that."

But he declined to say whether he asked Rafferty to withdraw or whether Rafferty agreed to pull out.

U.S. Planes Bomb Invaders In Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—Green berets ambushed a Communist tank column barely 65 miles from Saigon last night and broke up the first such armored drive into the capital area. But other Communist units attacked Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase with rockets today and destroyed a number of planes.

Informed U. S. sources said American planes were bombing in neutral Laos in close support of Laotian troops threatened by a major North Vietnamese offensive—the first time U. S. planes have given direct support to the Laotian army. Other planes had bombed red supply trails in Laos.

The attack on Tan Son Nhut airport also destroyed 120 houses in a nearby government army camp but new censorship restrictions did not allow correspondents to report damage to the base itself.

The informed U.S. sources said the American jets struck in Laos under the direction of GI ground spotters, hoping to stem what the Laos defense ministry called a North Vietnamese attack along a 325-mile front up and down the neighboring

They said the Americans are striking in close support of the Laotian troops who had been reported falling back to the cities of Paksane, on the Mekong River border with Thailand, and to Saravane and Attopeu, 250 to 300 miles to the south. Thai officials yesterday warned they faced "much trouble" by the North Vietnamese advance.

In other developments, Communist forces slammed heavy barrages into American positions along the North-South Vietnam border. Spokesmen reported sporadic fighting in the Central Highlands—midway between the border and Saigon—where U.S. intelligence officers said the Communists might try to open a second front to aid an expected North Vietnamese invasion drive from the northern frontier.

Saigon Fires Powerful Regional Commanders

SAIGON (UPI — Two of South Vietnam's powerful corps commanders have been fired by the Saigon government, Vietnamese sources said today.

It was the second top-level military shakeup this month and followed long urging by U.S. officials who sought more aggressive Vietnamese army leaders.

The two were Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Manh of IV Corps, covering most of the Mekong Delta, and Lt. Gen. Vinh Loc of II Corps in the Central Highlands.

Loc is a cousin of Bao Dai, the deposed emperor of Vietnam. His 12-province highlands region is the home of the tough Montagnard tribesmen and Loc had developed a strong following among them.

South Vietnam has four corps and the position of corps commander is one of the most powerful in the nation. The commanders have often administered their areas as personal fiefdoms.

The sources said Manh will be replaced in IV Corps by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thanh, the aggressive former pacification program chief. Thanh is highly regarded by American military men in Saigon.

Maj. Gen. Lu Mong Lan replaced Loc in the Central Highlands area, the sources said.

Loc is a member of Vietnam's former royal family and has been a formidable political power. His replacement, Lan, was deputy chief of staff for training and a director of the Vietnamese War College before the shakeup in corps commands.

Re-Entry Missile Probe Is Launched

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — An experimental re-entry vehicle in the advanced ballistic re-entry systems program was launched yesterday at 11:35 p.m. (PST) from here, the Air Force said.

The vehicle was sent down the Air Force Western Test Range by an Atlas F booster.

Federal Debt Sets Record: $350 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department said today the federal debt exceeded $350 billion for the first time in history the day before Washington's birthday.

In its daily summary of income and outgo, the department fixed the exact level of the gross federal debt at $352,546,363,116.57 as of Feb. 21.

On that day, the department put on its books the $4.25 billion in new cash it borrowed this month. This raised both the cash balance and the gross debt an equal amount.

The total debt subject to the $358 billion debt ceiling fixed last year by Congress is about $2 billion higher than the gross debt because the government must now include sales of participation certificates under the ceiling.

Thus far in the fiscal year, the government has sold $2.25 billion of the certificates, which are much like bonds and are backed by pools of government-owned loans and mortgages.

Other items totaling $260 million are part of the gross debt but are not subject to the ceiling.

Cuba Boat Puts Trio Into Water

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A Cuban ship lowered three men in a rowboat into the Atlantic off the Virginia Capes today and then proceeded to ram the small boat and open fire on the men in the water, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard cutter Point Brown, which had made contact with the Cuban vessel, was immediately told to attempt saving the men but was ordered not to fire.

There was no immediate word on the fate of the three men, presumably political refugees

Illinois Demos Bypass Shriver

CHICAGO (UPI)—Illinois Democratic leaders today passed over two nationally known names and picked Atty. Gen. William G. Clark to oppose Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen's bid for re-election.

Lt. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro was picked as the candidate to succeed Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner, who has announced he will not try for a third term.

The party slatemakers passed over two widely named possibilities, State Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III and R. Sargent Shriver, director of the War on Poverty.

Romney May Ask Rockefeller Aid

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Romney camp was weighing the case today for arranging another New Hampshire appearance by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to try to boost the Michigan governor's lagging primary campaign.

With the balloting just two weeks away, Gov. George Romney is judged to be far behind his chief rival for the Republican presidential nomination, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and steadily losing ground.

HOLDING BACK

Ironically, it is partly Rockefeller, a GOP moderate and staunch Romney backer, who is holding down the Michigan Governor's prospects for a good showing.

Although Rockefeller is an avowed noncandidate, a write-in campaign is flourishing in his behalf and some politicians now predict Rockefeller will run ahead of Romney, though well behind Nixon.

Early in the campaign Rockefeller actively discouraged the write-in campaigners, but of late he has left them alone.

Rockefeller's weekend statement that he would accept a convention draft —a development he said was unlikely — further muddied the water, casting gloom on the Romney organization and raising allegations in some newspapers that Rockefeller was selling Romney out.

ONE VISIT

The New York governor has made one New Hampshire appearance for Romney, and John Deardoff, Romney's No. 2 man, said yesterday another was under consideration.

In Mississippi today, voters were choosing a successor to former Democratic Rep. John Bell Williams from among six segregationists and the state's most prominent Negro leader.

The Negro is Charles Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medger Evers, and he was given an excellent chance of doing well enough in today's special election to get in the runoff election with one of his six white opponents. A runoff will be held between the top two vote getters if no one gets a majority in the first election.

Democratic slatemakers in Illinois, faced with a large field of potential candidates for U.S. senator and governor, held over to today their final selection.

Adlai Stevenson III, state treasurer and son of the late United Nations ambassador, twice appeared before the group to discuss the Senate seat, but he apparently created some reservations among the ticket-makers when he said he might not be able to support President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

Another much touted prospective candidate, R. Sargent Shriver, War on Poverty director, did not show up for a hearing before the panel yesterday.

ALONE AGAIN

Meantime, Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, peace candidate for the Democratic nomination, found himself alone for the moment on the campaign trail in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

He said in Worcester, Mass., that the Vietnam war did not square with America's past decisions to take up arms against an enemy.

In Concord, Mass., however, voters rejected by a 3-2 margin a resolution opposing further prosecution of the war in Vietnam. Completed returns showed, 1,401 supporting the resolution, 2,188 opposing it, and 136 blanks. The vote was taken on ballots separate from those for town offices.

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace was ruled eligible yesterday for listing as an independent candidate on South Dakota's November presidential ballot.

Junior College Deferments Explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has advised local draft boards they may grant deferments to students at two-year colleges and vocational schools.

The question of whether the policy, written into law last year by Congress, of mandatory deferments for college students also applied to students at two-year schools arose because the law said nothing about them. Some draft boards were calling these students for induction.

The schools objected and Hershey met yesterday with officials of the American Association of Junior Colleges, the United Business School Association and the American Vocational Association.

Then he issued a statement saying that local boards "may continue to consider" for deferment "those registrants who are pursuing a fulltime course of study that will not lead to a baccalaureate degree." He said such students should receive occupational rather than student deferments.

Although Hershey used the term "may," most boards treat his advice as directives.

The draft director said deferments should also continue for students who transfer from one school to another, whether a two or four year institution, as long as they "continue to make normal progress."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Rocket Trouble

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The launch of a large automated laboratory to observe space phenomena around earth has been delayed from Thursday to Friday by rocket trouble.

The space agency announced the one-day delay yesterday after engineers detected a problem in the fuel management system in the first stage of the satellite's Atlas-Agena launcher.

Pact Reached

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—Gov. David F. Cargo and representatives of New Mexico's public school teachers worked out a compromise agreement early today that averted a statewide teacher walkout and promised to end Albuquerque's six-day strike.

The agreement came after a 13-hour negotiating session.

The compromise plan called for a special joint task force of teachers and government officials to work out a new school finance plan before April 15 and set a date for Cargo to call a special session of the Legislature to enact it.

Student Bowls

ORANGEBURG, S. C. (UPI) —A Negro college student bowled last night in the bowling alley whose segregation policy triggered racial violence that killed three youths earlier this month.

John Stroman, a student at South Carolina State College, and a companion, James P. Davis, bowled at the All-Star Lanes while a half dozen detectives mingled with a "league night" crowd. There were no incidents.

Bill Is Pushed

LONDON (UPI)—Despite opposition in the Conservative and Liberal parties and in its own back benches, the governing Labor Party rushed into second reading today a bill to shut the door on thousands of Asians fleeing to Britain from Kenya.

The bill was expected to gain final passage by tomorrow and receive Queen Elizabeth's royal assent by Thursday.

China Quake

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese seismologists recorded a strong earthquake yesterday and reported it was centered near the Yangtze River in the central part of Communist China.

Seeks Clearance

ESSEN, Germany (AP) — The giant Krupp industrial concern wants the United States, Britain and France to rescind their 1953 order that the company divest itself of its steel and coal holdings. The order has never been carried out, but the company wants to get it off the books.

The three World War II allies issued the order to prevent revival of what they termed Krupp's "excessive concentration of economic power."

The company said in a statement yesterday there no longer was valid reason for the order since the last sole owner, Alfried Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach, died last July and the corporation went public Jan. 2.

DR. JOEL PRESSMAN
Husband of actress

Dies At 67

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Dr. Joel L. Pressman, husband for 32 years of Academy Award winning actress Claudette Colbert.

Dr. Pressman, a larynx specialist with a 40-year practice in Los Angeles, died of cancer yesterday at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center. He was 67.

A native of Philadelphia, he was graduated from the University of Virginia and the Harvard University School of Medicine. He was chief of the division of head and neck surgery at UCLA Medical School.

He and Miss Colbert were married in Yuma, Ariz., in 1935 when the actress was at the peak of her career, having won the film industry's top award for performance opposite Clark Gable in the 1934 comedy, "It Happened One Night."

Renovations Set

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (UPI)—The Air Force has announced plans to add lumbering C119 Flying Boxcars to its arsenal of tactical weapons.

The huge craft will be outfitted with high-speed automatic guns, the Air Force said yesterday, announcing a contract of nearly $21 million to the Fairchild-Hiller Corp.

Conversions will be made at Fairchild-Hiller installations in Florida, Maryland and California. Renovations will be similar to those made on the AC47 dragonship about three years ago.

Newspaper Fire

SEOUL (AP) —Five Koreans were killed today and three others were missing in a fire that destroyed much of the four-story building of the major Seoul newspaper, Hankook Ilbo.

Five persons were hospitalized with burns.

Another Charge

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claimed today that U.S. spy ships "recently" mingled with South Korean fishing boats and violated Communist territorial waters.

The North Korean Central News Agency did not say if the alleged violations occurred before or after the North Koreans seized the USS Pueblo on Jan. 23.

Jets Collide

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) —French military authorities today searched the Mediterranean for the pilots of two Mystere-4 jets that collided in flight yesterday and crashed in pieces into the sea.

Coed Sentenced

MADRID (AP) — A 23-year-old law coed who was arrested while handing out leaflets advocating the independence of the three Basque provinces was sentenced today to six months in prison and fined $142.

The girl, Maria-Iciar Fururia, was convicted by the National Court of Public Order of disseminating illegal propaganda.

Korean Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) —The Korean Mixed Armistice Commission met today to hear Communist complaints of alleged truce violations by the United Nations Command.

The seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew by the North Koreans Jan. 23 was not on the agenda and neither side made any mention of the affair during the meeting in this truce village.

The meeting was called by the Communists. It was the 346th session of the secretaries of the commission.

Clearing Canal

BALBOA, C. Z. (UPI)—Two-way traffic in the Gatun Lock of the Panama Canal probably will be resumed tomorrow or Thursday, a Panama Canal Co. spokesman said today.

One-way traffic through the canal resumed yesterday after an 18-hour stoppage caused by the sinking of the bow of the Japanese super ore freighter Shozan Maru. Workmen refloated the 33,000-ton vessel loaded with 50,800 tons of iron ore, enabling 84 backlogged ships to get moving again.

The Shozan Maru was towed to Gatun Lake for repairs and workemen worked round the clock to clear a two-way channel.

Suez Plea

LONDON (UPI)—All nations, including Israel, must be allowed to freely use the Suez Canal before it can be reopened, Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain said yesterday.

Toll Addition

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI)—Salvage workers in western Sicily yesterday discovered the body of another victim of the earthquake that struck Jan. 15. The discovery brought to 281 the known death toll in the quake.

American Sees Hatred Building Toward U.S. Troops In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is "creating more Viet Cong than we are destroying," says Arthur Z. Gardiner, former director of the American foreign aid agency in Saigon who now heads a federally backed organization operating there.

Saying he was expressing his personal views, Gardiner told an interviewer the United States should try hard for a peace settlement and pull its forces out of Vietnam.

ANOTHER POST

Gardiner, chief of the U.S. Agency for International Development mission in Saigon in 1958-62, receives a heavy flow of grass-roots reports from South Vietnam in his current post as executive director of International Voluntary Services (IVS).

IVS is a private nonprofit organization which began sending youthful volunteers to South Vietnam for development work a decade ago. Their activities in the cities and countryside—similar to those of the Peace Corps, which has no unit in Vietnam—are financed by the Washington and Saigon governments.

In the wake of the Communist Tet onslaught, some of the 155 IVS volunteers have decided to quit before the end of their two-year tours.

But a spokesman for the aid-administering Agency for International Development said there is no thought of withdrawing IVS altogether.

Gardiner said he wrote letters to two U.S. newspapers before the outbreak of Communist attacks at the end of January. In them he said:

NEW HATREDS

Hatred for America exists in most of Vietnam today "from the overbearing presence of 500,000 Americans," from jealousy of Vietnamese officials displaced in practice by U.S. advisers and from military tactics which have uprooted nearly a quarter of the civilian population.

Constructive efforts toward a peaceful and prosperous Vietnam "are doomed if they must depend on the leadership of an unstable, little-respected military clique" elected "by a small minority vote."

ARTHUR Z. GARDINER
Urges pullout

"Increasing numbers of Vietnamese are becoming benevolently neutral toward the Viet Cong—race, religion, xenophobia, all contribute."

MORAL DAMAGE

So much material and moral damage has been inflicted since 1965, when U.S. combat forces arrived, "that Vietnamese patriots will never be content until foreign influence has been eliminated from the government of their country."

"We must agree to withdraw from Vietnam on terms enabling us to save the lives of those who have reason to fear retribution if American soldiers can no longer protect them, not necessarily as large a group as are killed by the war in a few months' time; and to a settlement by the Vietnamese themselves, Northern and Southern, under conditions of order satisfactory to them and to the international community."

LBJ Asking For Permanent Extension Of Farm Supports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson sent Congress an election-year farm message today, calling for permanent extension of basic farm support programs plus new steps to create nonfarm jobs and better housing in depressed rural communities.

The message, made public here and at the Texas White House, also urged Congress to join the administration in searching for effective methods to give strong bargaining power to farmers whose crops are not supported by government programs.

In addition, Johnson called for new steps to aid small, low-income farmers including expanded government insured credits to help them begin new businesses and form cooperatives.

The entire package, Johnson said, was designed to bring "new prosperity to rural America" by aiding commercial farmers, small low income farmers, and millions of other rural people whose economic outlook is bleak because the number of farm jobs is declining and they are being forced, untrained, into urban slums.

Johnson said action on farm programs is needed because "the American farmer, who helped to build America's prosperity, still does not fully—or fairly—share in it."

Top listed in Johnson's package of legislative proposals and directives to reorient existing programs was his request for passage this year of a bill converting the basic 1965 Agricultural Act, due to expire at the end of 1969, into permanent legislation.

The act covers existing price support and production control programs for wheat, cotton and feed grains.

PRIMARY LAG

Romney May Ask Rockefeller Aid

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Romney camp was weighing the case today for arranging another New Hampshire appearance by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to try to boost the Michigan governor's lagging primary campaign.

With the balloting just two weeks away, Gov. George Romney is judged to be far behind his chief rival for the Republican presidential nomination, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and steadily losing ground.

HOLDING BACK

Ironically, it is partly Rockefeller, a GOP moderate and staunch Romney backer, who is holding down the Michigan Governor's prospects for a good showing.

Although Rockefeller is an avowed noncandidate, a write-in campaign is flourishing in his behalf and some politicians now predict Rockefeller will run ahead of Romney, though well behind Nixon.

Early in the campaign Rockefeller actively discouraged the write-in campaigners, but of late he has left them alone.

Rockefeller's weekend statement that he would accept a convention draft —a development he said was unlikely — further muddied the water, casting gloom on the Romney organization and raising allegations in some newspapers that Rockefeller was selling Romney out.

ONE VISIT

The New York governor has made one New Hampshire appearance for Romney, and John Deardoff, Romney's No. 2 man, said yesterday another was under consideration.

In Mississippi today, voters were choosing a successor to former Democratic Rep. John Bell Williams from among six segregationists and the state's most prominent Negro leader.

The Negro is Charles Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medger Evers, and he was given an excellent chance of doing well enough in today's special election to get in the runoff election with one of his six white opponents. A runoff will be held between the top two vote getters if no one gets a majority in the first election.

Democratic slatemakers in Illinois, faced with a large field of potential candidates for U.S. senator and governor, held over to today their final selection.

Adlai Stevenson III, state treasurer and son of the late United Nations ambassador, twice appeared before the group to discuss the Senate seat, but he apparently created some reservations among the ticket-makers when he said he might not be able to support President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

Another much touted prospective candidate, R. Sargent Shriver, War on Poverty director, did not show up for a hearing before the panel yesterday.

ALONE AGAIN

Meantime, Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, peace candidate for the Democratic nomination, found himself alone for the moment on the campaign trail in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

He said in Worcester, Mass., that the Vietnam war did not square with America's past decisions to take up arms against an enemy.

In Concord, Mass., however, voters rejected by a 3-2 margin a resolution opposing further prosecution of the war in Vietnam. Completed returns showed, 1,401 supporting the resolution, 2,188 opposing it, and 136 blanks. The vote was taken on ballots separate from those for town offices.

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace was ruled eligible yesterday for listing as an independent candidate on South Dakota's November presidential ballot.

Junior College Deferments Explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has advised local draft boards they may grant deferments to students at two-year colleges and vocational schools.

The question of whether the policy, written into law last year by Congress, of mandatory deferments for college students also applied to students at two-year schools arose because the law said nothing about them. Some draft boards were calling these students for induction.

The schools objected and Hershey met yesterday with officials of the American Association of Junior Colleges, the United Business School Association and the American Vocational Association.

Then he issued a statement saying that local boards "may continue to consider" for deferment "those registrants who are pursuing a fulltime course of study that will not lead to a baccalaureate degree." He said such students should receive occupational rather than student deferments.

Although Hershey used the term "may," most boards treat his advice as directives.

The draft director said deferments should also continue for students who transfer from one school to another, whether a two or four year institution, as long as they "continue to make normal progress."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Rocket Trouble

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The launch of a large automated laboratory to observe space phenomena around earth has been delayed from Thursday to Friday by rocket trouble.

The space agency announced the one-day delay yesterday after engineers detected a problem in the fuel management system in the first stage of the satellite's Atlas-Agena launcher.

Pact Reached

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI)—Gov. David F. Cargo and representatives of New Mexico's public school teachers worked out a compromise agreement early today that averted a statewide teacher walkout and promised to end Albuquerque's six-day strike.

The agreement came after a 13-hour negotiating session.

The compromise plan called for a special joint task force of teachers and government officials to work out a new school finance plan before April 15 and set a date for Cargo to call a special session of the Legislature to enact it.

Student Bowls

ORANGEBURG, S. C. (UPI) —A Negro college student bowled last night in the bowling alley whose segregation policy triggered racial violence that killed three youths earlier this month.

John Stroman, a student at South Carolina State College, and a companion, James P. Davis, bowled at the All-Star Lanes while a half dozen detectives mingled with a "league night" crowd. There were no incidents.

Bill Is Pushed

LONDON (UPI)—Despite opposition in the Conservative and Liberal parties and in its own back benches, the governing Labor Party rushed into second reading today a bill to shut the door on thousands of Asians fleeing to Britain from Kenya.

The bill was expected to gain final passage by tomorrow and receive Queen Elizabeth's royal assent by Thursday.

China Quake

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese seismologists recorded a strong earthquake yesterday and reported it was centered near the Yangtze River in the central part of Communist China.

Seeks Clearance

ESSEN, Germany (AP) — The giant Krupp industrial concern wants the United States, Britain and France to rescind their 1953 order that the company divest itself of its steel and coal holdings. The order has never been carried out, but the company wants to get it off the books.

The three World War II allies issued the order to prevent revival of what they termed Krupp's "excessive concentration of economic power."

The company said in a statement yesterday there no longer was valid reason for the order since the last sole owner, Alfried Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach, died last July and the corporation went public Jan. 2.

DR. JOEL PRESSMAN
Husband of actress

Dies At 67

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Dr. Joel L. Pressman, husband for 32 years of Academy Award winning actress Claudette Colbert.

Dr. Pressman, a larynx specialist with a 40-year practice in Los Angeles, died of cancer yesterday at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center. He was 67.

A native of Philadelphia, he was graduated from the University of Virginia and the Harvard University School of Medicine. He was chief of the division of head and neck surgery at UCLA Medical School.

He and Miss Colbert were married in Yuma, Ariz., in 1935 when the actress was at the peak of her career, having won the film industry's top award for performance opposite Clark Gable in the 1934 comedy, "It Happened One Night."

Renovations Set

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (UPI)—The Air Force has announced plans to add lumbering C119 Flying Boxcars to its arsenal of tactical weapons.

The huge craft will be outfitted with high-speed automatic guns, the Air Force said yesterday, announcing a contract of nearly $21 million to the Fairchild-Hiller Corp.

Conversions will be made at Fairchild-Hiller installations in Florida, Maryland and California. Renovations will be similar to those made on the AC47 dragonship about three years ago.

Newspaper Fire

SEOUL (AP) —Five Koreans were killed today and three others were missing in a fire that destroyed much of the four-story building of the major Seoul newspaper, Hankook Ilbo.

Five persons were hospitalized with burns.

Another Charge

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claimed today that U.S. spy ships "recently" mingled with South Korean fishing boats and violated Communist territorial waters.

The North Korean Central News Agency did not say if the alleged violations occurred before or after the North Koreans seized the USS Pueblo on Jan. 23.

Jets Collide

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) —French military authorities today searched the Mediterranean for the pilots of two Mystere-4 jets that collided in flight yesterday and crashed in pieces into the sea.

Coed Sentenced

MADRID (AP) — A 23-year-old law coed who was arrested while handing out leaflets advocating the independence of the three Basque provinces was sentenced today to six months in prison and fined $142.

The girl, Maria-Iciar Fururia, was convicted by the National Court of Public Order of disseminating illegal propaganda.

Korean Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) —The Korean Mixed Armistice Commission met today to hear Communist complaints of alleged truce violations by the United Nations Command.

The seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew by the North Koreans Jan. 23 was not on the agenda and neither side made any mention of the affair during the meeting in this truce village.

The meeting was called by the Communists. It was the 346th session of the secretaries of the commission.

Clearing Canal

BALBOA, C. Z. (UPI)—Two-way traffic in the Gatun Lock of the Panama Canal probably will be resumed tomorrow or Thursday, a Panama Canal Co. spokesman said today.

One-way traffic through the canal resumed yesterday after an 18-hour stoppage caused by the sinking of the bow of the Japanese super ore freighter Shozan Maru. Workmen refloated the 33,000-ton vessel loaded with 50,800 tons of iron ore, enabling 84 backlogged ships to get moving again.

The Shozan Maru was towed to Gatun Lake for repairs and workemen worked round the clock to clear a two-way channel.

Suez Plea

LONDON (UPI)—All nations, including Israel, must be allowed to freely use the Suez Canal before it can be reopened, Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain said yesterday.

Toll Addition

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI)—Salvage workers in western Sicily yesterday discovered the body of another victim of the earthquake that struck Jan. 15. The discovery brought to 281 the known death toll in the quake.

American Sees Hatred Building Toward U.S. Troops In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is "creating more Viet Cong than we are destroying," says Arthur Z. Gardiner, former director of the American foreign aid agency in Saigon who now heads a federally backed organization operating there.

Saying he was expressing his personal views, Gardiner told an interviewer the United States should try hard for a peace settlement and pull its forces out of Vietnam.

ANOTHER POST

Gardiner, chief of the U.S. Agency for International Development mission in Saigon in 1958-62, receives a heavy flow of grass-roots reports from South Vietnam in his current post as executive director of International Voluntary Services (IVS).

IVS is a private nonprofit organization which began sending youthful volunteers to South Vietnam for development work a decade ago. Their activities in the cities and countryside—similar to those of the Peace Corps, which has no unit in Vietnam—are financed by the Washington and Saigon governments.

In the wake of the Communist Tet onslaught, some of the 155 IVS volunteers have decided to quit before the end of their two-year tours.

But a spokesman for the aid-administering Agency for International Development said there is no thought of withdrawing IVS altogether.

Gardiner said he wrote letters to two U.S. newspapers before the outbreak of Communist attacks at the end of January. In them he said:

NEW HATREDS

Hatred for America exists in most of Vietnam today "from the overbearing presence of 500,000 Americans," from jealousy of Vietnamese officials displaced in practice by U.S. advisers and from military tactics which have uprooted nearly a quarter of the civilian population.

Constructive efforts toward a peaceful and prosperous Vietnam "are doomed if they must depend on the leadership of an unstable, little-respected military clique" elected "by a small minority vote."

ARTHUR Z. GARDINER
Urges pullout

"Increasing numbers of Vietnamese are becoming benevolently neutral toward the Viet Cong—race, religion, xenophobia, all contribute."

MORAL DAMAGE

So much material and moral damage has been inflicted since 1965, when U.S. combat forces arrived, "that Vietnamese patriots will never be content until foreign influence has been eliminated from the government of their country."

"We must agree to withdraw from Vietnam on terms enabling us to save the lives of those who have reason to fear retribution if American soldiers can no longer protect them, not necessarily as large a group as are killed by the war in a few months' time; and to a settlement by the Vietnamese themselves, Northern and Southern, under conditions of order satisfactory to them and to the international community."

RETURNS TO DALLAS — President Lyndon B. Johnson, in back seat, rides along Stemmons Freeway near the site of President John F. Kennedy's assassination. Today was Johnson's first return to Dallas since the fatal day in 1963.

(UPI Telephoto)

LBJ Makes Quick Visit To Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —President Johnson visited Dallas today for the first time since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and, driving to the Memorial Auditorium where he spoke, passed within sight of the Texas Schoolbook Depository and Parkland Hospital where Kennedy died.

Johnson flew to Dallas without advance announcement and amid tight, hastily arranged security arrangements, to address the 10,000 delegates at the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association convention. He then flew back to the LBJ Ranch.

In his speech, he emphasized two themes:

Cooperation among city and rural folk to build a "shining and peaceful land."

In the face of Communist offensives in Vietnam, the President said that in this country there must be "no retreat from responsibility."

Declaring that "we stand at a turning point" in Vietnam, Johnson said:

"The enemy of freedom has chosen to make this year the decisive one. He is striking out in a desperate and vicious effort to shape the final outcome. So far he has failed in his major objectives, he has failed at terrible cost to himself and tragic cost to his civilian victims . . ."

On the home front, Johnson said, there must be "no retreat from responsibility" and he added these specifics:

"No failing of our fighting sons. No betrayal of those who fight beside us. No breaking of trusted commitments. No weakening of will that would encourage the enemy and prolong the bloody conflict."

Wife Of Pastor Of Runaway House Files For Divorce

Rev. Larry Beggs, 34, of Mill Valley, the liberal co-director of San Francisco's Huckleberry House for runaway teen-agers, was sued for divorce today in Marin Superior Court.

Nina Florence Beggs, his wife of eight years and eight months, charged the minister with extreme cruelty, saying he has treated her with "viscious oral abuse, harrassment and intentional infliction of mental and emotional distress."

Mrs. Beggs, 33, asked that the court order the pastor for wayward children from their house at 336 Ridgewood Avenue, Homestead Valley, and restrain him from abusing, molesting or harrassing her.

She asked custody of their two boys, aged 1 and 5, and alimony of $100 a month for herself and support of $250 a month for each son.

The pastor makes about $900 a month, she said.

where the narcotics came from before reaching Marin. One seller indicated his dope was coming from Southern California, but there were also indications that a lot of it came from the San Jose area, according to the agents.

Both dismiss any suggestion that organized crime is involved in Marin County's extensive drug trafficking.

"There's a complete lack of any orgainzation and any attempt to disguise their activities. It was just all out in the open," said Agent A.

Is it lucrative to sell drugs?

"You wouldn't believe the money they're making," said Agent B.

Can anybody walk onto a Sausalito street and buy drugs?

"If you wanted something, there would be someone in that area to sell it," said Agent A. "Some of these people have been using drugs so long and their minds are so deteriorated that they'd sell to you if you were wearing a suit."

Agent B recalls that he asked one youngster if he wasn't afraid to be selling marijuana out on the street, in plain view of any Sausalito policemen in the area. He recorded the answer:

"What for? If I do, they'll just slap me on the wrist and send me home."

"People who deal in narcotics generally just don't act like this," said Agent A. "They're usually the most leery, suspicious people in the world."

Sausalito is not the county's only free market place for narcotics, the men said.

"San Geronimo Valley and San Rafael are just as open if you know were to go," said Agent A.

In San Rafael, the places to go would be the court house lawn, recreation parlors and restaurants where the county's younger set spends its time, they said.

The agents reported seeing many sales on the court house lawn as they walked between the sheriff's office and a coffee shop across the street.

Agent B reported talking to a 14-year-old boy in Sausalito:

"He said that whenever he got some money, he'd head for the park plaza in Sausalito to buy marijuana. He'd sell enough to his friends so that he could return and buy some more, while still keeping some for his own use."

Both said they met many persons who turned to theft to buy their drugs.

"House burglaries and car clouts are very common," said Agent A. "They trade their merchandise for narcotics and the dealer, in turn, sells it to a fence or keeps it for himself. A lot of guns are bartered. So are TV sets and stereos."

The agents said the people they encountered in their investigations were using all drugs, not just marijuana.

"Marijuana is their start, methedrine is about the end of the line," said Agent B.

Agent A described the persons using methedrine:

"It makes them afraid of their own shadow. Their train of thought is completely disoriented. They don't eat and they don't sleep. Their speech is very rapid and their pupils are dialated. They depend on the drug, but they don't suffer from withdrawal."

Both men urged Marin County parents to make certain they know were their children are and what they are doing.

They reported instances of people just passing out marijuana to youngsters not to anxious to use the drug.

"I remember one pretty little girl who was offered a joint. She didn't really want it, but she took it. Two months later, she didn't want to do anything but smoke weed. When I arrested her Friday, she was dirty, with stringy hair, and she was sleeping with a guy."

Reed School Park Plans Win Favor

Creating a park in a natural bowl on Reed School District land appeared feasible last night to district and city representatives, according to Russell T. Melquist, secretary of the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission.

Chairman Polly D. Smith and Commissioners George McKegney, Alan Thompson, George Ellman and David Teather talked with Supt. H. Joe Edginton and Reed School Principal Jack Usilton about a three-acre park on land behind the district office. It would be used by school children during school hours and by the city mostly for a summer program, Melquist said.

Further discussion of the project is expected at a parks and recreation commission meeting next month, Melquist said.

"We think a park would be an excellent use for the land," said Edgington, "combining our outdoor education program with community uses."

He said the district is waiting for the city "to work out details to be presented to the board of trustees in March or April."

Jeffery Hultz Killed On Viet Patrol

First Lt. Jeffery Hultz, 21, who lived in Marin with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don J. Sayer of 107 Vendola Drive, San Rafael, was killed in Vietnam Feb. 16, according to word received by Mrs. Sayer yesterday.

Lieutenant Hultz was on a patrol which was ambushed, Mrs. Sayer said. He was serving with the 31st armored division.

The young officer was born in Kansas and was orphaned as a youngster when his parents were killed in an automobile accident.

He came to live with the Sayers four years ago and attended evening classes at Terra Linda High School. He then entered College of Marin.

Hultz had been in the Army about a year and a half.

He is survived by a sister, Jenney Hultz, and an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews, all of Kankakee, Kan.

Lieutenant Hultz is the 17th Marinite to be killed in Vietnam.

Injuries Minor In Auto Crash

A Sleepy Hollow resident suffered scalp cuts today when his car drove into one parked on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, west of Rosemont Avenue in Kentfield.

Robert Lee Carroll, 31, of 504 Fawn Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital.

His car, westbound on the boulevard at 2:25 a.m., had been driving erratically, witnesses told the California Highway Patrol, before it hit the parked car registered to Arkady Romanowsky of Tarzana, Los Angeles County.

Suspect Asks Dismissal Of Killing Count

Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley yesterday set March 6 as the date for hearing a motion by Kenneth Allen Preston, 20, of Santa Rosa, that he be freed of a charge that he killed a San Rafael barber and his wife.

Preston, accused with Johnny Lee Sommerhalder, 24, of Santa Rosa, of killing Curtis O. Ackley, 27, and his wife, Shirley, 34, said his attorney will argue there is not sufficient evidence to hold him on the charge.

Judge Haley appointed the public defender's office to represent Sommerhalder and continued his case until Monday for entry of plea.

Ackley was shot four times in the head. Mrs. Ackley was raped, stabbed, strangled and shot.

Sommerhalder and Preston also face charges in Santa Rosa that they murdered a 19-year-old Santa Rosa Junior College student.

DEBATE

Armed Services Committee, Sen. Jack R. Miller, R-Iowa, said yesterday he opposed increasing the number of American troops in Vietnam until President Johnson orders maximum use of air and sea power.

"I am definitely not satisfied that he has been doing so or is doing so," Miller said.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said the time had to come to pay more attention to stopping the bombing in quest of peace talks and less to calls for sending more troops.

"There are very few significant targets left in North Vietnam," he said. "The bombing has not halted the infiltration of men and supplies into South Vietnam. And the bombing has failed to bring Hanoi to the conference table."

Mansfield said he thought the suggestion of U Thant, United Nations secretary general, for a U. S. halt in the bombing of the north as a prelude to peace talks "makes sense because a way around the impasse which confronts us in Vietnam will not be found by military means but will have to be brought about through negotiations."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., charged that even 100,000 additional troops would be "only a drop in the bucket if it is the determination of the President to bring about a military victory."

If the United States is to fight an allout war in Southeast Asia," we might just as well be prepared for universal conscription, a tax increase and price and wage controls," Aiken said.

Innocent Plea To $10,000 Burglaries

Duane Von Burroughs, 18, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to charges he stole almost $10,000 worth of items in two Sausalito burglaries during December. He also denied the attempted burglary of a Sausalito home that month.

His case was continued until Monday for setting of a jury trial date.

homes on the Russian River and at Lake Tahoe — and with their 13 grandchildren.

Murray was a past president of the California Bankers Association; former treasurer — for 50 years — and the oldest living past master of Marin Lodge No. 191, Free and Accepted Masons, and a former trustee of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

He also was a charter member and treasurer of the Marin Boy Scouts Council, and held the Silver Beaver award; a member of the Marin Royal Arch Chapter; member of California Commandery No. 1 in San Francisco; member of Islam Temple Shrine of San Francisco; charter member and former treasurer of the Marin Art and Garden Center; charter member and former treasurer of the Marin Historical Society; a 50-year member of I.D.E.S.; former treasurer of the Marin Community Chest; former director of the Pacific Coast Banking School at the University of Washington in Seattle, Wash.; former member of the San Rafael Park Commission; member of the San Rafael Yacht Club, which he helped found in 1938, and a member of the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Murray is survived by his wife; three sons, William P. Murray Jr., president of the Bank of Marin; Donald Frederick Murray, senior vice president of the Bank of Marin, and Theodore Alexander Murray, a stock broker with Irving Lundborg and Co., San Rafael, and 13 grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael. Entombment will be private. The family would prefer memorial contributions to the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America Memorial Fund.

VIVIAN ANFIBOLO

Vivian L. Anfibolo, 49, died at her home on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax yesterday. She was the wife of John L. Anfibolo, a fireman at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Assistant Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said that her death was apparently from natural causes.

Mrs. Anfibolo, a native of Tulare, had lived in Marin County five years.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Betty Baker of Washington, D.C., a brother, William Hawkins of Tulare, and her father, Harley Hawkins, also of Tulare.

Funeral will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. Special prayer services will be held today at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills.

MARY ALBINI

Requiem Mass for Mrs. Mary Albini, 87, of Fallon, will be offered at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Tomales.

Mrs. Albini, a resident of Fallon since 1910, died Saturday in a Petaluma hospital after a short illness.

Her husband, a dairy rancher, died last year.

Mrs. Albini, was a native of Italy.

She leaves a daughter and son, Mrs. Elizabeth Prevostini of Watsonville and Charles P. Albini of Fallon; six grandchildren, and 14 great-grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m., today at Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma where the funeral cortege will form at 10:15 a.m. tomorrow. Entombment will be in Tomales Catholic Mausoleum.

H. J. BATES

H. J. Bates, 71, father of Richard J. Bates of Belvedere, died Saturday in his Sacramento home after a brief illness. Funeral services were held today at the All Saints Episcopal Church in Sacramento.

PEARL M. DOW

Memorial services will be held for Mrs. Pearl M. Dow of Woodacre at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the San Geronimo Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Dow, 84, of Railroad Avenue, died Saturday in a local rest home after a long illness.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported yesterday there would be a funeral. Interment will be private.

Mrs. Dow was the widow of Walter D. Dow, who worked for a lumber company estimating timber yield.

STEPHEN HICKS

Funeral for Stephen A. Hicks, 83, was held in Livermore today. Burial was in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno. Hicks, a retired lighthouse keeper who lived in Marin many years, died in Livermore Friday.

Novato Facing Federal School Fund Cutbacks

The Novato Unified School District stands to lose approximately $175,000 next fiscal year if a bill pending in Congress passes, Supt. James G. Bunker told district trustees last night.

The district, slated for approximatley $835,000 in federal funds this year for children whose parents are connected with Hamilton Air Force Base, would suffer a 20 per cent cut in these funds, Bunker said.

The board sent night letters protesting this cut to Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

"The district has 3,600 students whose parents either live or work at Hamilton Air Force Base," Bunker said.

Concerning other federal funds, Bunker said that the district had an application approved in February 1967 for $227,000 for an administration building, but that the Bureau of the Budget has not appropriated the money on order of the President.

He estimated that it would be another year before the money would be forthcoming. He asked the board for a delay of several weeks until the staff might come up with a plan to finance the proposed administration building to be constructed on the Marion School site. The board granted this request by a 6-0 vote with Trustee Gordon Leathers absent.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

SUPPLIES — Authorized the purchase of $2,259 in maps and transparancies for the San Jose Junior High School.

DRIVER TRAINING — Authorized a driver training program for next school year in which a Drivo-Trainer would be rented for $6,894 to handle 16 students at one time. This program will cost $43,574 for the 820 tenth grade students in the program. The state will reimburse the district $41,000, leaving $2,574 to be paid by the district.

LIBRARY — Approved a $47,750, application to the federal government for library books for the new San Marin High School and another application for federal funds of $13,500 for elementary school counselors and $24,400 for high school counselors.

SUBSTITUTES — Received a request, but delayed action until budget time, from Mrs. Louis Lobanov, president of the Marin County Substitute Teachers Association, that they be paid 1/75th of the basic $6,000 salary of beginning teachers of $34.85 per day. They are now receiving $25 per day.

AVERAGE COSTS — Received a report from Bunker that Novato is below state averages for unified districts in the 10,000 to 25,000 student count in cost per pupil for education. The state average in fiscal 1966-67 was $629 while Novato's was $573. He estimated the cost this year at $631 for the district.

CHANGE ORDERS — Authorized a $2,166 change order on work on the creek at Sinaloa Junior High School and a change in the sprinkler system for the turf at San Marin High at no cost.

AUDIT — Authorized Soderblom and Co. of San Rafael, to make the audit of the books for the current fiscal year at $2,000. The cost for the past year by the same company was $1,500.

Unruh Son Faces Drinking Charge

BEVERLY HILLS (AP)—The son of Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, D-Inglewood, booked on charges of marijuana possession and drunk while in an auto, will be charged only with drunkeness, a district attorney's office spokesman says.

Bradley Unruh, 19, was arrested Sunday morning with Donald McDougal, 19, of Hermosa Beach, police said. Police Chief C. H. Anderson said the arresting officers found three cans of beer and an undisclosed amount of marijuana in the car.

They were released under $650 bail each. The two are to appear tomorrow in Beverly Hills Municipal Court for arraignment.

Sebastopol Fliers Killed In Crash

UKIAH (AP) — Two general contractors from Sebastopol died in the flaming wreckage of their plane yesterday when it crashed shortly after takeoff from the University of California field station at Hopland, 16 miles south of here.

They were identified as Allen White, the pilot, and his passenger, Lyle Leake.

The airport superintendent said the plane banked and started to return to the field when it had gained only about 30 feet of altitude, and failed to pull out of the bank.

Wife Beating Case Dropped

The felony wife beating case against Ted Lewis, 56, of 158 Hillside, San Rafael was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday when his wife declined to press charges.

Ruth A. Lewis, who appeared in court with her left wrist in a plaster cast, told Judge Hadden W. Roth: "I think he has learned his lesson. He knows better than to try it again."

Police had reported that when they were called to the house Sunday they found the wife covered in blood and blood splashed around the kitchen and living room.

Judge Roth dismissed the case, but reluctantly. "We will not treat it so lightly if it happens again," he told Lewis.

Unoccupied Kentfield House Hit By Blaze

A blaze of unknown origin gutted two rear rooms of an old, vacant one-story frame house at about 3:30 p.m. yesterday at 916 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Kentfield firemen estimated the damage at $2,000. They said the rooms contained a large amount of rubbish. Owners of the building are Howard D. Siedler, William E. Drake Jr., William M. Klemme and Maurice C. Smith, all doctors at a clinic at 908 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, fireman said.

Red World Conference Takes Pro-Hanoi Tack

BUDAPEST (UPI)—The Communist world conference today unanimously approved a proposal by the American Communist Party that it send a message of sympathy and support for North Vietnam against what it called American aggression.

Gus Hall, leader of the American Communist Party and the first chairman of the world conference which opened here yesterday, made the announcement at a news conference. He said he proposed sending the message.

The message conveyed the greetings of the 67 parties attending the conference to try to restore unity to the international movement.

The move followed authoritative reports that the conference is readying a declaration pledging stepped up and better coordinated aid to the Communist North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

Hall said the conference should seek the mobilization of world public opinion against imperialist and especially American aggression.

Hall said the conference is going well and he expressed optimism about its ability to reach broad agreement on the calling of a wider world Communist summit, preferably in the fall, to tackle the future of the movement.

"We see no contradiction of U.S. interests in our participation in discussion about how to mobilize the world to put an end to this policy of aggression of the U.S. government," Hall said.

Hall said there is no question this will be a historic step towards the further reunification of the whole Communist movement.

Hall's optimism conflicted sharply with the views voiced authoritatively on the conference fringes that the rift in the movement has gone too far to offer a chance in the foreseeable future to mend it.

The conference focused on the Vietnam war when it became clear the delegates would not go along with the Soviet Union's efforts to heal ideological rifts and to isolate Communist China. Early speechs indicated there would be no efforts to limit the independence of national parties.

The sources said the expected pledge to help in the Vietnam war would be in response to a cabled appeal from President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam. Ho and North Korean leader Kim Il Sung sent cables, but not representatives, to Budapest.

Both nations depend heavily on Peking as well as Moscow for arms and aid. The Red Chinese did not send delegates to the conference.

The conference, which is expected to last another 8 to 10 days, was called at the insistence of the Soviet Union in an effort to halt ideological disarray and to unify most of the world's Communist parties against Peking.

Another Will Seek Morton's Senate Job

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky. (UPI) — Former Republican Congressman Eugene Siler, 67, announced today he would seek the U.S. Senate seat being given up by Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky.

Siler said he would campaign on a platform calling for the withdrawal by Christmas of all U.S. troops from Vietnam.

BUTTERBALL AU JUS

So delightfully rich when broiled or barbecued to a crusty brown on the outside and pink inside. Use a 3 to 3½ lb. butterball steak. Have butter ball at room temperature before starting.
Cook at high heat 3 to 4 inches from heat source. Brown well on first side before turning. Total cooking time approximately 35 to 40 minutes for medium.
Serve on a pre-heated platter, carve in diagonal slices ¼ inch thick.
Let natural juice run down to one end of pre-heated platter. Into juices add ½ cube melted butter, 2 tsp. worcestershire, 1 tsp. dry mustard, 1 tsp. Accent, salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and pour over sliced butter ball before serving. Serves four to six people.
Serve with Beringer Burgundy

Grand Jury Secret Talks Launched Giant Drug Raid

The narcotics roundup which resulted in the arrests of 62 persons over the weekend had its birth in secret meetings of the Marin County Grand Jury last spring. (See also story, page 1).

Members of a special committee of the jury expressed alarm at reports of a mushrooming narcotics traffic, which they said threatens "the lives of our children and the future of our country."

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and Undersheriff Sidney Stinson, called before the panel, testified that the sales and use of marijuana and dangerous drugs could not be effectively curbed without a central, county-wide agency for narcotics investigations.

Individual police departments were making investigations, said Sheriff Mountanos, but the piplines for narcotics in Marin do not follow city boundaries.

The jurors agreed that the county needed an agency to coordinate the investigations of all police agencies in the county. They told Mountanos to discuss the problem with police chiefs.

On April 17, all city police chiefs and the sheriff urged the establishment of a central narcotics bureau.

The grand jury agreed and recommended May 1 that all city councils and the board of supervisors create the Marin County Drug-Abuse Bureau with a four-man investigative force and a budget of more than $68,000.

"It is common knowledge and has been verified by this committee that marijuana cigarettes and illegal drug pills are readily available in our school," the grand jury committee said.

After months of debate which questioned whether the cities were abdicating some of their powers and responsibilities to a county bureau, the new operation was approved.

The board of supervisors assigned the new bureau a budget of $68,000 and hired four inspectors to staff it.

Selected to head the bureau at a salary of $937 a month was a senior agent from the state Bureau of Narcotics. Hired as inspectors at $849 a month were an agent from the San Diego Police Department and two from the Oakland Police Department.

The drug abuse bureau opened silently Oct. 28. Sheriff Mountanos is still hesitant to disclose the location of the bureau's office.

The investigation began Nov. 1 with the agents requesting information from all police departments on places where users of narcotics were thought to congregate.

With the information compiled, the inspectors discarded their business suits for the more casual attire of the drug sub-culture.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino said the investigators were directed to seek out the suppliers of marijuana and dangerous drugs, with emphasis on the suppliers for high school students in the county.

"They agreed that they would start with small buys from the street sellers and, after ingratiating themselves, to move on to their source of supply.

"Their efforts have uncovered numerous users of narcotics and have led them to ascertain the identity of at least 50 suppliers of both major and minor caliber," Zunino said in a memorandum to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales.

Mountanos yesterday hailed the bureau's first undertaking as a success and said the agents will soon be going under cover again, to begin another investigation. "This is just the beginning," he said.

The sheriff expressed appreciation to the staff of the Independent-Journal for its cooperation during the investigation.

The newspaper was aware of the operations of the drug abuse agents, he said, but refrained from printing the story until the investigation and arrests were completed.

"Without the help and cooperation of the paper and its staff, law enforcement personnel would not have been able to accomplish their purpose," he said.

DRINKER TAKES A PURITY VOW

The mass arrest of narcotics suspects in Marin over the weekend had one unexpected benefit — it helped Jesse Crider to swear off drink for good, he told Municipal Court Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday.

He said he was booked into Marin County jail Friday on suspicion of being drunk.

"And then they brought these clowns in and I thought I was having D.T.s. I was with them three days and if that doesn't sober anybody up but good, nothing will."

Judge Roth said he would give Crider, of no fixed address, the benefit of the doubt. He was given a 60-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for six months.

Dope Raid Suspects Crowd Municipal, Superior Courts

Marin municipal and superior courts yesterday felt the effects of the weekend narcotics raids as corridors and courtrooms were clogged with the long-haired suspects and their families.

Judge Hadden W. Roth's Marin Municipal Court calendar ran from 1:30 p.m. to 7 p.m., processing the suspected sellers and users of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

The number of those arrested rose to 63 yesterday with the arrest of Patrick Courtney, 40, of Gate 5, Sausalito, on charges of selling more than a kilo of marijuana to an agent of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau in Sausalito.

Bail for Courtney was set at $3,125. He was to appear in municipal court for arraignment today.

Thirteen adults arrested in the weekend raids were released yesterday. The district attorney's office said no complaints will be filed against them, pending further investigation.

Released without charges were: Greg Landers, Gate 5; Outi Ilona Tavela, 19, 22 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley; Reynold Ashley Fitch, 20, all points; Karen Domesco, 26, Lagunitas; Nickalah Prosolow, 18, Gate 5; Duaine Clay Story, 26, Gate 5; Marcia Marshall, 20, Gate 5; Milton Fletcher, 29, all points; Lucien King, 53, all points; Rose Seebauern Hoyland, 27, Montezuma Road, Forest Knolls; Walter Vincent Burke, 28, Woodacre; Christopher Paul Petralia, 18, Alta Road, Lagunitas, and James Paul Orchard, 22, of 23 Midway, Larkspur.

Two men arrested during the raids pleaded innocent to their charges in municipal court yesterday and were told to appear March 21 for a preliminary hearing.

They are David Allen Ward, 23, of 99 Spruce Road, Mill Valley, charged with one count of selling marijuana and two counts of possessing it, and Scott Miller English, 24, of 126 H Lane, Novato, charged with one count of possessing marijuana.

Robert Charles Delzell, 29, of 26 Locust Road, and Patricia Jean Chidester, 21, of 19 Locust Road, both Larkspur, were charged with selling methedrine and possession of stolen property.

Police, who arrested them Friday after they reportedly sold an agent $2,700 worth of methedrine, claim they found a stolen television console in Delzell's apartment.

Eldon Carl Valesco, 31, of 157 Olema Road, Fairfax, arrested with them after the sale, was also charged with selling methedrine. He also faces a grand jury indictment for selling marijuana.

Others arrested over the weekend were arraigned and given future dates to return to court for entry of plea, generally today, Thursday or Monday.

In Marin Superior Court, 14 facing grand jury indictments appeared to request their bail be reduced. Bail set yesterday by Judge Harold J. Haley ranged from $2,500 to $12,500. He released no one without bail.

Most of those indicted were told to return to court Thursday for arraignment.

Master Plan Panel Hiring Is Sought

A professional planning group should be hired by the City of Mill Valley as soon as possible to create a master plan for the city's marina area, two city commissions recommended last night.

The master plan would coordinate development of the proposed yacht harbor, the middle school, Project 17, the marina and the extension of Sycamore Avenue.

The city's parks and recreation commission and planning commission last night recommended the city council and city manager hire the planning group.

The commissions met jointly for hearings ton plans for the marina area and the proposed Sycamore extension and on the proposed abandonment of East Drive.

The commissions recommended that the Sycamore Avenue extension pass through the Biggio property east of the Northwest Pacific Railroad right-of-way, with the exact alignment to be determined in the master plan for the area.

The commissions also agreed on a recommendation that East Drive, which runs along the east boundary of Boyle Park, be abandoned, provided access is available to properties on East Drive.

The parks and recreation commission adjourned after the joint meeting.

Bagley Seeks To Halt 'Incest' Appointees

(I-J Special Report)

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, today introduced two bills to eliminate what he termed "policital incest" in local government.

"It is a prevalent practice for members of city councils and other local boards who do not intend to run for re-election to resign before the end of their term," said Bagley.

"This allows colleagues on the board to select and appoint a successor to the resigning member," he said.

"The appointee then has the significant advantage of running as an incumbent," Bagley noted.

The assemblyman contended that "such procedures, motivated in most cases solely by political consideration, subvert the election process."

One bill provides that persons appointed city councilmen for an unexpired term of six months or less are ineligible for election to that office at the next election.

The other bill places the same limitation on the appointees to county and special district offices.

The limitations in both bills would not apply when a vacancy is caused by death or disability.

Burton Names Aides In Race

Robert B. Burton today announced committee heads for his campaign for the April 9 Mill Valley City Council election.

Campaign co-chairmen will be Gloria J. Wachs, who circulated Burton's nomination papers, and Robert L. Urban. Finance co-chairmen will be Eugene A. Miller and Norton R. Hastings; coffee chairman will be Phyllis Miller, and publicity chairman will be Richard J. Hiatt.

Signers of Burton's nomination papers were Mayor Albert E. White, school district board chairman Joseph E. Bodovitz, former city planning commission chairman Edward J. Boessenecker, William H. Pemberton, Carl M. Mosher, John R. Lee, Frederick C. Delahay, Jeffory S. Morshead, Horace F. Cagwin and Lee M. Gammill Jr.

Check Count Denied

Graydon Harr of 27 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a charge he passed a forged county welfare check for $92. His case was continued until Monday for setting of a jury date.

COMMON MARKET LAMPOONED

French President Charles de Gaulle is depicted tugging along the Common Market horse while Britain vainly tries to jump aboard. The float, displayed in a pre-Lenten carnival parade at Mainz, Germany, yesterday, was only one among many politically oriented floats in parades all along the Rhine River.

Fingerprints May Clear Up Truax Mystery

The print of a right index finger may determine whether a body found in San Pablo Bay is that of Thomas N. Truax, who vanished Feb. 8, the day he was accused of embezzling $500,000 from a regional government agency.

Eugene R. Fontaine, assistant Marin County coroner, said yesterday he was able to obtain a fairly good print from the index finger of the badly decomposed body which was recovered Sunday and had been in the water about two weeks.

The print was turned over to the FBI which dispatched it to Washington, D.C., for checking.

Charles W. Bates, agent in charge of the FBI in San Francisco, said it might take another 24 to 48 hours to establish identity.

Bates said it is not yet definitely known if fingerprints of Truax are available. The coroner's office has asked the FBI in Washington to send to San Rafael the fingerprints of a man who has been missing about the same length of time as Truax while fishing in San Pablo Bay. The body could be his.

Marshall S. Mayer, state deputy attorney general who has been investigating the disappearance of Truax said: "This could be the body of the missing man."

He said he had been told the age and weight were similar to those of Truax, 28, who had been assistant to the director of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Fontaine said the body might also be that of Cecil Burgess of Vallejo, who vanished earlier this month on a fishing trip in San Pablo Bay in a small boat.

Tiburon Accepts Subdivision Map Including A Park Clause

Tiburon City Council last night approved the final map for El Marinero subdivision.

The wording of a resolution of acceptance was ammended to have the city "accept an offer of dedication" of three steeets, drainage easements and "a park."

A conditional clause in the original document would have temporarily rejected the park land offered by developer Kurt Heath to the city.

Councilmen and members of the audience were concerned the wording might cause the city to lose the park site permanently so the word "reject" was changed to "accept."

Recommendations of a police survey by Lt. William Johansen of the Tiburon Sheriff's substation were accepted to urge the Reeed School District to establish a safety patrol program in which the city and its police would assist "in all ways possible."

Because the state Division of Highways has promised in writing to seek full agreement from the city before proceeding with any filling operations connected with the widening of Tiburon Boulevard, the council decided to withdraw its objection of Nov. 13 to the division's application to the Army Corps of Engineers for extension of a fill permit.

City Atty. Robert I. Conn was directed to prepare a resolution for the March 11 meeting.

The Tiburon City Council last night also:

DAMAGES — Denied an referred to its insurance carrier, John Barry Insurance Co. of Larkspur, a claim for $10,000 damages from Sylvia Favetto of San Francisco who allegedly slipped on the fish pier near the Caprice Restaurant last November.

STREETS — Increased a street project budget from $1,000 to $2,000, transferring the extra money from the contingency fund, for a street report to be made by the state Department of Public Works.

ELECTION — Took several actions to appoint election officers, establishing polling places and request various county election services in the April 9 municipal election.

Florida Teachers Showdown Urged

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — With Florida's teacher strike in its seventh day, the Dade County School Board at Miami voted today to call for a showdown meeting in Tallahassee among members of the state's big counties where most of Florida's 22,000 resigned teachers live.

The board also called on the State Board of Education to demand that Gov. Claude Kirk settle the statewide teacher walkout and reaffirmed a resolution voted last week to fire any teacher still off the job in Miami by Thursday.

Chairman Of Plan Panel Resigns Job

Turnover in personnel on Tiburon city bodies continued last night as Mayor John S. Hofmire announced the resignation of Erik Rettig, planning commission chairman, effective March 4.

Rettig said the pressure of business forced him to resign.

Following the council meeting, Hoffmire called a closed session to discuss a replacement for Rettig, after which he had no announcement to make.

Hoffmire announced he had offered Joseph H. Bacheller III, parks and recreation commissioner, the planning seat today, and that Bacheller had accepted.

To replace Bacheller, Hoffmire said Donald King Loomis, an architect, of 7 Venus Court, had agreed to join the parks and recreation commission.

Hoffmire said the actual appointments would be made at the next regular council meeting.

At last night's meeting the council supported unanimously Hoffmire's nomination of Gerald B. Talbot to replace Mrs. Mimi Berticevich, who resigned from the parks and recreation commission.

Talbot, who resides at 12 Mara Vista Court, is director of the Marine laboratory of the Tiburon Oceanography Center.

Attorney May Face New Charges

Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard Shaw gave notice in Marin Municipal Court yesterday he will seek permission to add two extra charges against Thomas E. Fontecchico, an Internal Revenue Service attorney, whose trial for the misdeameanor of obstructing a police officer ended last week in a hung jury.

Shaw indicated the amended complaint would include a felony charge of battery against California Highway Patrolman Morlin A. Baarts and attempted battery against another officer.

Judge Hadden W. Roth set a hearing on the amended complaint for March 8 at 3 p.m. No judge was assigned although defense attorney William O. Weissich asked for the case to be returned to Judge Alvin H. Goldstein.

After five hours of deliberation following the original hearing Feb. 19, the jury reported itself deadlocked nine to three for conviction of Fontecchico, 48, of 618 Tanbark Terrace, San Rafael.

He had claimed CHP officers struck him when he stepped from his car stopped by the patrol on Highway 101 and later assaulted him in the county jail.

Commission Defends Airport's Operation

The Marin County Aviation Commission has defended the increased tie-down fee at the Marin County Airport in reply to a five-point letter of complaint from an airport user.

Allen Reinstadler of San Francisco complained Feb. 13 of the increase in the tie-down fee from $8 to $15 a month and charged "complete deletion of services and facilities."

FEE COMPARED

The commission replied that the tie-down fee is comparable to that charged at other fields in the Bay Area.

On services, the commission reported that construction of buildings for base operators is expected to be completed in June at which time all services will be provided by competitive operators.

Reinstadler contended that for 75 per cent of the year the new runway would be subject to "strong and gusty crosswinds."

The commission replied: "It is the opinion of the FAA and of the commission that the new 120-foot wide landing area is such to accommodate most crosswind conditions with safety."

MASTER PLAN

Reinstadler charged that the master plan for the new airport is "geared towards heavy and/or corporate type aircraft" with light aircraft owners footing the bill.

"On the contrary, all efforts are pointed toward the best of service and convenience for the private owner at reasonable prices through competition," the commission said.

Reinstadler contended that the airport manager and his assistant didn't "offer conscientious, active, aparticipating attendance to our aircraft operations."

LONG HOURS CITED

The commission replied that both employees put in "far in excess of a normal work week" in their effort to get the airport started and make many after-hours and weekend trips to the airport on their own time to check security and safety of aircraft and airport.

Reinstadler said the mandatory investment required for concession facilities would result in high charges for services given by operators.

The commission replied that the competition between the two operators will result in excellent services at competitive prices "to the benefit of the aircraft owner."

Alaskan Quake Effects Found

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Interior Department says the 1964 Alaskan earthquake may have lifted the ocean floor as much as 50 feet in some places off south-central Alaska.

In a report yesterday on a geological survey, the department said thrusts of as much as 38 feet had been documented at Montague Island in Prince William Sound. Hydrographic soundings in the same area indicated the ocean floor may have risen as much as 50 feet.

Geological survey officials said the vast changes in land configuration probably occurred in just a few seconds when the earthuake devastated sections of Alaska on March 27, 1964.

A War Backer Dies In Action

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)— Julius C. (Corky) Foster, 27, who walked 300 miles from Welch to Camp Lejeune, N.C., last fall to re-enlist in the Marines, has been killed in action in Vietnam, his family said today.

A family spokesman said the Defense Department said Foster was killed Feb. 22. The circumstances of his death were not known.

Foster started his long hike to Camp Lejeune last Aug. 27 as a demonstration of his support for U.S. policy in Vietnam. He told Welch residents he wanted to "emphasize the effort being made by other Americans."

Truck Explodes, Killing Six

MEXICO CITY (AP) — School children and passersby flocked to a tank truck that had overturned on a crowded Mexico City street yesterday.

The truck exploded, killing six persons and injuring 65, authorities reported.

Many of the injured suffered critical burns from the gasoline that spilled over a wide area.

The truck driver had swerved to avoid a speeding car, police said. The accident occurred as children were coming out of a nearby primary school.

Closed Hearings Leave Suspicions With Public

The American Bar Association House of Delegates, in adopting the Reardon rules last week, set itself above the courts as well as above the press, the police, and the public.

Since most of its members must practice in the courts (although judges itself are ABA members), the Reardon rules do not go quite so far with the judges as they do with the attorneys and the police. While they presume to set the bar association up as arbiters of what the police can and cannot tell, they only "advise" the judges.

ONE SUCH ADVISORY rule would urge judges to hold closed hearings whenever they suspected (or the defense or prosecuting attorney suspected) that there might be "adverse" publicity.

This is not new in California. Although judges in this state seldom close preliminary hearings to the public, state law permits them to do so.

It is not that way in all states. In one where it has been, Arizona, the state supreme court last month struck down as unconstitutional Rule 27 of the Arizona Rules of Criminal Procedure which permitted judges to close preliminary hearings.

The rule was borrowed from California law, and had been in effect since territorial days. By striking it, the Arizona Supreme Court served notice it will not feel bound by the Reardon rules.

It upheld the contention of the Arizona Republic, Phoenix newspaper, that a closed preliminary hearing violated the public's right to know the substance of the prosecution's case and why the charge was dismissed or the defendant held for trial.

The newspaper first attacked the rule 10 years ago, when charges of fraud involving state highway department funds were dismissed in a closed hearing and the record of the hearing sealed from the public.

THIS IS THE KIND of thing one may expect when hearings are held in secret. This is why even California law makes the transcript of a grand jury hearing a public document after the accused is arrested — although it fails to do so with the sealed transcript of a closed preliminary hearing.

This is why the bar should never be permitted to set itself up as censor.

LAWYERS ARE SOMETIMES inclined to confuse legalism with justice. It was with this in mind that the Baltimore sage, H. L. Mencken, wrote over a generation ago: "American legal science is now on its own legs, and careth not a damn for either English precedent or ordinary common sense." (One wonders what Mencken would say of the Reardon rules.)

J. Edward Murray, chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Society of American Newspaper Editors, declared in a speech last November that the practice of criminal law is "in a disgraceful mess" and no longer bears any resemblance to an honest search for truth.

His proposed remedy was not censorship, but "more penetrating and more responsible press scrutiny of the whole criminal process."

IT IS TO BE HOPED that many other enlightened judges, like those of the Arizona Supreme Court, will refuse to go along with the Reardon censorship rules.

Corruption breeds rapidly in dark places. Only one thing kills it: the strong light of public scrutiny.

WHAT KIND OF WORLD?

A half-century from now, average citizens may earn $20,000 a year, jet around the world with ease and have a life of unprecedented leisure and luxury.

So predicts a noted scientist, Dr. Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute.

But not everything foreseen by Dr. Kahn is this rosy. The technological revolution can bring dangers as well as blessings.

High on the list of threats will be the possible invention of a "doomsday machine" capable of destroying all human life. Even the waste heat from huge cities and sky jet lanes may upset the delicately balanced processes of weather.

Looking into the future is a risky and often disquieting business. But man's questing mind must keep pushing back new horizons.

The stakes for personal and global survival keep getting higher. God's greatest gift — His own love shared with man for the sake of other men — will never fail to supply the chance for the moral growth we need.

"He destined us in love to be His sons through Jesus Christ, according to the purpose of His will."

Bill To Drop Board Of Regents Sure To Spark Lively Discussion

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A move to change the California constitution to wipe out the extraordinary powers of the University of California Board of Regents was bound to show up sooner or later.

It has arrived in the form of Assembly Constitutional Amendment 26, introduced by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, who represents the 80th Assembly district.

The amendment would in effect, eliminate the present board of regents, and substitute another board authorized by the Legislature itself.

UNDER PRESENT provisions in the constitution, the board of regents can do with the university about what it pleases, except that it must come to the Legislature for funds.

The regents usually conduct their business in secret, which makes for resentment on the part of the public.

The board of regents virtually is a dynasty, as appointments are for a term of 16 years.

The long terms and authority originally were created to keep politics out of the university, and at the time this was done, the move may have been the proper move.

ON THE OTHER hand, many legislators are becoming dissatisfied with the conduct of the university, and above all, their inability to control the educational institution which is one of the biggest eaters of taxes in the state.

Asked if the constitutional amendment would solve any of the many problems, Sen. Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, said he'd often thought that it would and expressed the belief that the constitution should say the Legislature should provide for a university, and let it go at that, so that changing conditions could be met.

Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles, said that in general, he has been disinclined to support such measures, but that in the light of what's been happening, he isn't sure whether this is a sound position any more.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

The Logic Of The Battlefield

(Reprinted from the Wall Street Journal)

We think the American people should be getting ready to accept, if they haven't already, the prospect that the whole Vietnam effort may be doomed; it may be falling apart beneath our feet. The actual military situation may be making academic the philosophical arguments for the intervention in the first place.

Granted, there is an opposite theory, the "last gasp" notion that the weeks'-long wave of assaults on cities and hamlets is the enemy's final outburst before greatly decreasing the war's intensity and coming to the bargaining table. Perhaps it will turn out that way, but right now the evidence does not lend the theory much support.

Hanoi is believed to have relatively large numbers of troops still uncommitted in North Vietnam. The Communists appear to be getting ample supplies of weapons from the Soviet Union and Red China. As long as the arms keep coming and there are Vietnamese Communists to use them, you would suppose they could keep up the struggle more or less indefinitely. Thus far, at least, they are showing with a vengeance their ability to sow destruction and demoralization everywhere.

Meantime the present South Vietnamese government, never very impressive, looks worse and worse. Most important, the government can't protect the people even in the heart of the cities. The Saigon-U.S. effort to secure villages and woo villagers to the government side has been brought to a halt. This is a government and a nation in chaos; how long can it go on? The failing, it should be stressed, is not in U.S. will or valor, but basically in something lacking in Vietnam itself.

As for the U.S. military undertaking, the current tactic is sad to see: The wholesale destruction of towns and cities in order to "save" them, killing or making homeless refugees out of thousands more civilians. While it is certainly true that an American commander has to destroy a building or a town if he considers it necessary for his soldiers' safety, the scale on which it is going on is hardly endearing the U.S. or Saigon to the populace.

Hence the question: Are developments on the ground making hash of our original, commendable objectives?

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Why Stop Census At 120 Questions?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Most of "What Our Readers Say" for Feb. 21 was taken up by a defense of the 120-plus questions that the upcoming census is going to impose on us. Mr. Jack Schoop says, among other things, that business and government needs more reliable information.

No doubt they would like to have so much information that absolutely no risk would be involved in the conduct of their operations. This would eliminate the need for foresight, imagination, analysis. Nice for them of course, and all it would cost us is our time, our patience, our dignity, and our privacy. Why ask only 120 questions? Ask them all.

Big Brother Program Views Enlarged

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I am writing this letter to comment on your article of Feb. 13 concerning the Big Brother program. Your reporting of my remarks at the Feb. 12 meeting of the Fairfax City Council were not entirely accurate in several respects.

First, you quoted me as saying, "We're not a poverty program." Actually, I stated that the Big Brother program is not a poverty program per se. . . A few Big Brother programs around the country are specifically concerned with boys from poor families. As a matter of fact, our new office in Oakland is primarily oriented toward the poverty areas in that community. . .

Second, I did not say that we have no intention of becoming connected with the Economic Opportunity Council in Marin County. I said that our experience in San Francisco and on the Peninsula over the past ten years leads us to believe that the soundest foundation for the support of a Big Brother program serving all of Marin County on a long-term basis would be achieved by a broadly based committee of interested citizens raising essentially private funds. . .

Big Brothers of the San Francisco Bay Area is affiliated with Big Brothers of America and is also a member agency of the United Bay Area Crusade. . . UBAC and Big Brothers of America have both expressed their wish that this expansion be accomplished under the auspices of the existing Big Brother organization. . .

The Board of Directors and staff of Big Brothers in San Francisco are eager to lend all possible assistance to the development of Big Brother services for the fatherless boys of Marin County.

Dogs Defeat Effort At Beauty

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin residents pride themselves on a well-kept, beautiful county. They keep their homes and their yards neat. It is a shame, however, that they do not also prevent their animals from fouling the county.

As a shopper at a shopping center, I am constantly seeing the damage that dogs are permitted to do to the shrubbery. Merchants go to much trouble to make the area pleasant, and still these animals, both on leashes and without them, are allowed to ruin these efforts. . .

Can nothing be done about this attitude by the owners?

INSIDE WASHINGTON

U.S. Aid Funds May Be Arming Viet Cong

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — A shocking discovery by a Senate investigating committee may explain how the Communists were able to mount a large-scale coordinated offensive right in the heart of Saigon and numerous other South Vietnam cities.

The subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures has uncovered official documents revealing that 168 U. S. mortar and anti-aircraft gun barrels were taken into South Vietnam by a Chinese found to be a Viet Cong agent.

The Chinese, a Saigon resident, financed this covert arms shipment with foreign aid funds.

EVIDENCE in the committee's hands directly involves top South Vietnamese officials in this traitorous scandal. Whether any Americans are implicated is still not determined.

Although the Chinese has been identified by intelligence as a Viet Cong agent, the South Vietnamese have not taken him into custody nor made any move to prosecute him. Still being checked by the Senate probers is what U. S. authorities are doing.

As so far ascertained by the committee, headed by Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, the highlights are:

A ship arrived at Saigon with a manifest listing 168 used railroad car axles. U. S. customs officials questioned these items as they are not normally eligible for foreign aid financing. The customs agents got nowhere with South Vietnamese authorities.

Their suspicions further aroused, the customs men summoned the Chinese importer for a full explanation.

It was not forthcoming. Thereupon, the customs officials broke open several crates and made the startling discovery that the "used railroad axles" actually were U. S. mortar and anti-aircraft gun barrels in immediately usable condition.

THE LARGE CACHE of weapons was confiscated by U. S. authorities, but a number of extremely pertinent questions still remain to be cleared up. The Senate committee wants to know the following:

Exactly who in AID (the foreign aid agency), both in Saigon and Washington, authorized the financing of this transaction?

How many other shipments were received by this Chinese Viet Cong agent?

How extensive is this kind of foreign aid-financed trade with South Vietnam? What measures, if any, does AID take to establish the reliability and integrity of the individuals involved in such deals, and the true nature of the supplies they import?

THE CLAWS BARED — Much has been said and written about Sen. Eugene McCarthy's "low key" campaigning, but he displayed a very different style at a New York luncheon meeting with members of the editorial staff of a leading women's magazine.

At one point he characterized Johnson as "analagous to a cowbird" and explained what he meant by that, as related in a memo circulated to the magazine staff, as follows:

"A cowbird has no nest. It lays one large egg in another bird's nest, and when the egg hatches the baby cowbird either shoves the other babies out of the nest or gobbles up all the food so that the others starve. As an example of Johnson's cowbird tactics, McCarthy cited the president's attempt to take over the Senate by winning over Dirksen.

"But in this case, the cowbird egg was placed in the nest of larger birds. He won Dirksen and lost the Senate. Now McCarthy feels that Dirksen too will desert the president when the time is right."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Viet Cong Success Only Partial; Outlook Not Bad On Balance

SAIGON — One good way to measure the tide of battle in Vietnam is to compare the scapegoat criticism of Gen. William Westmoreland from home with the realities here.

There is quite a difference.

John Kenneth Galbraith, the Harvard professor and head of the ADA, can look at Saigon from 10,000 miles away and confidently predict that the government of South Vietnam will fall in three weeks.

There are voices in Washington already calling for General Westmoreland to quit or else be fired on the grounds that he can't devise a winning strategy.

LET'S NOT minimize in the least the power and potential of Hanoi's winter-spring offensive. It has produced a military and large psychological dividend.

But the end returns are not in yet. It is much too soon to conclude that it is going to succeed — or fail.

The VC are guilty of the most grotesque over-claims of what they have been accomplishing. These over-claims should be printed; they are news. But we don't have to believe them.

At the height of the fighting in Saigon, for example, a European reporter made contact with a Viet Cong spokesman who told him: "It's clear that the people are with us. That's why we'll conquer the capital and the country."

That statement was news — but it wasn't true. They didn't capture the capital. They haven't captured the country and there was virtually no evidence anywhere in South Vietnam that the people wanted to be liberated from anything but the Viet Cong.

I have just read a transcript of a typical tape recording which the Viet Cong had prepared for use in each city as they captured the radio station. It was in the kit of a captured Communist cadre leader.

"The people are rising like a storm," proclaimed the Communist broadcast that was never delivered. "Many units of the armed forces of the Thieu-Ky puppet regime have joined in an uprising throughout the south."

It didn't happen.

AND WHAT of the panic-suggestion that the U.S. ought to get General Westmoreland out because he hasn't devised "a winning strategy?"

Why did Hanoi turn from its strategy of protracted guerrilla war to gamble with the strategy of frontal confrontation with the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces? Why did Hanoi stop fighting the war on its own terms and start fighting the war on our terms?

Certainly not because its strategy of protracted war was winning. It was the Westmoreland strategy of search and destroy, clear and hold, and the air pounding in the north which was winning.

The fact is that until mid-1966, when the U.S. air and ground forces became formidable, Hanoi was fighting a relatively easy, painless war in the south. It wasn't being hurt much at home and the VC already in the south were doing the fighting and they were winning hands down.

But from mid-1966 Hanoi was finding itself fighting a costly, painful war. The bombing was beginning to bite deep. The manpower pinch was hurting — 175,000 men were needed to man the air defense, 600,000 were needed for constant repair from bombing.

And the crucial fact which reveals how things have changed for Hanoi is that in 1965 only five per cent of the main and local Communist forces in the south were North Vietnamese regulars. By late 1967, 60 per cent were North Vietnamese regulars.

Plenty Of Good Youth News; Women Propose Dog Ordinance

Newspapers often are accused of printing nothing but the bad news about the youth in the community.

Recently a whole group of the opposite type of story — the "good news" of youth — came across my desk in a few days. Nine Boy Scouts won honors; many high school students won honors in regional and state competitions.

The good deeds of the young people outshine the bad ones by a greater ratio than 10 to one. There were so many stories of this type that it gave me a good feeling inside.

A FEW WEEKS ago, I wrote about complaints I had received from people about dogs running loose in Novato. Every winter the problem grows worse than in summer. Apparently people are more inclined to control their dogs in summer because of the damage they do to gardens and flower beds. But in winter, many people let their dogs roam at large.

This winter Novato has been lucky in getting by without the slaughter of sheep. Last year many sheep were killed by packs of dogs both inside the Novato city limits and in the unincorporated areas outside of the city.

However, this year, the women of Novato do not seem to be content to be told that in effect not much, if anything, can be done about the dog problem.

The Novato City Council may get a proposed new dog control law from these women: an ordinance which would have some teeth in it so that it would be illegal to allow dogs to roam at large in the city. It will probably propose a stiff fine for owners of dogs caught running at large.

Whether the city council will pass such an ordinance remains to be seen. However, the idea of people of the city proposing such an ordinance shows how strongly they feel on this problem.

Fire Aboard Plane In Flight –No Place For Tranquilizer

The jet airliner with 159 people on board was cruising 30,000 feet above the overcast. The air was smooth, the flight uneventful. The passengers were relaxed, some sleeping, some reading, a few quietly talking among themselves.

In the cockpit the captain scanned the horizon where the red rim of the full moon had just begun to show. The co-pilot had reported to Center Control and was making notes in the ship's log. The engineer was busying himself changing a light bulb next to the engine panel. He wasn't thinking about the light bulb. . . . He was thinking about San Francisco and a telephone number.

Abruptly, a bright red light flashed on in the cockpit and a loud jangling bell galvanized the crew into action. A fire in the rear baggage compartment had triggered the alarm. The captain cracked orders calling out emergency procedure. The fire-fighting equipment was electrically activated, but the fire was not brought under control.

In the cabin, the passengers sat unaware of the fire which raged below them. Then the smoke began billowing into the cabin, seeping through outlets in the bulkhead and the floor.

LET'S STOP the story at this point.

A fire during a flight is a dreaded occurrence. Fortunately it rarely ever happens. My point is this: In such an emergency or in any other emergency, it is essential that the crew be well trained and ready to meet it. Equally important, they should WANT to meet it.

That is why the Federal Aviation Agency has laws forbidding crew members to fly while taking tranquilizers and certain other drugs.

Without bogging down in medical jargon, let me put it this way. On the flight which I described above . . . smoke filling the cabin, the fire out of control, the situation grave . . . how would you feel if you knew that your life was in the hands of a "happy" crew, tranquilized with a "don't-give-a-damn" feeling?

WE ARE CONSTANTLY bombarded by advertising advising us to buy a product to reduce our tensions. Tensions are caused and the answer is not to reduce the tension but to eliminate the cause.

Tension, like pain, is nature's way of telling us something is wrong . . . nature's warning system at work. Take pain away and we'll have trouble staying alive, and tension is part of this system.

The use of tranquilizers may lead you to believe the cause has been removed. The problem, however, still exists. All of us from time to time yearn for peace and tranquility, but to believe a solution is to be found in a pill is simply to compound the problem.

Life consists of many facets . . . not the least of which are pain, discomfort, inconvenience, peril at times and occasionally even misery. At best, there is usually some disagreeableness . . . at worst, genuine suffering.

Mature people know this.

THE YOUNG of our time who use hallucinatory drugs, for whatever reason they may claim, are evading life. It reduces their perception of the real world and it tends to distort the tough facts of life which, brutal though they may seem, must be faced.

This is the reality.

This is the living!

Novato Cyclist Hurt In Crash

A 16-year-old Novato boy suffered a fractured left hip at 12:15 p. m. Sunday in a motorcycle and car accident in the 700 block of Wilson Avenue, Novato police reported.

Gregory Alan Pack of 764 Tamalpais Avenue, was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Pack, northbound on Wilson Avenue on a motorcycle, made a left turn and was hit by a southbound car driven by Claire Lakey Joslin, 49, of 292 Montego Key, Novato, police reported She was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Burglars Hit Novato Store

Burglars entered the Seven-Eleven store at 800 Diablo Avenue, Novato, through a roof hatch sometime between 6:40 p.m., Friday and 6:30 a.m. Saturday, and took a case of beer valued at $2.65, Novato police reported.

The burglary was discovered by the manager, Casino A. Valco, when he went to open the store, police reported.

Passenger Injured In Auto Crash

Mary J. Littler, 14, of 474 Via Herbosa, Novato, suffered a minor forehead scrape when the car in which she was riding struck a parked car on Alameda de le Loma, east of Calle de la Mesa, Ignacio at 3:35 p.m. Saturday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officer said she was a passenger in a car driven by Frank W. Rossi, 16, of 365 Sunset Parkway, Novato, which stuck a parked car owned by Randall David Capps of 4676 Alameda de la Loma. She refused medical aid, officers reported.

Peace-Freedom Hopefuls 'Eligible'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At least 60 of the 134 members of the Peace and Freedom party who filed intentions to run for state Senate and Assembly seats are "definitely eligible to run," a spokesman for the new party says.

Sherman Pearl noted yesterday that California election laws disqualify candidates who were members of another political party within one year of the filing date and who have not been members of the party in which they are filing for at least three months.

The party claims statewide membership of 105,000 voters.

Dixie District Sets Forum On Curriculum

Are Dixie School District parents satisfied with the curriculum and teaching methods, or do they have suggestions for improvement?

This question will be discussed Thursday night during a district-wide forum to be held at 8 o'clock at Vallecito Junior High School, 50 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael. It is sponsored by the Dixie School District Coordinating Council, headed by Mrs. Dan Beitel.

"The average child" will be the center of discussion. Purpose of the forum is to have an interchange of ideas between parents and educators involved in setting up curriculum and teaching methods. Supt. Dennie B. Willis announced.

Kickoff speaker will be Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent for curriculum. After his talk, parents will have a chance to break up into smaller groups to talk about subjects of their choice. Guiding each group will be a three-member panel composed of teachers, district personnel and community leaders.

Discussion will cover such topics as "Do Tests Test Anything?", "The Third Grade Dropout," "Average Child — Average Curriculum," "Team Teaching — Fact or Fiction," and "Marking or Branding — Report Cards."

The coordinating council is made up of the presidents and a representative from each school's parent club or P-TA in the Dixie District.

Survey May Decide Idle School Site Use

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency, seeking the best use of a vacant high school site in the center of Marin City, moved last night toward a $5,000 study.

Commissioners authorized Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, to seek proposals for a land use and market study.

SURVEY URGED

On hand was a letter from PACT (Plan for Action in Changing Times), a Bay Area organization promoting Negro employment, which said it was working on a proposal.

Development of Marin City "requires a multi-pronged approach including programs which deal with economic and social factors, as well as physical factors," wrote Everett P. Brandon, executive vice president.

"We understand that progress of the development of Marin City has been partially impeded by social problems within Marin City. We feel that many social problems frequently stem from, and are interrelated with, economic problems, such as jobs, unemployment and low income," Brandon wrote.

Development of the Tamalpais High School District site should be coupled with "a total approach to all Marin City development and to Marin City as it relates to nearby areas," Brandon noted.

SINGLES HOUSING

Commissioners briefly discussed an idea from the Committee on Redevelopment of Marin City for apartment house development for single persons at the site.

Commissioner Phillip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the agency didn't need any consultant on housing, but wants someone to help it focus on other possible land uses.

The land is now owned by Tamalpais High School District, and Stutsman said the agency would have to enter into an agreement with the district to release the land.

He said he felt that the district wouldn't release the land until there was some "use in sight."

Commissioners agreed that a committee including Ehrlich, a member of the community services district board, and a staff member should screen applicants for the consultant job.

The committee will then make its recommendation to the commission.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency also:

HOSPITAL DEVELOPMENT — Set April 2 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on amendment of the Marin City redevelopment plan to provide for a three-acre convalescent hospital development. The agreed that a "large number of protests" would affect their decision.

QUORUM CHANGED — In line with enlargement of the commission from five to seven members, amended the by-laws to change the quorum from three to four members, and to change the number required for action to the majority of members present. In the past the majority of all members was required for action.

SCHOOL PROJECT — Endorsed an application by Tamalpais High School District for federal funds for its Project Breakthrough, an experiment in racial communication at the school.

Commissioners Claudette Harris and James Duckworth were absent.

Marin City Cockroaches Overdue Painting Cited

Complaints about cockroaches and lack of painting from residents of public housing in Marin City was reported to the Marin County Housing Authority last night.

James W. Coleman, Economic Opportunity Council director in Marin City, said he had heard "gripes and grievances" from some residents.

'GREETED ME'

He said he couldn't speak for all 1,000 public housing residents, but was "echoing the sentiment of a considerable number."

In some cases apartments haven't been painted for five or six years, he said. Another problem is the control of cockroaches, Coleman reported. "I've been in five or six places where the roaches came out and greeted me."

Another problem is litter, he said. "This might be neglect on the part of residents or it might be neglect on your part."

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director, said normally apartment interiors are repainted every five years, or when there is a change of tenant. Next year's budget includes funds for repainting about 100 units, he said.

BUGS IMMUNE

On cockroaches, Stutsman said there is spraying quarterly, but there is a problem because cockroaches develop immunity to a particular dosage, and it has to be changed.

Commissioners revised their policy to hike the income limits for public housing occupancy about 12 per cent.

The admission limits now rang from $3,700 a year for one person to $6,500 a year for a family of eight or more, and the continued occupancy limits range from $4,625 for one person to $8,700 for eight or more persons.

The Marin County Housing Authority also:

HILARITA OFFICE — As the result of a recent robbery and beating of the office manager at the Hilarita housing project in Tiburon, agreed that the job could be handled from the Marin City office, with the manager visiting the Hilarita site "several days a month."

ANNEXATION — Received an inquiry from Mill Valley about the possibility of annexing the Homestead Senior Project to the city, and a report from Stutsman that the agency's attorney, Howard Morehouse, recommended that annexation proceedings not be undertaken until construction starts.

JOB SELECTION — Agreed that a committee consisting of a commissioner, Stutsman and a Marin County personnel officer, should screen candidates for two jobs, manager of the leased housing program, and manager of the low income housing at Marin City.

FUND PROTECTION — Expressed confidence in the integrity of its staff, but decided in view of the recent loss of funds by the Association of Bay Area Governments, to have an accountant review agency bond coverages and procedures.

Parenthood Talk

Dr. Marilyn Hicks, board member of the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin and assistant health officer in the Marin County Public Health Department, will discuss family planning and birth control on radio station KTIM's Hugh Turner program from 9 to 10 a.m. Friday.

'Egypt Game' Second In Book Contest

Zilpha K. Snyder, children's writer from Larkspur, has been named one of three runners-up in the annual nation-wide Newberry Medal competition for the best children's book.

Mrs. Snyder's book "Egypt Game" won her the runner-up position. She has also written three other children's books.

This year's Newberry Medal winner was a new writer, Mrs. E. L. Konigsburg, for "From the Mixed Up Files of Mrs. Basil E. Frankweiler."

The Mill Valley Public Library has announced it will have Mrs. Kongisburg's book and the runners-up in circulation, and will also have copies of the Caldecott Medal award winner and three runners-up.

The Caldecott award, for the best illustration of a juvenile book, went this year to "Drummer Hoff," written by Barbara Emberley and illustrated by Ed Emberley of Millis, Mass.

The Mill Valley Library also has a non-circulating collection of past Caldecott Medal winners for students of children's literature and for viewing by persons interested in book illustration. The collection was started with a memorial gift on behalf of Miss Sybil Nye, formerly librarian of the Mill Valley Library.

Reagan Names Efficiency Aide

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced the appointment of Edward B. Hutchinson, who has been deputy director of General Services, as his special assistant to coordinate the implementation of recommendations made by the governor's survey on efficiency and cost control.

All department heads and other key personnel in state government have been notified of Hutchinson's temporary assignment and have been asked to cooperate with him to "asure the successful completion of this important project," Reagan said.

Hutchinson, 37, was a Palo Alto real estate developer before appointment to the General Services job in January 1967.

Noel Coward Play Tryouts Are Set

The Terra Linda Players will have open tryouts for parts in Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" at the Terra Linda Community Center, 670 Del Ganado Road, at 2 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday.

The cast consists of two men and five women. The production, to be directed by Irene Pritzker, is scheduled to run eight Fridays and Saturdays, starting May 3.

Barham Session

The Barham for Assembly Committee will hold a public meeting to promote the candidacy of Clay Barham of Novato for the Republican nomination for the Assembly at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Mill Valley School District office, 25 Miller Avenue.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Sister George' Not Up To Early Raves

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — The tag line of a famous old English joke is "Wot did you expect — feathers?" I guess I did, since "The Killing of Sister George" received so many awards. Even if the road production which opened at the Geary last night had pace, which it doesn't, it's a dull play for my money.

Sister George is a character in a TV soap opera. It's obvious from author Frank Marcus' program note that British soap opera is little different from the American kind, and Marcus says "Those of us who are truly alive can laugh at it."

TANGLED PLOT

Unfortunately, there is not enough laughter in "Sister George" to make up for its long and boring sequences. June Buckridge, the actress who plays Sister George, is a cigar-smoking, gin-swilling type of homosexual known as a bull dyke. She lives with Alice (Childie) McNaught, a 34-year-old case of arrested development played beautifully by Patricia Sinnot. Since the actrews playing an actress who is playing a role could be confusing, let us note that Claire Trevor plays June-George.

June, afraid that Sister George will be written out of the serial, panics at a visit from Mrs. Mercy Croft, a wheel at the BBC. Mrs. Croft is merely there to reprimand June about a drunken episode, but after taking a fancy to Alice, Mrs. Croft eventually engineers the demise of Sister George. Aiding mainly the playwright is a clairvoyant lady named Madame Xenia.

ONE ACT STRETCHED

There isn't much more embellishment than this to the plot and since the characterizations are not changed by the happenings, things get a bit thin. The third act is the best and makes one suspect that Mr. Marcus had himself a fairly good one act play and tried to stretch it, with predictable results.

The results as the play progressees are also predictable, so that everything is stripped of mystery long before the end. If Marcus intends us to second guess him continually, why bother. He does not, like Hitchcock, hold us with suspense as to "how" the obvious will happen. We barely care about the obvious in "Sister George," so why worry about it? Wot did I expect . . . ?

Miss Trevor battles valiantly to make Sister George likable and credible, but rarely succeeds. Her first act is spent in holding her voice at a suitable bull-like low level, thereby robbing it of any charm or reality. In the second act she becomes human and instantly likable, but by act three she's again sounding like those men who used to sing "Asleep In The Deep," and we almost are. I have the feeling that Miss Trevor's normal voice, which leaked through at times, might solve her problems.

BETTER ROLES

Miss Sinnott, on the other hand, is nigh perfect as a conniver who mealy-mouths her way around anyone who will hold still. And Polly Rowles garners the most laughs in the show with her slightly Russian accented Madame Xenia, a neat example of how to create a character without seeming to strain at it.

The fourth role, Mrs. Mercy, is played with terrible monotony by Natalie Schafer, who, the program says, "has starred for the past three years in the popular television series, Gilligan's Island, portraying the frivolous, lovable Lovey Howell."

Warren Crane directed after Val May's original staging. As we said, the pace is slow. No credit is given for the very effective set. "Sister George" plays nightly except Monday through March 9.

Law Would Aid Theater Owners

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Student groups could no longer show feature movies for profit at state colleges and public junior colleges under proposed legislation.

Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, introduced the measure yesterday because theater operators "are slowly being forced out of business" by student fund-raising showings at "outrageously low prices."

He said the legislation is worded so student groups can continue to show educational films for an admission to cover costs.

Pop Festival Plans Are Off

MONTEREY (UPI) — The Monterey County Fair Board today canceled plans for a second annual Monterey International Pop Festival because of opposition from civic groups.

The board had authorized Manager George Wise to negotiate with John Phillips, Los Angeles, spokesman for the pop music groups and leader of the Mommas and Papas. The negotiations were canceled because of civic protests.

The festival had been tentatively scheduled for June 21-23.

Louisiana entered the Union April 30, 1812.

Candidates' Wives-On Trail

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press

Lenore Romney makes speeches, the eighth of the day as effective as the first.

Abigail McCarthy talks, answers questions, soothes restive crowds when her husband is running late and mellows stiff social gatherings.

Pat Nixon stands in receiving lines for hours, shaking hands with undiminishing vigor — "She really squeezes," marvels a New Hampshire voter — and occasionally hugs a newfound friend with fond exuberance.

IN THE NEW Hampshire primary campaign, climaxed by the voting on March 12, the wife is not only an important member of the team, she is often the hardest worker next to the candidate himself. Most of the time she is making solo appearances, facing crowds of strangers without the familiar comfort of her husband beside her.

While the candidates' schedules fall more or less into the same pattern, their wives campaign in a manner uniquely their own.

Mrs. Nixon, for example, does not make speeches. She never has, not when her husband was running successfully for the vice presidency in 1956 on the Republican ticket, nor when he was running unsuccessfully for the presidency in 1960.

"I have never spoken on issues," she explains," but I do talk to people and get their opinions. I am eyes and ears for Dick. He's the speechmaker of the family, and we've always considered him so. What if I didn't know the Pueblo had been hijacked and someone asked me about it? Anyway, this is our idea."

MRS. NIXON works mostly in his campaign office in New York. "I like to be identified with the other volunteers," she says. "I learn a great deal from women."

Sometimes she travels with her husband, shaking hands and listening to him speak. During a recent weekend, accompanied by her two daughters — Tricia, 21, a real blonde beauty, and Julie, 19, brunette and vivacious — and David Eisenhower, Julie's fiance and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's 19-year-old grandson, she made her first solo appearance in this campaign.

At receptions at the Exeter Inn and in the high school cafeteria in Rochester, N.H., she seemed relaxed and happy as she greeted well wishers.

"They say you can shake hands with 700 an hour," she answered, when asked how many guests she thought attended, "but I talked so long to them maybe there were 600 in two hours."

Like Mrs. Romney, Mrs. McCarthy is up to the minute in her knowledge of what is going on in the world and how her husband feels about every issue. When Abigail McCarthy says — on a live call-in radio show in Keene, or in question-and-answer periods following talks in Nashua and Manchester—that "Gene feels we should . . ." it's as authoritative as though it came from the man himself.

Mrs. McCarthy says she likes campaigning. "It's physically tiring, but the great interchange of ideas is stimulating. You get fresh insights. Sitting in Washington you can get frustrated."

In the crowded reception room of the Peterborough Historical Society, backed up against a table of coffee and doughnuts, Mrs. McCarthy greeted hundreds of her husband's supporters with a firm handshake and a warm smile. "Twenty years ago, when he started, I had to learn to steel myself to six people showing up," she mused at one point.

Beside her was 18-year-old Mary McCarthy, who dropped out of Radcliffe for a semester to campaign for her father. Small, freckled, brunette Mary is one of McCarthy's motivating factors in running, says her mother.

"She kept saying to him: 'What are you going to do this year? Are you going to let this go on?'

"We're proud of Mary. But we're proud of all four children — Ellen, Margaret, Michael. All the family is helping."

A new social activity, thought up by the New Hampshire volunteers, is a series of evening receptions which the McCarthys visit in tandem. Usually the senator arrives first, socializes, makes a small speech. His wife arrives. More socializing. The senator leaves for the ne reception and Mrs. McCarthy stays awhile to do what she calls "cleaning up after him." People, she says, will ask her questions they felt shy about putting to him.

WHETHER THERE'S a new Richard Nixon as some claim, mellowed and more relaxed, the Granite State women kept talking about the new Mrs. Nixon. In the 1960 campaign, they agreed she frequently looked tense and sharp-featured, and although she put her heart and soul in her handshaking, she seemed timid about making a misstep.

Eight years later she looks 10 years younger and prettier than she's been for a long time. Her face is fuller, her tawny hair more bouffant, her manner lighthearted.

The most indefatigable campaigner on the New Hampshire primary circuit, including the candidates, is probably Lenore Romney, wife of Michigan's Republican governor and mother of four, grandmother of nine. She maintains a punishing pace six days a week, then flies home to Michigan to teach her Mormon Sunday School class.

She says: "By Saturday night I never want to talk to anyone again, but by Monday I'm ready to go."

MRS. ROMNEY starts out as early in the morning as she can, often at 8 a.m., and drives hard all day, from home coffee party to high school assembly to coffee hour at a general store to meeting skiers at a lodge. Sometimes she doesn't see her husband for days.

Mrs. Romney is a pretty red-dish-brown-haired, almost fragile looking woman with laugh wrinkles around her eyes. She is adept at putting nervous hostesses and their guests at ease at the six or so home coffee parties she attends in a day. She never drinks coffee herself, but sometimes sips hot water to soothe her throat.

MRS. RICHARD NIXON

Often there are not more than 200 women gathered in the living room to hear her, but each time she puts everything she's got into her speech.

She never uses notes, but begins talking quietly, taking her cue from her surroundings. Standing beside an American flag at the Newfields Town Hall she told about 25 women, which is 50 per cent of the registered women voters there, about the great moral crisis she believed was threatening the nation.

In the Concord High School auditorium she won attention from 700 teen-agers by telling them: "You have the right to rebel, but make sure what you're repelling for is greater than what you're rebelling against."

THROUGH ALL her speeches runs her deep belief in her husband, who, she says has never had a hint of scandal in business, or his personal or political life "and the worst thing they can say about him is that he is a square. Well, I think this country is ready for a straight arrow."

An equally articulate, but much more low-key, speaker is Mrs. Eugene J. McCarthy, wife of the Minnesota senator

Mardi Gras Ball Votes Raise $41,000

By MOLLY MARIN

Mrs. James E. Gamlen of San Mateo reigned as queen of the 1968 Mardi Gras Ball held Saturday night in the Garden Court of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

The ball, sponsored by the Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital, raised in excess of $41,000.

Votes for Mrs. Gamlen amounted to $9,632. Runners-up, Mrs. James Dunbar and Mrs. Joseph Flahavan, raised $7,175 and $4,820 respectively.

Mrs. Jack Burke of Kentfield placed eighth, and close behind her in ninth place was Kathee Murdock of Ross.

MANY MARINITES are planning to entertain preceding the annual dinner of the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin on Saturday at the Peacock Gap Country Club. Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, president of Planned Parenthood World Population of New York will be the speaker.

Entertaining friends are Messrs. and Mesdames David Park of San Rafael, Galen H. Williams and Norton McMichael of Mill Valley and James McNab of Ross.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Taylor of Ross will be hosts to Messrs. and Mesdames Lawrence Higbee, Robert Clark, Ian White and Van Norden Logan before joining other board members at the 6:30 p.m. party.

Taking guests are Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Stephens of Ross and the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Gompertz of San Rafael. A table has been reserved by Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Kraus of Belvedere, who will be joined by friends from Tiburon and San Francisco.

MRS. CARMEN G. LOXLEY of Vina Del Mar, Chile, Sausalito's sister city, was entertained by Sausalitans at two events on Sunday. Mrs. Lovley is assistant director at the bi-national center in Vina Del Mar, a cultural institute which has foreign nationals on its board of directors. It is chartered under laws of the host country and is not under American auspices.

In the afternoon the visitor was a guest of honor at a small cocktail party at the home of Col. and Mrs. Brookner W. Brady. Other guests were the Kenneth Elkingtons, Don Olsens, William Ansells, Earl G. Thomsons, Jan Paul Dyks and Loren Jays.

In the evening she was honored at an informal supper at the Jays' home, where other guests included the young people connected with the sister city program. These were Tamalpais High School students Terry Copperman of Mill Valley, the 1966-67 exchange student to Vina Del Mar, Frances McCarty of Mill Valley, this year's exchange student there; Hector Brito of Vina Del Mar, who is staying with the Jays; and Ciro Herrera, a guest in the Copperman home while attending the College of Marin this year.

Tomales, San Rafael Teens Receive Awards At Conclave

Two of the three Marin teenagers who attended the statewide Food Comes First for Youthpower Conference on the weekend at Asilomar placed for awards.

Winning a $20 award was Madelyn Angress, a sophomore at Tomales High School, whose project was "Photosynthesis." Pat Dahl of San Rafael High School was given an honorable mention for her food project, "Science in Space Foods." Both received plaques for their work.

The conference is sponsored annually by the California Farm Bureau Federation and the California Foods Industry. Mrs. Frances Dahl, Marin County Public Health Department nutritionist and Marin chairman for the youthpower program, accompanied the girls to Asilomar.

Both of the girls will have a chance to return to the conference next year as leaders if they can interest other teenagers in similar food research projects. In the meantime they are available to meet with Marin groups to explain their projects and their purpose, Mrs. Dahl said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girls Who Haunt And Stalk Guys Don't Stand A Ghost Of A Chance

DEAR HELEN:

I have a girl problem. Like one too many! Not that I'm a BMOC, but there's this girl who seems to be after me. She's everywhere I am. She tells people I'm her boyfriend. She flirts with me and acts like she owns me which burns my real girl. I don't lead her on, though she's pretty good looking, just not my type.

How can I stop her stalking me without hurting her feelings? — HAUNTED

DEAR HAUNTED:

Aim her at a boy who thinks she's great. If this doesn't work, it's time for some brotherly advice: like "girl who haunts guy hasn't ghost of chance with him!"—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Will all fellas please hear this!

It's about time you males got together and changed the line you hand us girls. Your same old sales pitch is so predictable I could die laughing.

Ask yourselves how many times you've told a girl you love her on the first date? Next time I hear this from a guy I scarcely know, I'll ask, "And what are you going to say for an encore?"

How many of you Don Juans have told a girl you would never want to marry a virgin? Who are you trying to kid? Just imagine if it was your sister being handed this line. I bet you'd knock the guy down.

If we don't lower our standards to suit you we are labeled stiffs, and if we do we're called easy. How come the girl always gets the reputation when it's a two-way affair?

I'm 19 and have been resisting lines for four years. What bothers me is the stupidity of girls who fall for them. — P.L.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a fat problem: my lip! It is so big you wouldn't believe it.

I hate going to parties because I'm always conscious of my under lip and I'm sure everybody is laughing. I never noticed it so much before; I've always been pretty popular, but nowadays if anyone looks at me I get embarrassed and turn red.

What can I do when some of the kids mock me out and call me — MARSHMALLOW LIP

DEAR M.L.:

Face it: kids mock out the girl who gets embarrassed and turns red, especially if they're a bit jealous of her.

A piece of your lip, polite but to the point, might quiet down these lippy teasers.

And I'll bet the right touch of lipstick, plus some smile-practice before a mirror would turn what you think is a defect into an asset.—H.

Pebble Beach were Mr. and Mrs. Lester H. Clark, who stayed at Del Monte Lodge.

ON THE COMMITTEE for the Multiple Sclerosis Auxiliary's benefit "The Nob Hill Nob," set for April 20 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel are several Marinites. Mrs. Herbert Lawrence of Mill Valley is co-chairman, and working also are Mesdames Bennett Wren of Tiburon, Charles Knapp and Lawrence Green, both of Belvedere. A champagne fashion salute will be given March 25 at Place Pigalle in San Francisco as a salute to the benefit. A Rouge et Noir theme will be used for the fashion show with an entire show of blacks and reds only.

A NEW BABY GIRL has been added to the household of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weirick. She was born Feb. 20 at Marin General Hospital. The infant, named Toni Lee, is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Misuraca of Belvedere and Mr. and Mrs. L. Don Weirick, also of Belvedere. She has a sister, Tracy, 8. Her parents, Jerry and Barbara Weirick have recently returned to Marin after living in Tasmania, where Jerry was in the construction business. The baby will be christened at St. Hilary's Church, Tiburon.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER Rapport gave a housewarming party for 60 guests at their new home in Tiburon on Sunday. The couple were married in Mill Valley a month ago. Mrs. Rapport is the former Marina Fairweather.

THE GARY DASSELS, (the former Pamela Maelgarejo), will arrive in Novato on Saturday to visit her mother, Mrs. Winifred Cotton. Pamela and Gary were married Dec. 13 in the chapel at Oaknoll Naval Hospital and their wedding trip consisted of a tour of the eastern states. Gary is now serving in the Navy stationed at Camp Pendleton until next January, when the couple plan to leave California and make their permanent home in Indiana.

Why Can't I Wear Long Hair?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

It isn't easy for a body to play the role of non-conformist.

He often finds himself in a terrible dilemma. Here he is flaunting society, taking a respite from conventional ideas, and it isn't having the desired effect.

He has hoped to feel terribly important and more of a he man, mustering up the courage to snub society and the social graces, and what happens? His family and girls friends are likely to call him a sissy.

"I let my hair grow long in back because I honestly felt that I wanted to be different," explains a 17-year-old. "It is not even long enough to create a problem with school authorities, but my family and friends (female) act like I'm some sort of creep. My girl said it made me look like a sissy. My father acts like I've left the human race.

"If my mother can wear false eyelashes and my father can wear loud sports shirts and maintain their cool, why can't I wear my hair long?" he asks.

AT THIS POINT, it is longer than he planned it to be, he admits. "It sort of was like this, the more they heckled, the more I refused to cut it."

His girl didn't make "a big deal of it," he says, until he told her he would pick her up at her home. She suggested that "first, maybe you better cut your hair. My parents won't like it."

"Why is hair everyone's business?" he asks. "You see girls in short-short, thigh-length dresses and men's pants and suits, and they call it new fashion," he says.

HIS FATHER explains that a boy with long hair looks unkempt and that is the difference. It's like wearing a rumpled suit or a wrinkled dress, unshined shoes or a dress shirt without a tie.

All of the young man's grief will be assuaged shortly, he says, because he is hard at work on research for a school essay on how the older generation acted in their teens.

He's found out plenty. . . women made headlines when they bobbed their hair. . . they were accused of acting like men when they began to smoke. . . college students swallowed gold fish and there were thriving businesses in roulette after hours in dormitories of good universities. . . there are the stories of students who were quietly expelled for inviting ladies to their dorms. . . and the prohibition era will provide him with plenty of ammunition, he says.

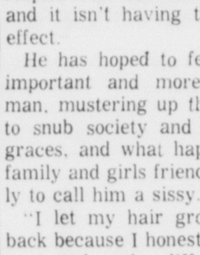
NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

San Francisco: — Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.



Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at The Emporium Bras and Girdles: All seven Big E's.

Style Coordinator Turns To Rewarding Anti-Poverty Work

By DENNIS L. McCALL

FRESNO (UPI) — Susan Christensen gave up the enviable job of style coordinator for a leading New York fashion store to become an anti-poverty worker in a rural farming area.

It was a big change for the shapely 22-year-old brunette, but she says there is more to life than money, and she places a high value on personal reward.

Miss Christensen left New York last June to visit her sister in Fresno and stayed, giving up her job at exclusive Saks Fifth Avenue to become area coordinator for Fresno county's Community Service Organization (CSO), an anti-poverty group in the heart of California's agricultural San Joaquin Valley.

Is her new line of work unglamorous, especially compared to Saks?

"Not in the least," she said. "I think it's the most beautiful and rewarding job in the world. Only my body gets tired, not my enthusiasm or desire."

As area coordinator she oversees the organization's poverty program in five small Fresno county cities. She and her fellow CSO members work with more than 200 persons in the area who fall in the low-income bracket.

In her New York job Miss Christensen hobnobbed with the elite. Now she is rubbing shoulders with those at the bottom of the social ladder and finding her work much more rewarding.

She quickly brushes off any comparison in wages and working conditions between her New York job and the CSO.

"In this job you don't think of the salary. I enjoyed my work at Saks, but I was not satisfied with myself. I began thinking that there must be something I could do for someone else."

As one of two fashion coordinators at the New York store she was charged with selecting styles and accessories for junior fashions. Her duties included planning for the store's fashion shows and designing window displays. She came prepared for the job with a college background in art and three months' study at a New York modeling school.

With CSO things are different. Now it's a sweatshirt and a pair of jeans, and the nearest she has come to art is painting kitchen cabinets.

Miss Christensen has no second thoughts about swapping high fashion for the war on poverty.

"Our basic job is convincing these people there is a better way to live. They are interested in helping themselves and are willing to give it a try. We just give them encouragement."

Education is the key, she feels. "Education is the way we will really get these people on their feet again."

New Motherhood Book Is Issued

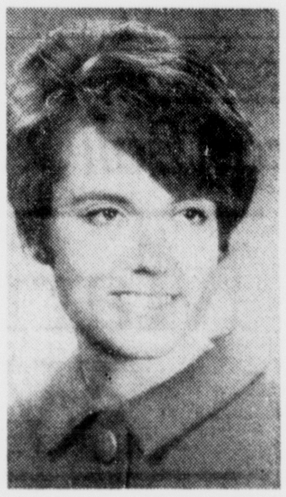
NEW YORK (WMNS) — A new informed book on motherhood and infantdom, Modern Motherhood, by H. M. I. Liley, M. D. and Beth Day, might well find its place on a young mother's library next to her well-thumbed copy of Dr. Spock.

Dr. Liley, a New Zealander, is the mother of five children and is the Director of the Ante-Natal Clinic at the National Women's Hospital in Auckland, N. Z. Personally and professionally qualified, she describes in careful and precise detail not only what happens to a woman when she becomes pregnant, but what happens to the fetus developing in her womb. Her chapter on labor is straightforward, factual, no-nonsense. And her descriptions of the infant, his stresses, his needs are full of insight.

Unlike many American physicians, she views breast-feeding as the best of all possible methods and endorses it without reservation. The book, published by Random House, has a useful appendix of exercises for the pregnant woman, as well as a guide to layette assembling and diet.

Karen Margaret Peterson Engaged To Thomas Nelson

Announcement of the engagement of Karen Margaret Peterson and Thomas Arthur Nelson of Santa Cruz has been made by her mother, Mrs. James C. Peterson of San Rafael.



KAREN PETERSON

Karen is the daughter of the late James C. Peterson and attended San Rafael High School and College of Marin. She is a graduating senior majoring in mathematics at University of California at Davis.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin T. Nelson of Santa Cruz and the brother of Gordon Nelson. Mrs. Bertha Strobel of Lodi is his grandmother.

Tom attended Cabrillo College in Santa Cruz and was graduated from UC at Davis where he is continuing graduate studies in engineering as well as teaching in the engineering department.

A June 22 wedding at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael is planned.

ON THE AGENDA

Dominican Alumnae To Gather For Spring Tea, Campus Tour

The Marin alumnae chapter and faculty of Dominican College have issued invitations to Bay Area high school students and their mothers to attend the annual spring tea and tour of the San Rafael campus at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Guests will gather at Meadowlands, the freshman dormitory to be entertained by the International Students Club with members from 18 countries.

Alumnae and students will then take the mothers and daughters on a tour of the campus which will conclude at Pennafort Hall, the junior-senior dormitory, where tea will be served.

Mrs. Charles C. Gardiner of San Rafael is chairman for the tea, and San Rafael alumnae members Mesdames Edward J. Grady and John D. Taddeucci will pour.

College faculty members who will join the alumnae to welcome the guests are Sister Marie, O.P., director of admissions; Dr. Mary Wills, Miss Etel Adnan, Mrs. Lillian Seaver, Dr. Henry Aigner, John Savant and Robin Skewes-Cox.

Alumnae committee chairmen are Mesdames Richard I. Pera of San Rafael, John F. Fassio of Kentfield, John Heilmann of Corte Madera, and Larry Fulton of Fairfax.

MEMBERS AND staff of the Marin Young Women Christian Association will attend an all day leadership workshop, Thursday in Mill Valley.

According to Mrs. Lloyd Stevenson, new committee of management chairman, the purpose of the workshop is to set up guidelines for the development of YWCA program in Marin for the next three to five years. Mrs. Donald Kelley, director of the Marin County volunteer bureau, will serve as resource consultant.

Members of the Marin committee of management attending are Mesdames Richard Willmington, R. H. Fohlen, Richard Congreve, George Jewett, Dennis Moore and David Sumbardo and Miss Mary Henry.

Representing the YW-Wives Club will be Mrs. Donald Pierce, president, and Mrs. David Carbine, vice president.

NANCI KEEGAN of Novato was crowned queen at the Novato High School Air Force Junior Reserve Officers training corps cadet squadron dance Saturday night at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base. Annika Karlsson, exchange student from Sweden, was first runner up and Debbie Meisner was second runner up.

OLDIES BUT goodies, and some new items, will be sold this weekend at the annual rummage sale held to benefit the foreign exchange student program at Redwood High School.

The sale is scheduled at the old Safeway store, 121 San Anselmo Ave., San Anselmo, Friday from noon until 9 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

An adult committee has been collecting rummage and will take more donations. The store will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Wednesday taking in and marking sale items.

Proceeds will help bring more foreign students to Redwood, and send Redwood students abroad for work, travel and study experience.

Chairman of the sale is Mrs. Henry Eddy of Ross.

NOVATO HIGH School Parent-Faculty Club will meet at 8 p.m., tomorrow at the gymnasium. Henry Morawski, new principal of San Marin High School, Paul Mobley, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of curriculum, and Stanley Onderdonk, principal of Novato High School, will discuss the new high school.

NEWEST ACTIVITY of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley will be an evening section starting on March 21.

With the growing trend for women to return to careers after rearing their families, and with more and more members employed and unable to participate in daytime activities, the need for an evening section was apparent.

The first meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Plans are for the group to be concerned with regular club activities and projects. There will be one meeting a month with a variety of programs followed by a social hour. Mrs. Roger Verran will act as liaison between the group and the board of directors.

Organizing committee members are president Mrs. J. Paul Hurd, and Mesdames Carlton Banigan, J. V. Buckley, Robert Stott, John Lennon and Mrs. Verran.

FIRST SPEAKER in the "looking at the needs of the non-participant in our society" series sponsored by the Reed District Parent-Teachers Club will be Al Rinker, director of the Haight-Ashbury Switchboard. The lecture will be given at 4 p.m. tomorrow at Reed School.

This program is in addition to the family life lecture series meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Del Mar School, when Dr. Hillel Abel will discuss juvenile smoking and drinking.

HOLD EVERYTHING!

Displaying the purse every woman needs to hold all her paraphernalia, Jan Gregg is happy with this "seaman's bag" handmade of saddle leather in West Germany. It is one of the items being displayed at the Ice House, San Francisco's new International Market Center, which opened last week. (UPI Telephoto)

Be Patient While Trying To Snare A Teen-Ager's Attention

Parents unable to carry on serious conversations with teenage children think the youngsters don't want to talk with them. The truth is the teenagers really long for such conversations with their parents, but keep things on a superficial level for many reasons.

This opinion is expressed by Stanley Jacobs in an article in the February issue of the Christian Herald, in which he tells why his conversation gap exists between the generations and how it can be bridged.

"If my wife and I try to speak with the boys about any subject in which a real exchange of thoughts and feelings is involved, all we get are polite but chilling stares and little half-smiles as if we weren't quite right mentally," he quotes one father as saying.

AFTER GETTING opinions of a large number of teen-agers, Mr. Jacobs has found that children avoid conversations in depth with adults for the following reasons:

The youngsters have learned their confidences are not respected. Their parents tell each other, or other relatives what has been revealed in private, or make jokes, or discuss their opinions with outside friends, and the child clams up.

Parents do not accept their children's feelings as real, but attempt to change their moods without sitting down and trying to find out exactly what bothers them.

Parents substitute advice and orders for real conversation, dodging the issue when it comes to telling their children what they really think about such subjects as petting, cheating on examinations, politics, or religion.

Parents talk too pompously or too knowingly, emphasizing only what they think without listening to the youngster's ideas, which is boring. Before the child's friends they pretend to be authorities on subjects about which they are ignorant.

IN THE MIDST of a discussion, parents lose patience, lay down the law and bark out, "You'd better do what I say," or "I know best," cutting off communication.

Fathers refuse to take time to talk with their sons except at the dinner table, when the boy does not want to go into man-to-man conversations before his mother and sisters.

"After children are in their teens, you no longer automatically can obtain their attention and talk with them whenever you feel like it," cautions Mr. Jacobs. "In a sense, parents become strangers to almost all adolescents. And no stranger is always welcome in conversations unless he earns friendship and respect and is willing to listen as well as speak."

YOU MUST BE patient while trying to snare a teen-ager's attention, he advises. You must win interests before attempting to start a conversation.

One way to bridge the gap is to arrange for youngsters to help with household chores which give opportunity for conversations to sprout normally while you work.

Others, he says, have found that talk flows easily once away from daily pressures, and they plan camping and boating activities and trips together.

Lively verbal give-and-take cannot take place in competition with radios, phonographs and TV, he emphsizes. One family observes a quiet hour — including no long phone calls — between 7 and 8 p.m., and has found that stimulating talk develops.

The teen-ager is most interested in discussing his problems when he first gets home from school when they loom largest, Mr. Jacobs observes. Non-working mothers should arrange to be home at that time if possible. The youngster is disappointed if no one is there to lend an ear.

Although the parent should be available, sympathetic and interested, he should never be eager to agree to everything a teen-ager says in order to be a good guy, Mr. Jacobs warns.

"IF HE SAYS something outrageous or wrong, to which you react strongly, speak up! Youngsters joke about 'squares' but they respect conviction and forthrightness. Affably agreeing with every faddish or shallow view voiced by young people in order to make them accept you merely convinces them you are superficial and afraid of arguing with them," he emphasizes.

City Papers To Recap Missed Comic Strips

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Comic addicts will be brought up to date on their favorite cartoon strip characters when San Francisco's newspapers resume publication tomorrow following a 55-day shutdown because of a labor dispute.

A spokesman for the morning independent Chronicle and afternoon Hearst Examiner said each would run a synopsis of continuity of every comic strip so readers would know what had transpired since Jan. 4, the last day of publication.

OUT JAN. 5

The Mailers Union struck Jan. 5 and members of 14 other unions declined to cross picket lines.

Mediator Sam Kagel gained final approval Sunday on contracts negotiated by each of the unions. In addition to noneconomic issues, the three-year pacts called for a total wage and benefit package increase of $32 over the period and a common expiration date of March 1.

Full editorial staffs went back to work on both papers yesterday. Some mechanical workers returned to work last night, with the full composing room staff due today and pressroom men back tonight.

3,000 IDLED

Some 3,000 employees had been idled by the shutdown.

Kagel was brought into the picture early in February by Mayor Joseph Alioto after talks had broken down between the mailers and publishers.

Kagel instituted the proposal for a common contract expiration date, then brought in the unions one by one to iron out noneconomic matters. Then a joint union committee took up the money problem and contract date.

The union meberships gave final approval Sunday, with the mailers delaying the announcement by engaging in prolonged debate before giving approval 213 to 10.

Design Requests Are Withdrawn

The Corte Madera Board of Design had a near holiday last night, with applicants of both items on its agenda withdrawing their requests.

Federal Sign and Signal Corp., Oakland, had asked for approval of a proposed kiosk, a small house to be located in the mall of Corte Madera Shopping Center, and A. R. Nicolaisen had asked for approval of a proposed 24-unit apartment building at 779 Meadowsweet Drive.

Both applicants indicated, however, they will resubmit the requests after making changes.

Academy Exams Set

VALLEJO (AP) —Entrance examinations will begin March 2 for the next academic year's class at the California Maritime Academy, officials announced yesterday.

Struck Paper, Unions Seek Murder Clews

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rewards totaling $15,000 are offered by the unions and management of the struck Los Angeles Herald-Examiner for the arrest and conviction of the killer of a nonunion printer for the paper.

The Hearst-owned newspaper offered a $10,000 reward yesterday and a council for the nine unions involved in the dispute offered another $5,000.

Maurice Maynard, 35, of Concord (Contra Costa County) died last Thursday from a bullet wound suffered Feb. 13 when an unidentified assailant shot him and wounded another printer at their motel after they returned from work.

The American Newspaper Guild struck the afternoon daily last Dec. 15. Eight other unions subsequently joined the strike. The newspaper has continued publication during the dispute.

The guild sought a new top minimum wage of $200 weekly for reporters and photographers. Management offered to increase the current $174 weekly wage by $13.

Novatan Reports Home Is Ransacked

His house was completely ransacked while he was gone between Wednesday and yesterday, Bob Edward Wakeman of 742 Orange Street, Novato, reported Sunday to police.

Entry was made through the garage into the house, police reported. All drawers were dumped and their contents scattered in every room of the house except the two bathrooms, police reported. The exact amount of the loss will not be known until a complete inventory is made of their belongings, Wakeman told police.

Kayak Is Stolen From Parked Auto

Burglars yesterday stole a small Eskimo kayak valued at over $150 from a parked vehicle owned by Daniel J. Mayhofen of San Diego and parked at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, police reported.

Also taken were two kayak paddles and a bag of souvenirs worth $10. Entry was by breaking a right wing window, officer said.

Air Force Expediter Gets New Urban Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Retired Air Force Gen. Bernard Schriever, the man primarily responsible for closing the missile gap in the early 1960s, will head the government's program to get private industry to play a more active role in rebuilding the nation's cities.

Schriever's appointment as a special consultant for business participation was announced yesterday by Secretary Robert Weaver of the Housing and Urban Development Department.

NEW ROLE

The former commander of the Air Force Systems Command is curently employed as an industrial adviser specializing in urban affairs. His role with the government, Weaver said, will be to form policies on attracting wide business involvement in urban activities.

Schriever, 57, was in charge of the U.S. missile program during the time the first U.S. ICBM, the Atlas, became operational and when plans for the solid fueled rockets now in use were worked out.

Weaver also announced the establishment of the Office of Business Participation with Robert F. McAuliffe as its director. Industry proposals for housing and urban program participation will be coordinated directly through this office.

REALTORS' IDEAS

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, meanwhile proposed a plan to solve urban housing problems through tax breaks for the housing industry, by teaching public housing tenants how to conduct themselves and by keeping "the Nebraska form" of closed housing laws.

The Nebraska law says it shall be a misdemeanor punishable by fine of $500 or 30 days in jail or both to threaten or to coerce a property owner about the sale or to whom he sells his property.

$3 Million Will Be Sought For Asia Foundation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department plans to ask Congress for more than $3 million to support the Asia Foundation, which was involved in a furor last year over Central Intelligence Agency financing.

A department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, said yesterday the Agency for International Development (AID) would request $2.5 million to support Asia Foundation programs and an additional $600,000 would be sought for the foundation by the Bureau of Cultural Affairs.

The foundation figured in disclosures that the CIA had subsidized student, labor and similiar private groups with secret funds. It was brought out that the Asia Foundation had served as a conduit for some of the money allocated by the intelligence agency.

The city of Adelaide, Australia, is surrounded by parks, separating it from suburbs.

FOR BURDELL MANSION

Hippies Seeking School

By WAT TAKESHITA

A happy communal family of 25, who has hired former Nicasio School principal Mrs. Garnet Brennan to tutor their youngsters at Burdell Mansion, strolled into the Civic Center yesterday to ask for a use permit for a private school in the 19-room mansion.

Mrs. Brennan is the controversial principal who was fired last October by the Nicasio School District Board because she acknowledged she had been smoking marijuana for years.

BEARDS, BEADS

The group wearing beards, beads and hippie clothing, appeared before Thomas E. Cordill zoning administrator in the planning commission chambers. The group's spokesman, Don Hugo McCoy, and Cordill immediately ran into language difficulty. Cordill had to back up several times to get in tune with McCoy and his 24 "children."

"How many children do you have living there?" asked Cordill.

"Children under what age?" asked McCoy.

"Children of all ages," replied Cordill.

'25 CHILDREN'

"We have 25 children," said McCoy, as several members of the audience tittered.

Cordill raised an eyebrow. "Then how many adults to you have living there?"

"The adults are included in the 25," said McCoy matter-of-factly. "You see, we're all children."

Realizing he was speaking a different language, Cordill smiled and tried again. "How many children under 16?"

"Eleven children under 16."

McCoy later told newsmen what he meants was that "we're all children of God, and all hoping to be as happy and free as they are." McCoy, formerly engaged in the building business, operates the McCoy Floating Homes near Richardson Bay Bridge.

MANSION MAN—Don Hugh McCoy relaxes at the Burdell Mansion, which he dreams of converting into a communal dwelling and school. (Independent-Journal photo)

Toward the close of the hearing, Cordill pointed out that the county has set up certain building and health standards and suggested that the residents would have to "conform."

"Not conform," Cordill corrected himself. "But, rather, meet certain requirements." This brought a murmur of approval from the audience.

Having ironed out most of the language difficulties, Cordill informed McCoy and his group he would take the matter under submission and reach a decision after McCoy had submitted detailed floor plans of the building and the building and health officials had given their reports.

About 10 children, ranging in age from 6 to 13, sat quietly with their parents for more than an hour without uttering a sound.

Spokesmen for McCoy included San Francisco attorneys Molly Minudri and William Flenniken Jr. and Ralph Silver, San Francisco public relations man.

"We'll do everything possible to cooperate with the county," said Mrs. Minudri, who represented Mrs. Brennan during the Marin marijuana controversy in Nicasio. "I feel that within a reasonable time we can bring everything up to code."

McCoy told the zoning administrator the residents plan to get county and state approval for their private elementary school. He said one teen-ager is attending Novato High School, but the rest are doing fine under Mrs. Brennan's tutelage.

MORE BENEFICIAL

"This group decided that study at home is more beneficial than going to public school," said Flenniken. "The children are being tutored at home."

Maurice B. Scott, supervising sanitarian for the Marin County Department of Environmental Health, testified that he is concerned with water, sewage, structure of the mansion and dormitory, the serving of food and use of the swimming pool.

He said the water now comes from an open reservoir, and sewage is handled by a septic tank. If a school is to be operated, the food service must comply with the state Restaurant Act, he pointed out.

"We are now using bottled water for consumption," McCoy reported. "But we are willing to work with the department of environmental health," he added.

MANY CHARGES

Hans Berge, county building inspector, said that various plumbing, electrical and structural changes will have to be made in the mansion and the adjoining dormitory.

Since the floor plan for the upper story of the mansion was not submitted, Berge said he cannot specify the exact changes needed. McCoy promised to provide the necessary plans.

Owner of the Burdell Mansion and 700-acre ranch is a limited partnership, according to Alving Corkland of 13 Ethel Lane, Mill Valley, who identified himself as one of the partners. Corkland said he and two other partners bought the ranch three years age and hope to preserve and restore the Burdell Mansion and leave the area open and in a natural state.

Burning Auto Sparks Fears Of Foul Play

San Rafael police today launched a widespread search for the owner of a car which was found burning under suspicious circumstances last night on Robert Dollar Scenic Drive.

An empty gasoline can beside the car and traces of what at first appeared to be blood smeared on the bodywork led officers to list the case as a possible murder.

'FOUL PLAY'?

"This appears to us to be foul play until we get evidence to the contrary," said Deputy Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori.

Police were called at 11:31 p.m. after firemen found the passenger section of a 1957 car ablaze. Clothes and other personal property had been pulled clear of the car before the fire started, said police.

A check at the home of registered owner Thomas C. Austin at 59 Austin Avenue, San Anselmo, disclosed he no longer lived at that address.

Further police investigation, however, showed Austin had volunteered for alcoholism treatment at Mendocino state Hospital and had been released 24 hours earlier on 10-day pass.

CHECK PUZZLE

Friends of Austin said they had seen him in San Anselmo yesterday morning in the company of an unidentified man.

Another man was reported to have waited in the car outside a liquor store in San Rafael about 9:30 p.m. yesterday, said police.

Austin went into the store alone and, out of view of his companion in the car, gave a friend a $475 check which was made payable to Austin.

He told the friend: "Hang on to this check for me. I don't want to carry it on me." Austin returned to the car and they drove off.

An examination of the burned car showed what appeared to baked-on blood. Officers were, however, checking closer into the possibility the marks could be red paint.

Shrubbery near the scene of the fire was being combed today for more evidence.

$9.9 Million Bond Issue Proposed For Tam Schools

The citizens' bond proposal committee of the Tamalpais High School District last night proposed at a district board meeting that a $9,900,500 bond issue be placed on the June 4 primary election ballot.

The proposal trims $2.4 million off the bond issue defeated last October.

The money would be for construction of high schools at San Geronimo and Tiburon, and for construction and renovationof Redwood, Sir Francis Drake and Tamalpais high schools.

EXTRA FUNDS

The committee also suggested that if the issue passes, the district use $1 million of its special reserve funds to supplement the building project. This would make a total of $10,900,500 available.

The new bond issue was trimmed mostly by limiting facilities for the two new schools to 800 students each. District officials said the recommendation is despite estimates that construction of the two high schools now will cost $1.4 million more than when proposed last year.

RISING COSTS

This increase is because of rising building costs, and site development problems at San Geronimo, they added. Officials said the special reserve fund has just about $1 million, and would be exhuasted with application on the building program.

The board took no action on the proposal, but scheduled a workshop for board members, district staff members and the committee for 2 p.m. Saturday at district offices in Redwood High School. Details of the proposal will be discussed at that time, they said, and a board decision will be made at the regular 8 p.m. board meeting session Monday at district offices.

AGAINST BONUS

The board also heard a report by Philip Pease, Redwood librarian and chairman of the professional development program, that district teachers have rejected a bonus proposal for extra work performed. The district has been seeking a solution of merit pay to teachers for such services.

The board took under consideration a proposed salary increase of 4.5 per cent next year for all classified non-teaching personnel. Officials said James Adrain, representative of the Carpenters Union, was present and protested the recommendation by the district director of personnel that all classified employees have the same holiday, vacation, and other benefits, whether they are union members or not.

Peter Petrakis, a union carpetner for the district, also protested, they said. They added that there are only six union members hired by the district, and 300 non-union employees. The board took no action on the protests.

It accepted resignation of Nancy Beckner, Redwood High English teacher, effective the end of this year, and approved a $500 grant for counselor Robert Herrell of Redwood to research the cause of drop-out students.

A litter from Lawrence Livingston Jr., 2 Spencer Court, Sausalito, was read prtoesting buildng a high school in Tiburon. A second from Mrs. H. J. Rogers Jr., 666 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, protesting double session classes at Drake High next year, was also read.

Kentfield Trustees Seek Counselor Funds

The Kentfield School District board last night authorized a request for matching state funds of about $5,000 for hiring a fulltime upper grade counselor for Adaline E. Kent School next year.

At present, the school has only part-time counseling service by Jack Williams, district psychologist.

The board also approved joining the Dixie and San Anselmo School districts in asking for about $54,000 in state funds for diagnoses of pupils with serius educational or emotional problems. The diagnoses would be by a team of psychiatrists and pediatricians from the Child Center in Kentfield.

A music workshop for all district schools was approved. It will start Thursday and be taught by Joyce Niboli. A report on the district's educationally handicapped pupils' program was given.

The board hired Luther Norwood as part-time custodian for $237.50 per month, and Mary Braun, as teacher's aide, at $2.25 an hour. It gave permission to the Kentfield Little League to use the baseball fields at Wolfe Grade and Adaline E. Kent schools.

Student Speaker Winner Is Told

Carol Frate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Frate of 396 Riviera Drive, San Rafael, last night won the student speakers contest sponsored by the Sausalito and Mill Valley Lions clubs.

Miss Frate, a sophomore at Marin Catholic High School, will compete next in the zone contest in March. Topic of the contest this year is "Free Enterprise, the Cornerstone of Our Republic."

Judges were Mrs. Richard Phillips of Sausalito, Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith, and Lawrence E. Lindberg, director of instruction for the Marin County schools office.

Motorcycle Stolen

Malcolm Sharp of 141 Cascade Drive told Mill Valley police today his 1965 black and white Harley-Davidson motorcycle, California license 659618, had been stolen overnight from outside his residence.

Judge Asks Court Study For Students

The courtroom can be a schoolroom, believes Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Goldstein believes high school students could get better understanding of the judicial process if they visited court as part of their study. He has written principals of Marin's seven public high schools and Marin Catholic High School, suggesting such a program be set up. A meeting for that purpose will be held in Room 222 of the courthouse on March 4 at 8 p.m.

He would set aside time to answer student questions on the days designated for the visits, he wrote.

Said Judge Goldstein's letter: "The significance of the rule of law, currently under attack, but so essential to the maintenance of a free society, may not be apparent when viewed in a classroom setting, but its importance as well as our judicial system can be realistically assessed if observed at first hand in the courtroom."

Portable Stolen

James Stragnola of 130 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, told Mill Valley police today that his portable radio was stolen while he was visiting Sunday in Mill Valley. Stragnola left the radio on a fender of his car while at 191 Throckmorton Avenue.

Grand Jury Imbalance Criticized By Gnoss

Supervisor William A. Gnoss declared today he is "very much disappointed" in the selection of grand juries in Marin because his North Marin area gets little or no representation.

He made the comment this morning to Clifford S. Lund, foreman of last year's grand jury, during a meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Lund replied that grand jurors themselves have no say in who is selected for the grand jury, and that the superior court judges are the ones who appoint.

"We should have three or four appointed from North Marin," said Gnoss. He noted that last year's grand jury had only one from his area, and the new grand jury has none.

Gnoss' comments came during a discussion of Public Works Director Donald R. Frost's reply to the 1967 grand jury report.

Lund asked that committee members who wrote the various reports be allowed to sit down with department heads who write the replies so that controversial points can be cleared up.

"I don't think the grand jury should be dealing directly with department heads," said Supervisor Peter H. Behr. He and other supervisors agreed that the matter now rests with the supervisors.

"No department head should be brought into verbal altercation with a grand jury," said John F. McInnis. "It's a report to us, and only we can respond to the grand jury."

The supervisors took Frost's letter under submission to be discussed with other replies from department heads at a later meeting.

The 1967 grand jury found criticisms with various department heads and some of the department head replies, including the one from Frost have been critical of the grand jury.

GI's Arrest Involves 7 In Dope Raid

Two Fairfax police officers looking for an AWOL Marine raided a house on Redwood Road last night, arresting two persons on suspision of possession of narcotics and five others suspected of being in a place where narcotics were being used.

The Marine, Lance Cpl. Robert Kent Leach, 21, was turned over to military police at Treasure Island, where he is stationed.

Patrolman Myron R. MacNeil said he and Sgt. Charles Grasso found marijuana cigarette butts, some loose marijuana and some capsules of white and blue powder in the house at 138 Redwood Road.

They booked the occupants, William C. Schuemell, 19, and Thomas E. Bronson, 21, for investigation of possession.

Held for being present were: Andrea Jean Buchanan, 19, 138 Redwood; Allen David Forbes, 19, 9 Elda Court, San Rafael; Gary T. Peterson, 18, 5156 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera; Geoffrey Brook Colt, 18, no fixed address, and James H. Penders, 20, of 222 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

MacNiel said police had a report that Leach could be found at the house, and they also had a noise complaint from a neighbor.

Admits Jewel Theft

Eugene Corvi, 33, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court yesterday to a grand theft charge that he stole jewelry worth $1,500 from the home of his sister, Lena D. Fassi, at 39 Rosebank Avenue, Kentfield. He was referred to the county probation office and told to return to court March 25 for sentencing.

Closed Session Minutes Are Approved

Two members of the Tiburon Board of Design Review last night approved the minutes of a secret meeting of Dec. 4.

Since new member Victor C. Banks was not seated until Feb. 5, the minutes of the challenged meeting were accepted by Chairman Peter MacGowan and Bennett Wren.

MacGowan referred to a letter from former City Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood objecting to the illegality of the Dec. 4 special meeting as no notice was given press or public.

Plot plans and elevations for an office building and 14-unit apartment complex at Main Street and Beach Road, to be constructed by Belvedere Land Co., were approved at the secret meeting.

Miss Ellinwood's letter asked the board to review and ratify its action taken in the meeting.

"What about this?" MacGowan asked Phil V. Scott, secretary. Scott said City Atty. Robert I. Conn had told him that since there was later an appeal at the city council level, he saw no reason for further action by the board.

Conn later told an Independent-Journal reporter, however, that he had not said that. He would not give an opinion last night but said, he would have to do some research as he could not remember exactly what actions had been before the board and the council on the proposed development.

Scott told MacGowan board members had been called on the telephone and had agreed to meet.

At the Jan. 8 council meeting, six residents appealed an amendment to the Belvedere Land Co. plans approved by the board of adjustment.

The amendment relocated and lowered the height of the proposed apartments by five feet, enlarged a three-car garage to a four-car garage with an additional apartment above, eliminated a loft and garage and replaced it with a two-story office building.

The council upheld the board action with Councilman Gordon W. Strawbridge dissenting.

Miss Ellinwood claimed the company began construction a month before a building permit was issued. Scott admitted this, but told an Independent-Journal reporter that a contractor can proceed with foundations without a building permit.

Kettenhofen Takes Papers To Run Again

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, yesterday took out nomination papers for another term representing the Second Supervisorial District.

Kettenhofen, 51, had announced earlier this month that he intended to seek his second four-year term on the board.

Also taking out nomination papers yesterday at the county elections office was Rep. William S. Maillard of San Francisco, who represnts the part of Marin County inthe Sixth Congressional District.

Others taking out nomination papers for special districts and Republican and Democratic central committees are:

Neal D. Harding and Richard L. Less, Terra Linda Community Services District; Ray I. Johnson, First Sanitary District, San Anselmo; Robert G. Anderson, Marin Municipal Water District Area Five; Thomas A. Norton and Jamshid A. H. Bakhtiar, Muir Beach Community Services District; Talley P. Mosteangelo, Republican Central Committee, Third District; and Joseph A. Forest, Democratic Central Committee, Fifth District.

The four-week period for candidates in the June primary to circulate nomination papers opened yesterday. The papers must be signed by registered voters in the appropriate district, the number of signers varying with the office sought, and returned to the county elections office by 5 p.m. on March 22.

The papers are required of all candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives, California Assembly, Marin County Board of Supervisors, Republican and Democratic county central committees and special districts.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Double At The Right Place Can Give Away A Top-Notch Defense

If you read enough bridge columns you discover that most bridge players don't double often enough.

You also learn that no fate is too harsh for the player who doubles and thus tells declarer just how to play an otherwise unmakable hand. Which columns do you believe?

No. 3488 ..... Feb. 27, 1968

EAST

SOUTH
♠ K J 10 8 4 3

♣ A Q 3

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	3 ♣	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double

Opening lead — ♡ K

FIRST ACTION

West opened the king of hearts and shifted to the jack of diamonds. South took the ace and queen of diamonds, ruffed a heart, led a diamond to the king and ruffed another heart with the eight of trumps.

Declarer cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy and ruffed a diamond with the 10 of trumps. Then he ruffed his last club in dummy.

AN OVERRUFF

East overruffed, reducing all hands to three cards. East had the A-Q-2 of trumps, and South had the K-J-4. Dummy had the seven of trumps and two hearts.

Since it was hopeless to lead the ace or queen of trumps, East led the deuce. South played the four from his hand, winning in dummy with the seven. Now the lead was in the dummy, and East could get only one more trump trick.

CAREFUL SAVING

If South hadn't saved his four of trumps so carefully he would have held K-J-8 of trumps at the end. This would force him to win East's trump return in his own hand, and East would get two trump tricks with the A-Q. East's double warned South to expect a 4-0 trump break and thus told him how to play a hand that would otherwise go down.

THE ANSWER

Now you have your answer to the problem of when to double with a strong trump holding. Don't double if your opponent is clever enough to play the hand perfectly because of your double. But if your opponent is the average workaday bridge player, go ahead and double.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ 7 6 5
♥ Q 8 7 4 3
♦ K Q 5 4
♣ 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You hate to raise with only three small trumps, but this response is the least of evils. The hand is not quite strong enough for a bid of two hearts or two diamonds, and quite unsuited to a response of one notrump.

$100,000 Bill Is Star Of The Show

NEW YORK (UPI)—A big attraction in Times Square is a $100,000 bill, courtesy of the U.S. Treasury Department.

The bill is on display in a "New Horizons in Paper" exhibit in the Allied Chemical Tower. In addition to currency, hundreds of other uses of paper are exhibited.

ANOTHER FRESHLY EXCITING HOME OFFERED BY FRANK HOWARD ALLEN

4 bedrooms upstairs plus a complete children's play room. 2 baths up and one down. Sumptuous master suite with loads of closets, new bath, with bright marble counters, shuttered windows overlooking circular drive. Downstairs — the living room opens to broad verandas (with a swimming pool beyond — fenced but in good taste). The pool is on a completely separate site. And summer sun floods the rear patio, but a private GROVE OF REDWOODS shades the edges . . . guests really rave about the setting. Step in into the patio from the large family style kitchen (with a small pantry for fixing cocktails). Another paneled room off the living room opens for large parties or formal dinners. Off the kitchen is a marvelous laundry area (enough room to sew and iron). Garage is great sized with electric doors for luxury. All this on a ½ acre setting on the sunny side of Bridge Rd. with a level site graced with lawns, mature shrubs and ancient trees. This home was listed Thursday night at an astonishing $69,000. $33,750 SEMINARY AREA

More than 2000 sq. ft. in this 2-year-old home. Four bedrooms plus family room. Luxurious w/w carpeting & custom draperies. Ultramodern kitchen with self-cleaning double oven, dishwasher & disposal. Two furnaces — one for each floor. Home is completely insulated. You be the judge.

$40,750 PARADISE REVISITED

A circular driveway, a level ½ acre, complete privacy. A superb home well collaborating to form your own Garden of Eden. An expansive one-level home whose decor & style set it apart from the prosaic run of the mill home. Colors and decorative ingenuity add a character of its very own. Three oversized bedrooms, formal dining room, 2 baths, plus partially completed studio apartment. All modern conveniences at your fingertips. A new listing.

$43,500 SAN RAFAEL PARK

One of the first resales in this popular community and best of all, there is an existing G.I. loan of $29,378 that is assumable at 5¾% interest. This transferred owner has more than $5,000 in extras alone. Residence combines 3 bedrooms and den, family room & oversize dining room, 3 full baths, w/w carpet over pegged hardwood flooring, 50-gallon hot water heater, intercom system throughout. A small fortune has been expended on the grounds. Complete sprinkler system, more than 60 trees including fruit trees and magnificent olive tree in rear garden. Drain tiled completely. Extensive brick work. Be our guest.

LIVE HAPPILY EVER AFTER!

In this custom-designed home with great character in a convenient, desirable neighborhood. The floor plan is a good one — based on logic and pleasantness, with a pretty view of Mt. Tam from the living room windows, and an outlook on a sun-dappled terrace designed for both plants and people. A wonderful all-purpose room, paneled and with access to a 2nd patio, lends itself to many activities; there is a laundry room and planety of storage. Wall-to-wall carpeting and draperies are top quality — in short, all the amenities are here for pleasant living.

$39,500 Eves: 456-1562.

STARTING POINT . . .

For years of contented living will be your purchase of this sparkling contemporary home perched on its own sunny hillside in Sleepy Hollow. Tall windows thruout reflect the sweeping views of oak-studded hills, and there are several decks for sightseeing. Quality is personified in the generous storage areas, work and study rooms and 2 handsome fireplaces, and there's understated elegance in the huge entry hall, which holds a grand piano. A good-sized pool is accessable from the family room and master bedroom; 4 spacious bedrooms, 3½ baths.

San Rafael

Kill Your Wife . . . With Kindness $43,950

Buy her this stylish, contemporary home with enough bedrms. and baths for all, a family rm. that both kids and adults can enjoy, and in a neighborhood that's friendly, close to schools and shopping. Call us about this 4-bedroom, 2½-bath home in a well-planned, split-level design. Wrought iron, marble and decorative wall coverings are tastefully used thruout, and there are beautiful views of hills and trees. Eves. 453-8881.

Put a Glint in Your Eye! $58,500

Ask to see this really special 3-bedrm., 2½-bath ranch in desirable Dominican area, and you'll soon have that glint when you feast your eyes on the solid construction, opulent comfort of the decorative scheme, and the attractive landscaping which includes a pool. Used brick and paneling are used to good advantage in both living room and family room, and the up-to-the-minute kitchen features a walk-in pantry, utility room. Eves. 456-1562.

So Nice to Come Home to! $59,500

This house boasts THE most outstanding site in Los Ranchitos, and the vistas from its windows are truly breathtaking! More than an acre and a half of privacy, level lawns, magnificent old oaks and very possibly the best view of the Civic Center in the bay area surrounds a traditional 3-bedrm., 2-bath ranch with warm paneling in most rooms and large, unfinished areas for additional bedrooms, baths, playroom or you name it! Several pool sites. Sit down, relax, take your shoes off — it's that kind of a house — informal and comfortable! Eves. 456-1562.

Summer Is A-Comin' In! $65,000

Soon, soon — and with it are those balmy days just right for enjoying the big, big pool that goes with this traditional ranch in exclusive Loch Lomond. Lots of patio space for sunbathing and entertaining; low-maintenance terraced gardens and fruit trees shade pool area. Attractive living room is sparked by paneling, grasscloth, and used brick fireplace, and yes, there is a formal dining room! Large, efficient kitchen, laundry rm. and family rm. 4 bedrms., 2 baths. Eves. 453-8881.

Memo to the Hostess: $69,500

If you like to give parties and your greatest pleasure comes from happy people enjoying your warm hospitality, then this is the house for you! Custom built with stylish elegance and grace, the large living room and formal dining room opening onto tree-shaded decks are a delight to family and guests alike. Period or contemporary furniture fit perfectly here, and precious bibelots will shine in this setting. Panoramic views from high in Fairhills, San Rafael's choicest area, surround you, and large families have room to spread out in the 4 bedrooms. 4 baths, paneled den and kid-proof playroom. Eves. 453-4872.

Samaritan Wounded For His Troubles

CHICAGO (UPI) — James Walker's good neighbor policy landed him in the hospital yesterday, a bullet from a police revolver perilously close to his heart.

Walker was awakened early yesterday by unusual noise and hoarse threats from the next door apartment of his pal Albert Anderson, 51.

Walker leaped from his bed, grabbed a pistol, and burst into Anderson's apartment, where three men had taken $50 and a wrist watch at gunpoint and demanded more.

The Good Samaritan held the bandits at bay and Anderson running outside to summon police.

But after Anderson left, the gunmen made a break for freedom. Walker fired one shot, bringing down one man. The other two fled into the waiting arms of police.

In the confusion, police burst into Anderson's flat. Walker, gun in hand, wheeled, startled, toward the door, his pistol pointing at the arriving officers.

"His gun was directed toward me," said Patrolman Robert Knightly, "and I fired."

The bullet hit Walker, 27, in the chest, lodging close to his heart.

Walker and Carl Finkley, 27, the man Walker shot, were recuperating today at Cook County Hospital from bullet wounds. Walker underwent emergency surgery.

Finkley's alleged accomplices were lodged in the county jail.

The state's attorney's office said that based on the facts he had been given, "there was no evidence of wrongdoing on Knightly's part."

A fellow policeman, Sgt. John Pratapos, said Knightly had no choice but to fire at Walker.

"When you answer a robbery-in-progress call," Pratapos said, "you go in with your gun drawn. And if you see someone pointing a gun at you, you have to make up your mind pretty quickly.

"You can't wait to ask questions. That's what happened here."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Use Of Head And Feet Both Essential To Good Posture

VAN DELLEN

Balinese people who carry parcels on their head have the best postures. They also have the least foot trouble but some credit ought to be given to the fact that they walk barefooted on soft or sandy soil. At any rate, balancing a 4-pound sandbag on the head while walking is an excellent posture improver.

THE HEAD is up, chin in, shoulders back, and the pelvis is pushed slightly forward.

While acquiring the habit of standing or walking as tall as possible, the feet must be used properly. This requires coordination of a vast system of nerves, muscles, bones, and joints.

It demands more than placing one foot ahead of the other to go from one place to another.

To equalize body weight on the bottoms of the feet, the following procedure is suggested: On stepping forward, the outer aspect of the heel is the first part of the foot to make contact with the ground. The body is propelled forward and the weight is shifted from the heel to the outer side of te the sole and then to the metatarsal bones.

AT THIS moment, the body's center of gravity is directly above one foot and weight distribution is similar to that which occurs when standing on one foot. But as the body continues forward, the toes "dig in" to the gound and push the body forward, bringing the other foot into operation.

In walking, the feet should be pointed straight ahead, not in or out. Flat-footed persons walk with the feet everted. Most pads and supports used by physicians to correct such defects are arranged so that weight is placed where it belongs.

This is done to encourage proper walking.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

AGAINST HORMONES

A reader writes: I am 45 years old and my doctor tells me I am in the menopause. He instructed me to start taking hormones, but my husband is against the use of these drugs. Can you tell me something about these preparations?

REPLY

Estrogens are recommended when the woman is suffering from hot flashes and other symptoms associated with the change of life. The hormones replace those previously manufactured by the sex glands.

MORNING BACK PAIN

A. F. writes: Why does my back feel like I've been badly beaten when I get up in the morning? Pain is so sharp, I can hardly creep out of bed. The physician can find nothing wrong, nor can he give me any relief.

REPLY

Old age is a possibility. Now and then backache stems from a soft mattress or poor sleeping habits. Is the soreness limited to a few vertebrae or is the entire back involved?

STIES, INFECTION

A reader writes: Does a sty mean the person needs glasses?

REPLY

Ocasionally, even though sties represent infection of glands in the lids. Our leaflet on sties, chalazia, and milia may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

ASPIRIN IRRITATES ULCER

A reader writes: Why can't people with ulcer take aspirin?

REPLY

Because aspirin is acetylsalicylic acid, which is slightly irritating to the lineing of the stomach. However,the product can be taken with a neutralizer such as milk, baking soda, or another antacid.

Today's Health Hint—Keep the windshield clean when driving.

Japanese Pacifists Show Film Of U.S. Defector

TOKYO (UPI)—Two Japanese pacifist organizations today announced they helped a young American Army private flee Japan and showed a motion picture in which he explained his motives.

The two groups identified the private as Kenneth C. Griggs, 21, a Korean war orphan adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Griggs of Boise, Ida. They said they helped him leave Japan after he spent nine months under the protection of the Cuban embassy.

In the movie Griggs, sporting a bushy crewcut and wearing thick horn rim glasses, recounted that he was adopted by the parents of an American soldier serving in the Korean War. He said he lived in the United States for 10 years and intended to become a citizen until the U.S. Army sent him to Korea, Japan and finally South Vietnam.

"I knew then I had no desire to become a citizen, or indeed a criminal, of the United States of America," Griggs said in the film. He said he decided to defect hoping to alter "the present course to which the U.S. is committed in Vietnam."

Griggs came to Japan in April on a rest and recreation leave from Vietnam. When he sought political asylum at the Cuban embassy, he touched off a tug of war among the United States, Cuba and Japan.

Japan does not recognize the right of U.S. military personnel to seek political asylum in this country.

The Beheiren (Peace for Vietnam) organization and the Committee for the Intrepid Four called today's news conference to announce that Griggs had been spirited out of Japan. They would not say how or when Griggs left or where he went.

The Beheiren organization engineered the defection and escape from Japan of the four U.S. Navy sailors from the carrier Intrepid.

The Japanese government demanded that the Cuban embassy turn Griggs over to police for return to U.S. military authorities. The embassy, acting on orders from Havana, refused to hand Griggs over and for nine months he lived as a guest of the ambassador.

Last month the Cuban embassy told the Japanese government that Griggs had left the embassy.

Course Set For Water Safety Instructor

The Marin County chapter of the American National Red Cross and the College of Marin will co-sponsor a water safety instructor course at the college's physical education complex March 5, April 26.

The course, open to those 18 and older holding a current life saving certificate, will be conducted Tuesdays and Thursdays 7-9 p.m. Robert Justice is the instructor. Advance registration can be made through Harry Pieper, athletic director, at the college.

Liquor Control Chief Denies Resigning Hint

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Edward J. Kirby, state director of alcoholic beverage control, has denied reports he may be about to resign because he finds himself unable to carry on the job in his own way any longer.

Kirby answered a column in a beverage industry publication which had forecast his resignation on that score, as well as one that said his job was being made more difficult because Gov. Ronad Reagan had "got the whiff of roses in the White House garden." The column had gone on to say that the author felt the ABC department was "ranging pretty far afield in its current enforcement program."

"Let me assure you that I do not feel 'I cannot do the job my way any longer'," Kirby said. "In addition, I have no intention of resigning in the near future.

"I can assure you that the statement in Section 23049 of the Business and Professions Code that it is the intention of the legislature in enacting this chapter to provide a governmental organization which will ensure a strict, honest, impartial and uniform administration and enforcement of the liquor laws throughout the state, is the continuing policy of this department," he said. "My only instructions have been to carry out the administration of the laws of this state.

Much of the criticism of Kirby's enforcement since he took over the department nearly a year ago has been in his insistence on strict adherence to the business practices sections of the law. Kirby has directed investigations into illegal rebates, discounts and gifts of free goods, in violation of the state's fair trade act.

At the same time Kirby denied any plans to resign, he also handed down a stiff policy warning to liquor retailer associations who might want to have their conventions subsidized by the suppliers.

The new policy says it is proper for such wholesalers, distributors or suppliers to purchase tickets to retailer organization affairs, so long as they intend to attend such affairs and pay no more for the tickets than anyone else. But hospitality rooms are out.

Moss Launches Inquiry Into Vietnam Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman John E. Moss of the House government information subcommittee, saying he's investigating new U.S. restrictions on release of Vietnam war news, contends reports on the war's progress must not be censored.

"It is more important now than at any time since our involvement there that we be fully informed about the war," the California Democrat said last night in an interview.

Moss said he has asked Phil G. Goulding, assistant secretary of defense, for a full explanation of the restrictions, which were imposed in Saigon yesterday.

In addition, Moss said, his subcommittee staff is asking for a complete file on all cables and other messages between Saigon and Washington dealing with the matter.

The U.S. Command imposed restrictions on release to the press of information dealing with American casualties, damage done by enemy gunfire and the number of enemy shells fired when such information is considered to be of intelligence value to the Communists.

A Pentagon spokesman said the restrictions are not expected to affect the daily release of casualty lists and the Defense Department's weekly report on the over-all totals of men killed and wounded.

There was no immediate indication of full censorship on news dispatches, as was the case during World War II and the Korean War.

Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, chief of information for the U.S. Military Command who issued the directive, said it leaves correspondents free to report what they observe in the field.

Sidle's directive said U.S. authorities have "always reserved the prerogative of withholding information which would give aid and comfort to the enemy."

Peace Party School Board Members Refute Drug Plank

Mill Valley School officials, who registered with the new Peace and Freedom Party do not support the party's platform plank on use of drugs, they said last night.

Supt. James A. Collins and three school district board members, William L. Clark, Mrs. Joyce Gross and John K. Robinson, registered with the party. Their registration was reported last week in a newsletter published by Mrs. Nan Hepp of Mill Valley.

The school district board last night passed a policy banning student use on campus of tobacco or drugs. A member of the audience then rose to say he was concerned because Collins and the three board members had been named members of the Peace and Freedom Party and asked for their position on drugs.

The four said they did not support the platform plank, which calls for an end to legal penalties for drug use and possession.

Clark said he has already registered in another political party, and Collins said he intends to re-register, having joined the party only to help it get a place on the California ballot.

Regardless of anyone's private feelings, Collins said, school personnel carry out board policies, which are quite clear on drug use.

The board also passed a written policy making it the superintendent's responsibility to provide guidelines for student conduct and discipline.

Giving a mid-year report, Collins told the board of the central purpose of changes planned over the next five years is to provide more individualized instruction. All inovations such as non-graded classes, cooperative planning and the like are aimed at that goal, he said.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted resignation of Norman McGhee, former teacher at Richardson Bay School who has been on leave for a year.

CLAIM — Denied a $10,000 damage claim on behalf of Lee-Ann M. Montoliu. The claim alleges she injured a finger in a door at Tamalpais Valley School.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Approved a summer school session from June 26 to July 26.

ACCOUNTANT — Approved hiring Robert J. Soderblom of San Rafael to conduct the annual audit.

Ford Increases Model Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced today a 5.9 per cent price increase in its new model Econoline vans and Club wagons to be introduced March 15. Ford said the average boost is $139.

Lynn Townsend, Chrysler Corp. chairman, had been quoted earlier by The Wall Street Journal as indicating in an interview his company is considering a price increase in 1969 model automobiles.

Townsend put the blame on a tightening profit squeeze, caused by rising labor and material costs.

Train Derails

TABERNASH, Colo. (AP) — Six cars of the San Francisco-to-Chicago California Zephyr passenger train were derailed yesterday just outside this central Colorado community but none of the cars overturned and none of the 97 passengers was injured. The cause was not known.

Laotian Troops Score Victories

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)— Laotian troops backed by T28 fighter-bombers and DC3 transports converted into bombers won minor victories at Saravane and Attopeu yesterday, the defense ministry said today. But the main North Vietnamese offensive remained unchecked.

Defense ministry spokesman Col. Thone Phan Knockay said the Communists lost about 90 dead at Attopeu in the extreme southern tip of Laos near the Cambodian and South Vietnamese borders, with only light government casualties.

Knockay said most of the casualties were inflicted by airpower attacks by Old World War II twin-engine DC3s and C47s. In the attacks crewmen open the door on the plane and kick the bombs out, hopefully into enemy positions.

Proxy Father Ruled Liable For Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man whose wife gives birth to a child after artificial insemination is liable for its support, the California State Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous ruling was handed down yesterday in a suit instituted against Folmer J. Sorensen, of the Stockton area by the district attorney of Sonoma County.

The court held that the Sorensens had been married for about 15 years when Sorensen agreed to artificial insemination of his wife and she gave birth to a boy in San Joaquin County on Oct. 14, 1960. Four years later the Sorensens separated and Mrs. Sorensen moved to Sonoma County. The decision noted that Sorensen paid no support for the child after the separation. A Sonoma County municipal court ordered him to pay $50 a month.

Subsidy Means Fewer Prisoners

SACRAMENTO (SNS) — The California Youth Authority reported that 2,559 fewer youths and adults than expected will be committed to state institutions during the 1967-68 fiscal year, primarily because of a 1965 law which provides for subsidies to counties for placing certain offenders on probation.

This reduction in commitments could provide substantial savings for both counties and state. For the state, the savings could total $50 million, the estimated amount it would have cost to build additional institutions to house the offenders who were not committed. The counties stand to earn up to $10 million, based on the probation subsidy program's complicated subvention formula.

The counties must use their earning under the law to enrich their probation services by reducing caseloads and setting up such special services as foster homes, improved tutoring, psychological and psychiatric help, and employment services.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monday, Feb. 26

A $152 million mistake plunged the Reagan administration into another major financial crisis and threatened to eliminate promised property tax relief for millions of Californians. (See page 1)

$269,972 From Jobless Benefits

Marin unemployed received $269,972 in benefits last month throught the San Rafael office of the state Department of Unemployment, the department said yesterday.

Payments were made at a rate of 1,150 a week, lowest for a January since 1964. The December rate was 970 payments weekly.

Statewide last month, $46 million was disbursed to the unemployed.

Parolees Face Assault Charges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two paroled convicts are charged with assaulting a Secret Service agent.

Lee Hinds, 25, paroled from San Quentin four months ago, was shot in the leg last Friday during a gun battle with an agent investigating a counterfeiting case.

James B. Bonnelly, 28, paroled from a narcotics term 17 days ago, was arrested when agents went to Hinds' San Francisco apartment to make a search.

Hinds served his prison term on a forgery conviction.

March 7 was set for a preliminary hearing.

Session Changed

The regular San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce board meeting will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, rather than at the chamber, 316 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, as erroneously reported in the Independent-Journal.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Danny Thomas Is Master Comedian

By DICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Danny Thomas, whose earlier reputation was built on his gifted ability as a comic storyteller, brought his one-man supper club act to NBC - TV last night in an hour broadcast.

The program, part of his regular weekly series, was filmed onstage during a performance last July in Harrah's Lodge at Lake Tahoe, Nev.

A new, fast camera lens and extended development of the film allowed the natural lighting conditions of the production to register with added visual pleasure for the televiewer.

The use of natural lighting eliminated the need for bulky, supplementary illumination equipment which frequently distracts both audience and performer and has negative effects on attempts to re-create conditions realistically.

Thomas is a very traditional performer in every way—his choice of material and songs, and his heavy reliance on the sentimentality that he shrewdly knows keeps the mass audience loyal to him, regardless of what intellectuals think.

Sophisticates may well find his excursions into sentiment and humility not to their taste, but there is no question that when he concentrates on his storytelling, he has few peers. The best parts of his act, in fact, were when he used his frank sentiment as the buildup for strong punch lines that comically destroyed the serious moods.

This is an age when irreverence toward traditional beliefs, and impatience with the usual lectures on how to live, are widespread. And so to watch Thomas doggedly maintain his traditional approach—and maintain his audience—is a unique show business experience.

In his intonations, his recitations and his overall manner, he often seems like an Arabic storyteller who suddenly finds himself in a tuxedo, in a nightclub, in the 20th Century. He is Lebanese in his background, as everyone knows, and I think it is fair to suggest that his style and manner of storytelling are hardly an accident of coincidence.

He was frank last night about his sentiment: "I cry at basketball games." But among his near-benedictions and brotherhood appeals, he also reminded the viewer that his sustained building power with funny stories is extremely professional, individual and highly potent.

Of his 31-year marriage, he noted with fine humor that it has lasted because of three little words: "California community property." Of marriage, he suggested that "man and woman are natural enemies." The secret to marital success, he added, is "combat compatibility."

Communists Linked To Big Parade

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police Chief Thomas Reddin says Communists were among leaders of the antiwar parade last June 23 outside the Century Plaza Hotel.

In a 92-page report submitted yesterday to the City Council's Police, Fire and Civil Defense Committee, Reddin said three leaders have been identified as Communist party members by various state and congressional committees.

"Many leaders and participants" have been so identified, Reddin said. These leaders, he contended, deliberately ignored provisions of the permit for the march.

As President Johnson spoke at a Democratic party fund-raising dinner inside, some 1,350 police — the largest such gathering in the city's history — massed outside the Century Plaza Hotel.

They were confronted by about 16,000 peace marchers. During the ensuing melee 40 marchers and four policemen were injured and 52 arrests were made.

Reddin acknowledged that most of the marchers were "undoubtedly anxious to make their protests known in a lawful and peaceful demonstration."

Arkansas Prison Gains Claimed

BERKELEY (AP)—Brutality has stopped within the Arkansas prison system and inmates have learned they can speak up "without being shot or buried or whipped," says prison boss Thomas Morton.

The superintendent of the Arkansas State Penitentiary told a news conference yesterday that the uncovering of three bodies at Cummins Prison Farm on a tip from a former convict loose dinvestigations "by everybody but the SPCA."

The problem in Arkasas was not "inside the prison, it's outside the gate," Murton said, referring to the attitudes of people toward care of prisoners.

Car Overturns On Waldo Grade

A San Francisco couple, wearing seat belts, escaped serious injury Sunday when their car overturned on Waldo Grade.

Mary E. Mason, 33, told California Highway Patrolmen she would see her own doctor for minor injuries.

An unidentified vehicle ahead made an abrupt stop, the car driven by Herbert H. Mason, 46, swerved and skidded into the curb and flipped over at 5:15 p.m., according to patrolmen.

Synanon Names Legal Director

Attorney Dan Garrett, former northern division director for Synanon, has been named as Synanon's director of legal affairs, a new position. He will work primarily out of the Synanon facilities at Tomales Bay and Santa Monica.

Garrett will also assist Charles E. Dederich, founder of Synanon, in shaping a long-planned research and development center at Tomales Bay.

Taking over Garrett's former position is William Crawford, who will administer the Synanon program at the Seawall facilities in San Francisco.

Summerskill Job Rumors Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Reports that John Summerskill will do research work at Stanford University were denied yesterday by a spokesman for the resigning San Francisco State College president.

The Stanford campus newspaper had said Summerskill, 42, a former psychologist, would do work at the university's Institute for the Study of Human Problems.

The spokesman for the outgoing college president said Summerskill had talked with Stanford officials, "but they haven't concluded anything."

Georgia Legislators Approve More Liberal Abortion Laws

ATLANTA (UPI)—The General Assembly yesterday approved compromise legislation that would make Georgia the fourth state in the nation to liberalize abortion laws. But Gov. Lester Maddox indicated he may not sign the bill.

Maddox said he wants to "study" the measure before vetoing it or permitting Georgia to join Colorado, California and North Carolina in easing restrictions on abortions.

The Georgia bill, which has safeguards considered tougher than the other states, would allow an abortion only if the life or health of the mother was at stake, if the child was likely to be born with a serious mental or physical defect, or if the pregnancy resulted from rape.

At least three physicians must agree the abortion is necessary, the medical staff of the hospital must approve it, the hospital must be licensed and the woman must be a resident of Georgia.

The conference committee which worked out the compromise plan added three amendments, that records of abortions be kept confidential, that osteopaths qualified for surgery and obstetrics would be allowed to perform abortions and that a woman must be pregnant and the abortion must be completed in order to charge a person with criminal abortion.

Marinite Treated For Vietnam Wounds

Marine Corps Lance Corp. John L. Chaille, 21, of 1421 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, is in Oak Knoll Naval Hospital, Oakland, recovering from serious shrapnell injuries received in Vietnam Feb. 15, according to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Chaille.

Chaille, who was injured while on a minesweep patrol in Thua Thien province, had been in Vietnam since March, 1967. He was a student at College of Marin before enlisting in the Marines.

African Nations Pull Out Of Olympics; Russia Next?

LONDON (AP) — Thirty-two African countries have pulled out of the Summer Olympics in Mexico City next fall and the big question now is whether the Russians will withdraw as well.

The Supreme Council for Sports in Africa met in Brazzaville, The Congo, and voted to withdraw from the Olympics because of South Africa's readmission to the competition, scheduled for Oct. 12-27.

In Moscow yesterday, the Soviet Olympic Committee said it had not yet been decided whether Russia would compete. The Soviets have criticized the International Olympic Committee's decision to allow South Africa in the Games.

South Africa has agreed to send an integrated team to Mexico City, but will not alter its policy against mixed sports events within the highly segregated country.

Russia normally sends a large contingent to the Olympics and the country now must decide between the prestige of a flock of gold medals and the compromise of its principles against South Africa's racial policies.

In Johannesburg, Frank Braun, president of the South African National Olympic Committee, said he thought it extremely unlikely that Russia will boycott the games.

"I just can't see the Russians pulling out and leaving all the gold medals to the Americans."

He added that the Russians had not competed in the Olympics until 1952.

"The games are essentially a Western creation and it's only through the grace of God and the kindness of the Western nations that the whole world now competes in the Olympics."

It is possible that some Eastern European countries would also boycott the Games if Russia led the way.

Before the Brazzaville conference, some 16 countries, most of them in Africa, had voted individually to withdraw from the Games, but the Supreme Council decided the 32 countries should take action as a group.

Avery Brundage, president of the IOC, said here that no matter how many countries pulled out of the Games, they would be held as scheduled.

"No matter what countries withdraw," Brundage said, "the Games in Mexico will go on. We're not involved in politics. The Olympics want the youth of the world to get together.

"We are sorry if countries want to withdraw for political reasons," he said. "If anybody wants to stay out of the Olympic Games for political reasons, then that is their business."

Brundage also defended the decision to allow South Africa back into the Games, saying it had been made "on a postal vote after studying a massive report from a three-man IOC committee."

Two Tam Indians On All-Star Team

Pat Schafer Is Named Best Player

Pat Schafer, Tamalpais High School's challenge-minded, high-scoring 6-foot-4-inch senior center, was named player of the year by a unanimous vote of Marin County Athletic League coaches to highlight the selections of the 1968 all-MCAL team at Redwood High School last night.

Schafer, who led the league in scoring with a 17.3 average, and teammate Floyd Jackson, the lithe jump-shooting senior forward with a 17.1 average helped propel the Indians to the league title with an 11-1 record and fittingly enough both were named to the first team.

TOP PICKS

The joined Redwood's Tom Seidenberg, a 6-5 forward-center who came on strong for the Giants' third-place team, twisting center Ches Bornia, top scorer on Marin Catholic's high-scoring runnerup team and junior Steve McNally of Novato, the sometimes blisteringly accurate guard who topped the Hornets' surge back from a winless season last year to a fourth-place finish this year.

McNally was the only junior on the first team.

Terra Linda and San Rafael, who shared the cellar, dominated second-team selections as Pat Purcell, the Trojan junior guard who was the fourth-bes scorer in the league, joined senior Bulldog guards Steve Durham, third-best loop scorer, and fiery Phil Martino.

GUARD-HEAVY

Also named to the guard-heavy second team was Marin Catholic's spunky floor leader Harry Matsinger, a senior, and Drake's top defensive player and rebounder Don Alvarado, a senior forward.

The Class B first team choices were spread evenly over five school, indicating the tight finish finish of the loop race.

"B" STARS

Named to the first team were the league's top scorer, Bruce Nave of San Rafael, Art Carewe of Redwood, Gary Howard of Novato, Tom Jackson of Terra Linda and Mike Luchessa of Marin Catholic.

Second team picks were Ken Gommeringer of Tamalpais, Dave Perron of Novato, Kent Scov of Redwood, Len Phaff of Drake and Lowell Widmer of San Rafael.

Honorable mentions went to John Boro and Charley Flynn of Redwood, Bill Gaddy of Drake, Bruce Pearson of Novato and Ken Regalia of Terra Linda.

Four Marin Tars Win Basketball Honors

Coach Cal Riemcke's College of Marin Tars, who swept to their second straight Western Division title in the Golden Valley Conference basketball race dominated the division's all-league choices with four players named to the first and second teams.

Veterans Reiss Williams and Tom Stetson were named to the all-division first team along with Santa Rosa's marvelous Rochelle Collins and Mel Peterson, and College of Redwood's Bob Ferguson.

Williams, a jump-shooting guard, led the Tars in loop scoring, after a slow regular season start. Stetson was the Tars' steadiest man on the boards and was top College of Marin scorer over the season.

Chip Tyson, freshman forward who came brilliantly into his own late in the season and veteran guard Russ Smith were named to the second team along with Harry Schwarze of Napa, Barry Webb of Santa Rosa and Rick Franklin of Redwood.

Tyson, a standout at San Rafael in 1967, sparked the Tars to title-clinching wins over Santa Rosa and Napa in the final three regular season games in addition to scoring 20 points in an 83-79 loss to Sierra in the GVC playoffs.

Smith caught on after a slow start with late-season double figure scoring.

Top choices on the Eastern Division squad were Tar terror Bill Penaluma of Sierra and teammate Gary Donnell and Siskiyous center Ron Holcomb.

Litchfield To Sponsor The Braves

The San Rafael Braves have a great white father again.

Bereft of a sponsor for the upcoming Western Baseball Association semi-pro season, Joe Anselmo's Braves now have little to worry about as Restaurateur Whitey Litchfield of San Rafael who dropped sponsorship at the end of last season, has picked it up again complete with an $8,000 budget.

Henceforth, the Braves will be the Litchfield Braves of San Rafael as they compete in the far-flung WBA. A new and painless innovation for local fans will be admission-free contests for the entire season at Albert Field in San Rafael.

The accent for the Braves will be on Marin. Only local players will be used by the Braves, Anselmo said.

The Braves are defending champions of the WBA's coast division.

Giants Open Training With Three-Mile Jog

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP)— The San Francisco Giants opened spring training yesterday with three miles of running and jogging under direction of Bert Gustafson, a physiotherapist who feels that his conditioning methods will be helpfull for baseball players.

Manager Herman Franks went the route with the 37 players and remarked, This running is something new for us; maybe it will help. We plan to do it every day, longer each day. It certainly can't hurt us."

Among veterans, only outfielder Ollie Brown and infielder Tito Fuentes hadn't reported to camp.

Pitcher Juan Marichal was on hand, as was outfielder Jesus Alou with his bride of two weeks. Marichal said he had agreed on contract terms two weeks ago but hadn't yet actually signed — for a reported $100,000, same as last season. Alou said he expected to sign "right away."

A surprise arrival was coach Cookie Lavagetto, who had announced his retirement. He said he would help out for at least a couple of weeks.

Cookie's replacement, coach Wes Westrum, former New York Mets manager, said that Ron Hunt, obtained in a trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers, "did a fine job for me when he was with the Mets, and he could make a big difference for the Giants at second base."

The three-hour first-day workout wound up with pepper games and some bat swinging.

MANTLE SIGNS $100,000 CONTRACT

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle signed his sixth straight $100,000 baseball contract with the New York Yankees today.

The 36-year-old first baseman, who switched from center field last year, will be starting his 18th season with the Yanks. He batted .245 with 22 home runs in 144 games in 1967.

Mantle, a three-time American League Most Valuable Player, has 518 lifetime homers. He needs only four more homers to overhaul the retired Ted Williams, who is fourth on the alltime list.

France Put On A Great Show In Winter Games

Whoever called Paris "The City of Light" either had a great sense of humor, terrible eyesight or he never went there in February.

But whoever said the French didn't know how to throw a party may now take 20 giant steps backwards. That little snow-in in Grenoble cost La Belle France almost as much as World War I. The figure was set at just under a quarter of a billion dollars, but this didn't include such items as cleaning up, and the loss of revenues of the resorts commandeered for the Olympic events.

The French housed 1,500 journalists at Youth Hostel prices in modern (if sparsely furnished) apartments, and then went out of their way to encourage them not to have to wander downtown for any reason whatsoever. The food in the cafeteria was not Maxim's, but it was not drive-in stuff, either. There were two bars open all hours. The wine was free at the dinner, as many half-bottles as you could safely carry or consume. The breakfast was ham-n-eggs and juice and coffee (the traditional "cafe-au-lait" brew that consists of half-and-half cold coffee and hot milk).

THE TRANSPORATION up the hills to the resorts or to the Ice Stadium was free, prompt and courteous.

With all the international fist-shaking and war-of-nerves-on-tourism and rates-of-exchange, more than one American wondered if we wouldn't be huddled in the American Embassy under a shower of rocks by the third day. Instead, the French went out of their way to deplore the bad feeling between our governments. Not a man admitted sympathy for Le Grand Charlies which made you wonder where his plurality came from.

THE ENTERTAINMENT might not have kept Louis XIV up late, but the few Americans and Canadians who wandered downtown to the bistros or dance halls reported only convivality. The French were not sickening about it, but almost the most popular victories of the Games were the Canadian girl in the slalom, and the Italian skier in the Nordic cross-country. The Russian hockey team was about as popular as rain.

One of the hidden expenses of the Games were the French gold medals. Here was a country whose Olympic record, particularly in summer, in recent years, raised doubts as to whether they had showed up. In these Games, a succession of superb Gauls flashed down the slopes. Everything in those gates with a French accent was a threat.

FRANCE, YOU would have to say, has made the greatest comeback in the heavyweight division in recent history. And it seems not to be just the trains running on time and the phones working after midnight, but a new quality of caring, which a great many people thought had been a bigger casualty of Hitler than the Maginot Line.

Which brings us to the American showing. As you know, I am not one to feel national prestige depends very much one way or the other on athletic prowess, except in a limited way.

BUT IT isn't possible to look at this Olympic team after long experience with American athletes and feel that some of these kids are not the genuine article. In the first place, most of these kids are privileged, not to say, over—and this has been known to reduce the competitive edge. I have the feeling skiing, skating, or driving a sled call for the same skills of coordination, daring and drive that hitting a baseball, throwing a jab, driving a race car or making a basket call for.

Of course, the first thing a skier needs is a mountain. The first thing a skater needs is ice. We have mountains, but we don't live up in them as the Alpine kids do. We have only one 400-meter ice rink in the whole country. (The tiny Dutch have four.)

I FEEL if we don't want to have to come home every four years with the seat of our pants wet, maybe we should round up some of these kids sinking 40-foot baskets on the school playground, or breaking windows with 400-foot bat smashes, and bust them up the mountain or out on the ice pond. Give us mountains to match our men. Let's not just give Bob Beattie the first and second in the Byrn Mawr downhill, or a kid who goes up the hill with his skis on top of Dad's Porsche. Get a team where the finals at Chamrousse would be a picnic compared to the American semi-finals at Stowe or Alta. If not, label the team as "USA—Above $35,000-A-Year Division."

Next Move In Track Feud Is Up To NCAA Officials

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The next move in the long dispute over control of track and field is up to the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The Amateur Athletic Union's Executive Committee voted unanimously yesterday to accept a Feb. 1 decision of an arbitration board. That decision gives sole control of all open track meets — including the use of nonstudent athletes and foreigners — to the AAU.

CONTROL

The United States Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA, was granted control over college meets confined to student-athletes.

The arbitration board was set up in 1965 by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to settle the long-standing feud over control of the sport between the AAU, the NCAA and USTFF.

David A. Matlin, president of the AAU, who reported the unanimous vote of the committee yesterday said a telegram had been sent to Sen.

Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

The telegram said the officials of the AAU would "accept and abide" by the Feb. 1 solution. It also urged the formation of a coordinating committee to help clarify and interpret violations of the rules.

THIRD CATEGORY

In its report, the arbitration board, headed by labor mediator Theodore Kheel, also created a third category for control of the sport: open domestic competition. The USTFF could sponsor these meets but would need sanction of the AAU .This tomatic if the collegiate group satisfied all international requirements.

The NCAA has not ratified the arbitration board's decision and some coaches have indicated the dispute is not over yet.

AROUND THE CAMPS

Stu Hoping To Rebound; Durocher Gives Warning

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stu Miller is n o law-breaker. He knows the rules of the game and he's willing to live by them.

Happy about them he's not, but willing to live by them he is.

Miller's slow stuff was no mystery to American League batters last season and the result was a 3-10 record—the poorest the 40-year-old Baltimore reliever has had in 19 years of professional baseball.

It will show in his paychecks this season.

EXPECTED IT

"I expected a pay cut," said Miller, who was sliced from $40,000. "What else, after the year I had? It's the law of the jungle. Win and you are rewarded. Lose and they cut your salary."

But lose at Miller's age and sometimes teams cut more than your salary. Sometimes they cut you. Miller knows that and showed up at the Baltimore training camp weighing a trim 172 pounds, 10 under his playing weight. He went through his first workout yesterday.

"I know when you have a 3-10 record and are 40 years old," reflected Miller, "people begin to say 'hmmm.' Well, I feel no older at 40 than I did 10 years ago."

ARM SOUND

Miller insists his arm is sound. "I have no alibis for last year," he said. "I was just not making the good 'out pitch.' "

Miller knows he's in for it if he doesn't recover that out pitch this season.

And Leo Durocher let his Chicago Cubs know they'd be in for it if he found it necessary to fine them this year.

"Just remember, fellows," Durocher told the Cubs at their first clubhouse meeting, "when I take your money for breaking rules, I don't start at $25. It's more likely to be $200 for a starter."

The New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians came up with a couple of starters of their own. New York signed left-hander Al Downing, 14-10 last season, to a 1968 contract and Cleveland added righty Sonny Siebert, 10-12, in 1967.

RAISE

Downing got a reported $9,000 raise to $31,000 and Siebert moved into the $40,000 neighborhood.

Pitcher Jim Maloney, seeking a $15,000 boost to $75,000, is one of five Cincinnati first stringers still not signed. Others are pitcher Mel Queen, second baseman Tommy Helms and outfielders Vada Pinson and Pete Rose.

Three .300 hitting outfielders are missing from Pittsburgh's camp. Batting champion Roberto Clemente and Manny Mota both have been delayed by illnesses in the family. Matty Alou, who hit .338 last year, is on his way to camp with his contract but the Pirates aren't sure he's signed it yet.

"An unofficial holdout," was what General Manager Joe L. Brown called Alou.

Pitcher Phil Regan and catcher Elston Howard drew praise from their respective managers.

Los Angeles skipper Walt Alston watched Regan who slipped from 14-1 in 1966 to 6-9 last year. "Last year," said Alston, "his trouble was mostly control. He started off throwing a little too high and it stayed that way most of the season. We'll work on keeping him down and see what happens."

Howard, Boston's 39-year-old catcher, belted a pair of long drives over the left field fence and impressed Manager Dick Williams.

"Ellie looks good," said Williams. "He is working hard and swinging the bat well for this early in the spring. He acts as if he wants to prove something in a hurry."

San Rafael Swimmer Wins Honor

Jo Hislop of the San Rafael Swim Club won the high point trophy in Girls 11-12 division last weekend at the 11th annual Alameda Naval Air Station invitational Class A meet.

Competing in one of the few Northern California 50-meter pools, Jo was first in the 50-yeard breaststroke event, speeding to a 36.2 clocking to break the 1965 record of Lynn Vidali of Santa Clara Swim Club by one-tenth of a second. Miss Hislop also placed second in the 200 individual medley, was second in the 50 free, and fourth in the 50 back.

Bobby Placak of the San Rafael club was second in Boys 8 and under 50 breast and fifth in the 50 back, while Lisa Spindler won fourth place in the 50 fly and sixth in the 200 I.M.

COOKIE ARRIGHI, 13-year-old member of the San Rafael team, had herself a great time at a senior development meet in the Chabot College pool in Hayward over the weekend.

She took first places in the 200-yard backstroke and 200 I.M. events, was second in the 400 I.M. and 100 fly, and finished third in the 100 free and 200 fly.

Pete Rozelle For Monday Grid Games

ATLANTA (AP) — Professional football commissioner Pete Rozelle says he would like to see less "Sunday exposure" on television for the game and more Monday night action.

"Whether we can crack Monday night and whether they will pass by their regular programs, I don't know," he told newsmen yesterday, "but they're turning to an awful lot of movies now."

He said more television sets would be on Monday night and a bigger percentage of viewers would not be football fans, which he said "might make more fans."

TV INCOME

Income from television may have "peaked," Rozelle said during a news conference after a civil club address. He said National Football League clubs now get about $1.2 million each in television income while AFL teams pull about $850,000 each.

He predicted that NFL clubs will get less in 1970 when the two leagues are combined.

Rozelle said the two leagues plan to explore ways of beefing up expansion squads named in recent years before any additional expansion is tried.

He said any changes probably would involve rules governing the waver procedure, trades or injury reserves.

POSSIBILITIES

"Legislating intelligence would be one possibility," he said. "We might say that a club could not trade its first draft choice—or maybe even its first and second draft choices."

The commissioner said another possibility would be to make it easier for a club to claim a player from another team's waiver list rather than have the player recalled by the team which cut him.

Further expansion of pro football won't be considered before the early 1970s, Rozelle predicted.

Back From Vietnam, Crow Signs Contract

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It's usually a routine thing when a National Football League player signs his contract.

"But this is not just an ordinary signing," San Francisco 49er President Lou Spadia said at a news conference yesterday, "because John David Crow is not an ordinary player."

Crow, who begins his 11th year in the NFL, signed a one-year contract. "What else, at my age?" he remarked.

Spadia did not disclose Crow's salary but said it was an increase.

OUR OTHERS

Only four other active backs—Lenny Moore, Jim Taylor, Nick Pietrosante and Tim Brown — have played 10 years or more.

"I feel fit and look forward to playing for my old teammate, Dick Nolan," said the 31-year-old former Texas A&M star. "He comes from a winner and that gives some hope." Nolan, former assistant at Dallas, replaced Jack Christiansen, who coached the 49ers to a 7-7 record last season.

Crow came to the 49ers in 1965 from St. Louis and in the past three seasons has gained 1,470 yards rushing, caught 89 passes for 1,181 yards and scored 18 of his career total of 68 touchdowns.

IN VIETNAM

Crow told about his recent month-long goodwill visit to Vietnam and Thailand with Bill Brown of Minnesota, Andy Russell of Pittsburgh, Jack Kemp of Buffalo and Bob Bell of Kansas City.

"I thought it would be a fun trip," said Crow. "But we were lucky to get out alive."

They were caught in the attack on Saigon, said Crow, and spent a nervous four days on the second floor of a hotel hit by sniper fire.

"We would hit the floor and cover ourselves with mattresses, he said.

"We would be on the floor about 15 minutes but it seemed like a month."

Pittsburgh Bombs Oaks By 150-126

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Oakland's doormat American Basketball Association Oaks, fresh from a 150-126 beating in Pittsburgh by the Eastern Division leading Pipers last night, arrive here for a Wednesday night game with Indiana.

Indiana is third in the Eastern Division, while the Oaks are fifth in the Western Division.

The Pipers set a new ABA scoring mark as Connie Hawkins poured in 36 points. Previously the high mark was the 148 points Dallas scored against Anaheim.

Jim Hadnot, who paced the Oaks with 34 points, hit Craig Dill with an elbow and sent him crashing to the floor and to a hospital during rough action.

Bruins, Trojans Getting Closer To Showdown

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA's basketball squad demolished a good Washington State team last night and Southern California came from behind to whip Washington as both Los Angeles teams raced toward their Pacific-8 showdown on March 9.

The Bruins, the nation's second-ranked team, showed awesome scoring punch, using reserves freely, to subdue the Cougars 101-70 at Pullman, Wash.

Lew Alcindor went 11 minutes without scoring a basket but he blocked shots, grabbed rebounds, made assists and the Bruins led 49-38 at the half. Then Coach John Wooden went to his bench.

As a result, six Uclans scored in double figures—Alcindor with 20, Lucius Allen with 15, Mike Lynn 14, Kenny Heitz 12 and Jim Nielsen and Lynn Shackelford 10 each.

Gary Elliot scored 13 to lead the Cougars.

It was UCLA's 29th consecutive conference victory extending over three seasons and the team's 11th straight this season.

The Trojans stayed within striking distance of the top with a 76-68 triumph over the Huskies at Seattle.

Southern Cal and UCLA host California and Stanford this weekend.

Sportsmen Urged To Help Save Clear Lake Fish From Pollution

STEVENS

At times it takes drastic action to awaken people to a threatened danger. At times such a danger can be lessened by the concerted action of those awakened. At times, though, the danger has mounted beyond the point where immediate attention is of any avail.

A case in kind is the plight of our second largest natural lake—Clear Lake.

Here is a report I have received: Clear Lake is now polluted.

"At the shoreline the ducks peck at the little flecks of maggots on the floating algae and each time the waves roll back you can see a black mass of organic mud just below the surface.

"The coves are clogged with rafts of rotting driftwood — the trimmings from the orchards in the lowlands plug debris from the forest fires in the hills where erosian has ripped away the topsoil."

Has the danger progressed to the point of no return? Perhaps not. Perhaps an influx of clear, cold water, combined with the removal of all or most of the algae, can correct the condition. Let's hope so. It sure would be a major disaster if the pollution progresses to the maximum where the fish life no longer populate Clear Lake.

That it isn't too late is more or less indicated by the fact that the present polluted condition has taken place annually for many years. Many times it has been pointed out that the presence of algae in great quantities has not been at all unusual. That, in late spring and summer, the water transfusion has done away with the algea — the lake becomes the wonderful scenic body of water populated with a great many game fish. One thing is certain, however: A barrage of correspondence should be directed to all legislators, the Fish and Game Commission, the Governor and all others who have it in their power to correct a state of pollution that threatens dire results.

Ray Bartleson, Castro Valley Rod and Gun Club, sent the following results of salmon fishing outside the Golden Gate by the Lions Club members of Hayward: "Saturday, the 17th was, as most of you know, a real washout. Waves 20 to 30 feet high. Results were a lot of black-and-blue marks and just a few flounders. Sunday, however, was almost a perfect day for salmon trolling. Charles Winer brought aboard three fish, 7½, 8½, and 9½ pounds. Red Hanson and friend took two salmon each over 10 pounds; Hal Larson landed the largest, a 13½ pounder. All salmon were taken in the Duxberry Reef area."

It's getting so that amendments to the firearms law keep popping up. The latest is one made by Mr. Dan Rostenkoskin. One wonders when, if ever, some concrete steps be taken to once and for all enact a nation-wide firearms law.

It has been suggested that youngsters destined to be shooters of game or on the target range, be supplied with one of the air rifles now in vogue. A Daisy-Haddon release tells of a 'Quick Skil' kit now on display in many sporting goods store.

This kit comes in a package deal — An adult size Daisy 50-shot BB gun, approved shooting glasses, special ammo, official aerial targets, and an authorized instruction manual. If you are interested, get further details for a kit from the Daisy-Heddon Rogers, Arkansas, 82756.

Marin Boys Win Ice Hockey Upset

Marin Pee Wee 'B' team upset Walnut Creek 4-3 Sunday night at Walnut Creek in junior ice hockey competition.

Danny Lucia scored two Marin goals, assisted by Pat McPartlan and Chad George. McPartlan scored the third goal, assisted by Lucia, and Maury Carmody scored the final goal with assistance by Gene Presley and Mike McPartlan.

Main goalie Dennis Shaffer had 11 saves.

Giants All-Time Champs In N.L.

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP) —It's official — the start of another major league baseball season is at hand.

Teams, of course, are starting spring training but when the National League Green Book arrives in press association and newspaper offices, radio and television stations the cry of "play ball" can't be far away.

To the uninitiated the Green Book is the league's annual compilation of facts, figures and items of historical interest for use by sports writers and radio and television baseball broadcasters.

NOT FOR SALE

Perhaps the only reason it isn't on the best seller list is that it is not for sale to the general public.

The book is put together by Dave Grote, the league's director of public relations.

The book, of course, contains the present rosters of all of the league's clubs but it's the facts and figures, going back to 1876, that offer the prize information for the lovers of baseball statistics.

For instance, since 1900 the Giants —a combination of New York and San Francisco —still lead the league. In those years they have won 5,740 games and lost 4,625 for a .554 percentage. Pittsburgh is close behind with a .552 mark on 5,415 victories and 4,961 defeats.

Of the clubs that have been in the league all that time, Philadelphia has the poorest record with 4,589 victories and 5,756 defeats for a .444 mark. Both Houston (.414) and the New York Mets (.331) have poorer marks for the seasons they have been in the league.

In all-time individual hitting, Willie Mays of the Giants is the only active player to lead in any category. He leads in home runs with 564 and slugging percentage with .583. Stan Musial still leads in seven categories, Honus Wagner in two and Willie Keeler in one.

Here are a few of the things about the 1967 season you perhaps don't know:

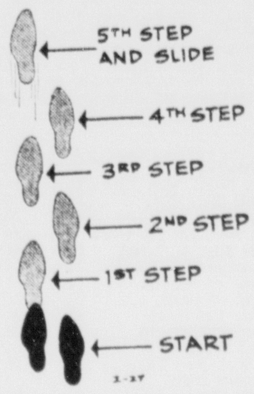
SLAMMER McCOVEY

Jim Bunning, now of the Pirates, led the league with shutouts with six; Willie McCovey of the Giants led in grand slam home runs with three; Glen Beckert of the Cubs was the toughest player to strike out, fanning only once for each 25.44 times at bat; Joe Morgan of Houston had the best record for not hitting into double plays, doing so only twice all season.

San Francisco's pitchers had the best record for low-run games with 78 contests in which opponents were shut out or got only one or two runs; Cincinnati had the best record in double headers, winning three, splitting eight and losing nine.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARIAN LADEWIG



There is nothing wrong with the five-step approach, although I usually recommend the four-step for women. Adding a step is one means of building up speed for a bowler who needs such help. In the five-step method, the right-handed bowler starts with her left foot, of course. Each of the steps is slightly smaller than in the four-step, but you still end with a short slide as the ball leaves your hand.

Baseball Signups In San Anselmo

Signups for the San Anselmo Little League will be held at the Isabel Cook School Auditorium Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Boys between ages 10-12 are eligible for the program. The registration fee per family is $5, payable at signup time. At least one parent or guardian must appear with each boy along with a birth or baptismal certificate.

Tar Baseballers Cop Second Place

College of Marin baseball team started its 1968 baseball season in a big way.

The Tars got in five games in two days last week, getting second place at the Chabot Junior College Invitational Tournament for all their hard work, Friday and Saturday.

After being blanked, 6-0, by Laney in the opener, the Tars came back to whitewash Napa behind the three-hit pitching of veteran Jim Griffith.

They met up with Laney again Saturday morning, but this time the Tars were ready, getting a 10-inning 6-5 verdict and scoring the winning runs on two singles and an error in the tenth. Bill Poole pitched nine innings of three-hit ball for the Tars, who got two-hit performances at the plate from Fred Daniele, Pat Puccinelli and Joey Adam.

They ran into the host team in the finals and set Chabot down, 6-0, on a fine two-hitter by former Terra Linda Dave Beckley, while Kevin Wilson and Fred Daniele contributed two hits apiece and Ron Laruffa got three.

But the Tar luck ran out in the championship game as Chabot won, 8-5, getting the winning runs in a six-run second inning, which saw it score all the runs on just two hits. Tim Bryan got four hits for Marin.

Miss Bachrach Tops Marin Swim Team

Thirteen Marin Swim Club swimmers placed in 17 events at the 38-team, 11th annual Alameda Air Station Invitational A Meet last Sunday.

Robin Bachrach was tops for Marin with two seconds and two fourths, a fifth and a sixth in the 13-14 age group.

Market Erases Loss, Then Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed higher today after erasing an early loss. Trading was fairly active.

Strength in glamor stocks and selected issues showed at the start and gradually fanned out, leaving a plurality of gainers.

The advance was irregular, however. Enough investment buying of blue chips materialized to give the Dow Jones industrial average a fairly good gain.

Occidental Petroleum (new), up more than a point, overtook Gulf & Western, a fractional gainer, as most active stock.

Also heavily traded, Control Data rose about 4; "Automatic" Sprinkler and Monogram Industries about 3 each; Allis-Chalmers, Republic Corp. and Federal Paper Board a point or more.

Bendix and General Dynamics were active losers of a point or so.

Anaconda and Phelps Dodge rose about a point each in a point each in a generally higher copper group.

The American Stock Exchange was generally higher.

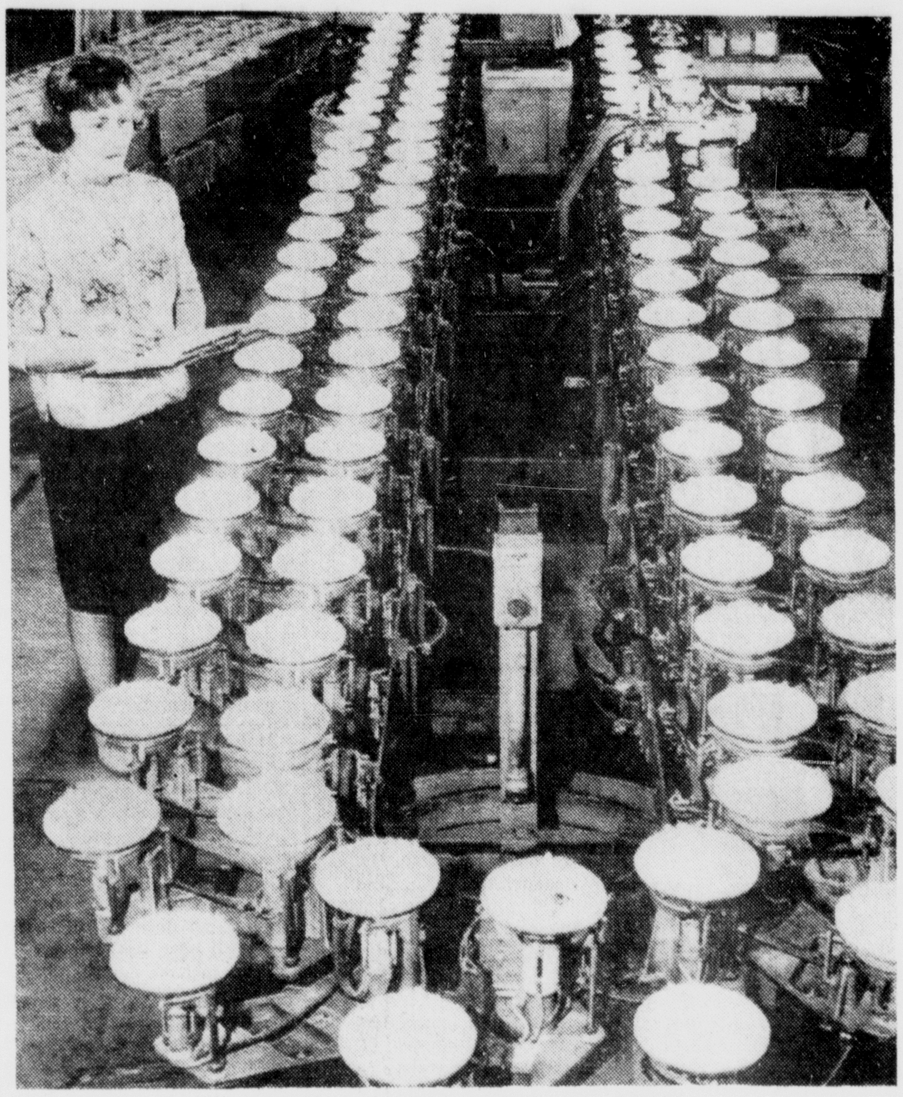
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —At a price described as slightly below the current market value, Del Monte Corp. has purchased a block of 744,000 shares of its own capital stock from United Fruit Co.



JUST MARCHING ALONG

New 'Guard-Glo' headlamps of Wagner Electric Corp., at Boyertown, Pa., make a two-minute trip past the critical game of an inspector prior to packaging. The new lamps have a safety filament that continues to provide a warning glow to oncoming drivers if the main filament burns out. The glow is visible at distances farther than 500 feet under normal conditions.
